Head Rests Work, Insurance Study Shows

I've noticed that a number of drivers fail to make proper use of the head rests in their cars. Adjustable rests should be positioned so they are level with the back of the head. There's little point in leaving them down at seat-top level if the driver's or front seat passenger's head is several inches higher. To be effective the head rest should be even with the head.

Studies by the Insurance Institute of Highway Safety show that head rests are truly effective in preventing whiplash injuries. The extensive research project found that proper use of head rests substantially reduced whiplash injuries in rear-end accidents.

Datsun — The Family Car and Rally Champ

Canadian Rally Champion Again — Datsun
The recently announced totals in the manufacturers' scores for rallies of the Canadian Automobile Sports Clubs showed Datsun on top for 1971. Datsun scored 1,986 points in the National Marques Championship; second was Fiat with 448; third, Renault with 245; fourth, Chrysler with 143; and fifth, Toyota with 136. Rallying demands a rugged, top performing car matched with a driver and navigator team capable of taking the car over difficult routes in specified times. It's not a race of speed, but a competition of skill and endurance. Congratulations to the drivers of Datsuns and to the hundreds of others who contribute to making a great sport of rallying.

Drivers and pedestrians should remember that roads are much more dangerous after a thin powdering of snow, or ice, than they are after a heavy snowfall.

Watch for our next Import Auto Talk, March 2nd.

And she flies through the air. One of the Waterloo divers soars in last weekend's Ontario swimming and diving championships at Tait Mackenzie. Cathy Lane was York's top performer. Rookie sparks basketball to 85-62 victory

By RON KAUFMAN

Bob Pike came off the bench Wednesday night to lead the Yeomen to a 85-62 win over the Ryerson Rams. The rookie forward from Newtonbrook hooped 19 points in the OUAA league encounter. He was followed by Alf Lane (18), Ed Talaj (11) and Butch Feldman (10). Ian Johnson led the Rams with 17 points.

The victory left York with a 7-3 record in league play while the Rams stretched their winless streak to 10 straight.

In this match the Yeomen played an uninspired brand of ball as they performed only as well as they had to. Leading 42-28 at the half, Coach Bob McKinney subbed frequently throughout the remainder of the game.

KAUF-DROPS ... results of last night's game at U of T will appear in next week's column ... Tomorrow night the Yeomen travel to Queen's for their final regular-season match ... York defeated Queen's by 28 points back in November. However, the Gaels defeated league-leading Laurentian in Kingston and are known to be tough on their home court.

BULLETIN

Queen's defeated Ottawa at Queen's last weekend. Therefore the quarter final game will probably be played at York on Tuesday at 8:15.
