JUNE 17, 1922

CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN

THE COMMON TOUCH I would not be too wise—so very wise That I must sneer at simple songs That I must sneer at simple songs and creeds, And let the glare of wisdom blind

my eyes To humble people and their humble needs

I would not know too much-too much to smile, As trival errors of the heart and hand Nor be too proud to play the friend the while, And cease to help and know and understand.

I would not care to sit upon a throne

Or build my house upon a mountain-top, Where I must dwell in glory all alone And never friend come in or poor man stop. God grant that I may live upon this spel earth

face the tasks which every And morning brings.

And never lose the glory and the worth

Of humble service and the simple circumstance renders escape imposthings. -EDGAR A. GUEST

OLD LETTERS

They lie in neatly-folded piles in attics, locked securely away from the rude gaze of those who would not appreciate the secrets which they contain. Stored away in trunks, in disused bureau drawers and the remote pigeon-holes of desks,—years pass and they remain untouched. A pale sickly hue steals over their pure countenances. They turn from saffron to brown, and sometimes a light mould creeps over the faded inscriptions traced by careful pens in the long ago, when the old aristocratic chirography was in vogue, and to write a poor hand was almost as bad as not to write at all. When letter-writing was an art as needle-work or any other of the more delicate arts. Now letter-writing, like embroidery of the early type, has nearly passed away. the stress of modern life In people give themselves scant time to put their thoughts into shape. modern invention of the tele phone, that boon to mankind since we must accomplish so much in a limited space of time, has done much to eliminate the old-time correspondence which was apt to "I take my pen in hand." -People do not take time to think nowadays, and there is little opportunity to cultivate the friendship of literature as in the long ago. Penmanship has suffered somewhat from the ravages of phonography if we write at all we must write with speed, and speed is not generally on equal terms with beauty of thought Recently a busy man of the world received a letter from an old schoolmate from whom he had not heard in a long time. In responding to I often sit and tink how nice 'twould this letter, he made the significant remark : "Your letter was a remark : "Your letter was a delight. I had really thought that the art of letter-writing was a lost art, and that no one wrote letters any more ages, whose noble intellects bowed humbly before the great simplicity of Christian truths. 'Lady, I gave you the change-two cents. You had the pennies in your hand when you put the cover over the dog." "Oh, the little prevaricator ! Did you hear what he said, Mildred ? Give me my change at once, my boy, or I will have you arcested." Tony shook his head. He knew he had given her the change, but he on the day that she was seven years This is your birthday, and you say that you mean to be a nun ! was so interested in the attention lavished upon the dog that he did not notice what she did with it. If Well we must begin right away—" And then in his sweet way he tells the little one that in order to begin it were his own money he would be I would not care to climb so high to be a nun, she has only to learn glad to give her another two cents

I would not care to chimb so high to be a hun, she has only to learn that I Could never hear the children at their play,
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they say.
Could only see the people passing by, Yet never hear the cheering words they s angrily. Another spell of cougling kept the boy from answering. "Do you see his trick, Mildred? He is death and long after the death of the holy man who wrote, was pretending to cough ? Here.

deemed worthy of a page in his officer beautiful "Life." What is the trouble ?" Officer Witness the glowing descriptions of nature penned by a man already far from his sunny home in France, Carney demanded, as he ran toward them

"He is a thief," she pointed to about to begin his last martyrdom : "Without doubt the country is beauthe boy. He refuses to give me my change. "Well, Tony ?" the officer detiful, as you say. The heavens are high above us, the earth is verdant, manded.

"I gave her the change-two cents," he insisted, gasping from the sea wonderful in its depths,—but more beautiful is the Creative Hand weakness which formed all these things." And then he goes on to describe the Two cents!" the man shouted.

