ceeds, there is a race for concentration between the Boers and the British. The engagement with General Cronje's 5,000 to 8,000 entrenched men is likely to be come an incident in a battle between the nasses. The separated fractions of the Boer power are rapidly drawing together to attack Lord Roberts. Will General Cronje be able to hold out until the Boer masses appear, or, if does, will they then be able to succo him? The British are facing the Boers on ground where the arms, tactics and training of the British are expected to give them the advantage. General Buller, according to a despatch from Chievelcy, dated Wednesday, finds the Boers in positions north of the Tugela largely reinforced. This seems strange. The war office, for the first time, ha given out an official compilation of the British losses. The total is 11,208 to February 17. This does not include, 'there-fore, Lord Roberts' recent losses, nor the Wiltshire prisoners. The Retreat a Fine Performance. The Daily News has the following des patch from Modder River, dated Wednes day afternoon, Feb. 21:-"The British general sent a reply telling him to come into camp. Cronje refused, saying there had been a misunderstanding and that he would fight to the death. The bombardment was then reopened, and our lyddite shells set fire to the Boer wagons. We continued shelling the laager through

The rela tive position of the combatants is likene to chess players, one of whom, from tin to time, adds pieces to the board, while any loss to the adversary is irreplace The morning papers allude to the thoughtfulness of Lord Roberts in sending despatch to the Earl of Minto, the Canadian governor general. The military critic of the Times urgen the continuence of efforts to send more troops to South Africa, so as to be ready for the many difficulties that must surmounted even after Lord Roberts has

son, reviewing the military situation in the Morning Post, says:-"Lord Roberts, who was once an av-tillery officer, will take care that the artillery oncer, will take care that the ar-tillery fire is properly concentrated. Pro-longed shelling will compel the Boers either to hurl themselves at the British infantry in the hope of forcing their way out, or to surrender. "The best chance for General Cronje would be to make a night attack, but the bayonet will serve the British at night as well as by day. There are, of course, in war all sorts of chances. A party of Boers from the north or the south might conceiveably fall by surprise on some
