whose course of their eventful lives did Martha chide her beloved one with the stinging memory of "that cherry tree episode," not even when he treaded on the elaborate train of her gorgeous ball gown.

Gertrude Golligan, Detroit, and Mary McKenna, of Green Bay, Wis., made a decidedly handsome showing as John Adams and Lady.

Colonel Carvel and Lady. Vera Gosnell, Victoria, B. C., and Marion Peck, Windsor, Ont.,—were most picturesque. In every detail their costumes were perfect.

President of Congress, John Haneck,—Laura Modonald and Olive Mather—were among the most fuscinating in their attire, while their charming manner won them many compliments. Revival services will be conducted by Staff Captain Manton of Toron-to, at the Salvation Army Barracks, beginning to-night. The staff cap-tain is the oldest officer in the Sal-vation Army in Canada.

The civic ray sheets for the past week amounted to $90.42. The snow storm at the beginning of the week was restorable to a considerable extent for the increase in the amount this week.

Delightful Function at the

The daughters of good Uncle Sam gave their Canadian Cousins an ever emorable evening of pleasure on eorge Washington's birthday, at "The Pines." Each anniversary the girls from over the border" celebrate with great enthusiasm the tricolored twenty-second, but not for many a day have all entered into the pirit of the occasion quite as heart-

The assembly hall at the Academy as elaborately decorated with red, white and blue bunting. This, with a profusion of star spangled banners, to say nothing of the color with which the dance music glowed, bespoke the arder of patriotism - the spirit of "Old Glory."

"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," then the grand march from "Belasario," ushered into the hall in stately procession about one hundred and wenty-five elegantly gowned girls. On the main platform were seated the teachers' staff and guests from the city, to whom were introduced the different characters as they slowly marched by.

A Painter Killed.

Hamilton, Feb.24.—Harry Rousseaux, 469 East King Street, a painter, fell from a scaffold at the Westinghouse factory yesterday morning and was hurt so badly that he died about an hour after. He fell only 12 feet, but he fell headfirst, and slighted on a cement floor. Ha was 24 years of as Prosecution for Smoke Nuisance Ro-striction of British Commerce. Martin, A. Brisson.

The dancing kept up for about three hours, after which lunch was served in the Academy refectories; then the gay throng of girls once more assembled in the large music hall to join in the chorus of "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," and the glorious day had ended, with promise of another good old time in the Academy hall on February 22nd, 1906. Detroit, Feb. 24.—Yesterday the smoke nuisance cases were called against the Michigan Central, Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railroads, that complaint in each case originating from the volumes of smoke the transfer boats poured out while trying to crash their way through the ice.

The C. P. R. presented questions entirely new in this State, and which were set for hearing on March 16. The defence was that the C. P. R. boat is a British ship, sperated under British rules, and that the smoke ordinance as applied to it amounted to an unreasonable restriction of international commerce. GOOD APPOINTMENT

It is understood that Mr. John Davidson, of Thamesville, will be apointed governor of the gaol at Chatham, a rosition made vacant by the death of Robert Mercer, the late governor. Mr. Davidson has been a governor. Mr. Davidson has been a resident of Thamesville for thirty years, and hos been councillor and reeved of that village, also serving four years as county commissioner. He was warden of Kent in 1901, and in 1902 contested East Kent in the Liberal-Conservative interest, Mr. Davidson, who is in the prime of life, is well qualified for the josition of governor of the goal, and his are former of the goal, and his are former of the goal, and his are former of the goal and his are former. is well qualified for the rosition of governor of the goal, and his arrointment we believe will give satisfaction throughout the county and be rarticularly pleasing to the people of Thamesville and vicinity.—Ridgetown Dominion. Hon. Mr. Tarte Marries.

Ottawa, Febb. 24.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte was married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Mrs. Turcette, who, for some years has been engaged on the clerical staff of the Public Works Department. The ceremony took place at the Basilica. Fred Gelinas, secretary of the Public Works Department, was best man. The bride was given away by her father, B. Laurencelle.

The Wondergat.

The Easy Chair, the new weekly journal, "for all and singular," published in England, contains an interesting article on the Wondergab, so-called by the Boer to, express him marvelous wonder and meaning "Wonderhole." It like about half-way between Mafeking and Malmani, and is kituated just within the Transvaal. A dense tract of forest conceals it from view, as though nature were struggling to shut out this awe-in-spi ing masterpiece of her handi-work from the ken of man. Its opigin is the subject of many vague-theories; but its chief mystery lies in the facts which surround its existence and the many legends of it astold by the Boer farmers in the district. The simple folk say that it is the crater of an extinct solcano, and that "bottom" will only be found-somewhere in the very bowels of thoearth. The contention is not fen the lay mind; it is geologists work; one-thing is certain, although many efforts have been made to faltiom the depth, "bottom" has never been reached. This is accounted for by the fact of a fierce current existing somewhere in the depths.

The Wondergat is only the largest, most observe, of a chair of holes which run north and south, at intervals varying between fifteen and one-hundred miles and this fact lends. ommerce.
The other roads asked for more time. Palmerston Station Gutted.
Palmerston, Feb. 24.—The G. T. R. station here was badly gutted by fire on Wednesday night. The building

The building was heated by steam car-ried from the roundhouse by under-ground pipes, and lighted by electric light. The baggage room and express office are not injured.

which run north and south, at intervals varying between lifteen aid openunded miles; and this fast lendes color to the belief in the existence of an underground channel. The other holes are chiefly pools of wast lepth, or deep pits in the open willt. A story is told of Boer ingenuity in attempting to solve the underground river theory. Two young farmers conceived the idea of sinking cork. Obtaining a portion of a life-belt they painted it in such a manner as be becasily recognizable, and secured it to a stone by a long piece of this twine. Their idea was that by sink-ing this in such a stone by a long piece of this twine. Their idea was that by sinking this in such a manner the action of the water, or the strength of the current, or perhaps the rocks at the bottom, would sever the steins. The cork released would be washed away, but would travel with a rising tendency. At the first outlet it would rise to the surface. The cork was ultimately found floating in another hole twenty-eight miles south of the Wondergat.
