

the question

By RICHARD UNDERHILL

Did the high rate of unemployment influence you to attend university?

Harman Thind, Science I

"No, I just want to further my education. It's a step in getting a job, sure, but that's not the main reason I'm here."

Barbara Orlando, Urban Studies II

"No, the fear of employment keeps me here! I don't want to leave yet, but I hate the phrase 'professional student.'"

Mark Sepic, Music III

"No. A desire to improve myself and my musical ability motivated me to come to school."

Anna Sinicope, Arts I

"Not at all. I'm not even thinking about getting a job right now. Yes, university will help me beat unemployment, but that's in the future."

Sherman Roberts, Psych I

"No, not really. I could've had a full time job this fall, but I thought I could do better. I want to see a couple of letters after my name."

Dave Getchel, Music III

"Employment forced me to come. My mother was so well employed that she made too much money this year, so to get a big grant, waiting till next year wouldn't be practical."