And then he goes on to describe the touch of that Hand on the throbbing pulse of Nature, the stilling of her restless impulses under its magic spell. Hwo cents: the han should. 'I thought perhaps 'twas a ten dollar bill you were making so much fuss about !'' indignantly. "I gave him a nickel. It isn't cent !

asked

there-gave you.

could I have done it ?" Tony opened his eyes.

that ran down his cheeks as he looked at the little pinched face, so beautiful in the sleep of death. A gasping choking noise caused

THE STORY OF A

CONVERSION

festation of grace from Almighty God. Harbor Island has a population of about 2,000 persons, not one

The visit of the Archbishop of Many sweet errands of charity have been worked through the in-strumentality of letters. To those who are sick or sad, who are conthrust his hand into a pocket and drew out a dime. "Here's your two fined in a narrow sphere from which sible,—how many a bright ray of hope has been infused through the cents, madam, with interest. The boy's all right, and sick, too. I know his family. He's honest medium of a gracious letter ! Truly know his family. kind letters may be compared to the through and through.

The angels, being messengers of goodwoman's face flamed in wrath.

will to men. There are letters left behind which tell of yearnings in many a human breast for the sympathy which was denied during their brief earthly pilgrimage. There are longings for something higher, something nobler than they have known, and the way to which is blocked by unnumbered obstacles. It was a favorite axiom of a great

It was a favorite axiom of a great Glancing again at the child's face. nan that one should always make he saw a faint little smile curve the a point of saying at least one beauti-ful and elevated thought in every boy's thin lips, wrinkling the chin, mounting up past the vivid, red spots on the cheeks, till the black eyes caught and held the glow, so letter which he wrote, even though the correspondence be of the briefsuch like the faint ray of sunshine earth old letters, too beautiful to have been destroyed, and go over "That's right boy I like to them in some quiet moment. They bring kind thoughts, sometimes that smile." "Oh, I'd almost forgotten we were going to the chief. I got to thinking of what Father Martinelli reproachful thoughts—they whisper to us to "go and do likewise."—The old me last week. I'm thinking of it most all the time, now 'What did he tell you ' "I was so discouraged. I heard TRY TO BE THE FELLOW THAT the doctor tell Vanni it wouldn't do any good to send me to a farm pain's all here," he pointed to his chest. "They don't know, at home, that I heard Vanni talking to the While walking down a crowded city street the other day, I heard a little urchin to a comrade doctor, so I didn't dare cry or say nothing 'cause they would feel so bad, and they're all good and kind to me. But I was scared and disap-pointed. I always thought I'd get well and he a pricet like Ether turn and say : "Say, Jimmie, don't you know I'd If I only was de feller dat me mudder tinks I am.

well and be a priest, like Father Martinelli, and try to help all the poor people just like he does. And poor people just like he does. And then to hear that I could only live a little while ! I went to church-and Father found me there and took me into his house. I told him the chief city of the Bahamas, was the scene last year of a direct maniall about it, and do you know what be, ge whiz ! If a feller was de feller dat his he said ? The child's black eyes danced So, folks be yours a life of toil or with pleasure and excitement.

"Tell me what he said, Tony."

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

Rather than Sacrifice Quality

As the result of the abnormally high prices prevailing for tea on the market today, we have been forced to advance the price of our popular "SALADA" Brown Label Blend to 65c. per pound-Prices of

BLUE, RED AND GOLD LABELS ARE UNCHANGED

A sudden spell of coughing stopped grace and favor. He immediately him. A stream of red, blood red, that would match in color the petals of that rose stained his lips and clothes as he sank into the officer's arms. began preparations to open a Cath-olic mission on Harbor Island, and last November he purchased suit-able property for a church, a subofficer's arms.

stantial stone building, advantage-After they had made the boy comously situated on a prominent street, fortable on a hastily improvised couch, Officer Carney turned to which was quickly converted into a school and chapel. look at the woman. She moved Both school and chapel were Both school and chapel were formally opened on Feb. 2, the thirty-first anniversary of Father Chrysostom's arrival in the colony. Sisters Giovanna, Catherine and Agatha of the Sisters of Charity of of Mount St. Vincent on the Hudson, were introduced to the mission by Assistant Mother M. Regina accom-paried by Sister Marig Rose and uneasily under his stern gaze and nervously shifted the dog to another position. Something dropped from the folds of the dog's blanket and fell upon the floor. It was a copper cont 1. nt! Then another dropped ! "Two cents !" cried the officer. "The two cents that Tony said he panied by Sister Maria Rose, and the school, which is to be a select school, was opened on the above "They must have caught in Fido's cover," she tried to explain. Then, overcome by the horror of what she had just done, she threw the date with an enrolment of twenty-two non-Catholic pupils, and bright poodle from her in disgust. "What have I done ?" she moaned. "How prospects of an increase to fifty or sixty in the near future. The house of two devout Catholic converts Miss Clotilde Johnson and Miss Rita

