

July 31, 1939.

W. J. Egan, Esq.,
Deputy Minister of Immigration,
Ottawa, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Egan:

Mr. Mackenzie King's nephews, the twin sons of ^{late} his brother, Dr. D. Macdougall King are coming to spend a week or two with the Prime Minister at Kingsmere. Their names are Lyon King and Arthur King, aged sixteen.

These boys leave Denver next ^{Friday evening} Saturday morning,

August 3, and arrive in Toronto on the Canadian National Railway train which reaches there ^{from Chicago} ~~at 9:25 a.m.~~ Monday, August 4. You were good enough to say that you would send down word to the border so that "everything would be made easy" in connection with the usual interview with the Immigration inspectors.

Perhaps I should state that the boys were born in Canada, and went with their mother when one year old to Denver. They are returning to Denver after their holiday here.

Yours faithfully,

W. H. Measures,

Private Secretary.

x The port of entry would be Sarnia, would it not?