"Shall I take you home, little Tony, home to mother ?" the officer Thompson, was placed at the dis-posal of the Sisters as a temporary convent. A large and commodious store building is in process of recon-Home ?" the child repeated, as his lips parted in a wondrous smile. struction as the future St. Vincent's convent and school. The church is dedicated to the Blessed Sacra-Yes, I'm going home-home-up there-to my Heavenly Motherwith a rose—a big, red rose—for the Sacred Heart !" ment, owing to the remarkable circumstance of the first conversion 'Dear little Tony, 'tis a beautiful from which others so rapidly follittle rose you have for the Sacred Heart today," murmured Officer Carney, unashamed of the tears lowed .- The Sentinel of the Blessed Sacrament.

LACORDAIRE ON THE CHURCH

him to turn to the woman. She stood there, white-faced and stricken dumb, with eyes full of unspeakable misery gazing at two It was during one of his Confer-ences at Notre Dame in Paris, that the great figure of the Catholic Church presented itself suddenly copper cents upon the floor. "A rose for the Sacred Heart, little Tony," repeated the officer, "and for that woman a thorn, a big, to the mind of Lacordaire. He took possession of it as one of the most striking arguments in favor of Catholic doctrine, and in a magnifiterrible, piercing thorn that will prick her heart until her dying day !"—Catholic Bulletin. cent outburst cried :

"Every century, jealous of a glory which disdains the passing baubles of the world and its puppets, has come knocking at the or of the Vatican, trying to make a fatal thrust at the Church per nated by the frail figure of an

New York has reverled a remark-able story of conversion on one of the islands of the Bahama group, old man robed in white. And the Church, in person of this old Man, has asked, 'What do Harbor Island, which is situated about sixty-seven miles from Nassau, And the reply has ever been

'Change. "But I do not change.

The centuries have said : "But everything in the world has changed! Astronomy has changed;

	Board of Directors :
Preside	No. M. J. O'BRIEN Ren Vice - Presidents :	trew.
J. LYONS E. P. GO Ottawa Toron W. ROBERTSON Monitreal P. V. BYRNES	UGH A. E. PROVOST to Ottawa J. J. SEITZ Toronto J. J. McFADDEN	N. W. TOBIN, N. F. Bromptonville GORDON GRANT, C. M. Ottawa
Hamilton W. H. McAULIFFE Ottawa	J. F. BROWN	HUGH DOHMSTY Montreni JOSEPH GOSSMIIM, M.
COL. D. R. STREET Ottaws J. B. DUFO Ottawa	F. J. B. RUSSILL Toronto ORD COL. L. T.	Quebec T. P. PHELAN Toronto MARTIN
Managing Director Assistant Gen. Mana Manager Toronto Bra	ger E. T. B.	E. G. CONNOLLY PENNEFATHEE MAS COSTELLO
Free advice given on	WORK IS EXECUTOR all financial matters. Co awa, or to Temple	OF WILLS

The first Christians had all "For the motives of a man's things in common, as we read in the actions, hear his friend; for their Acts of the Apostles; but when that equality of possessions ceased, —Guesses at Truth. as it did even in the Apostles' time, the agapae, or love-feast, was sub-stituted in the stead of it. Upor certain days, after partaking of the Supper of the Lord, the Christians met at a common feast in some large room, the rich bringing pro visions, and the poor, who had nothing, being invited. This meal was a symbol of brotherhood and Christian fellowship .- St. Chrysostom.

Conital Truch

A. 1

Recurring headaches usually come from an exhaustion of the nervous system, and they do not disappear until the vigor of the nerve cells is restored by such upbuilding treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Temporary relief by use of powders is often obtained at an enormous expense to the nervous system and the general health.

Get the nerves right and the headaches will not return. Mrs. W. J. Pearse, Nunn St.,

Cobourg, Ont., writes:

"My system became run-down and] by system became run-down and I suffered greatly with pain in my head. This was so severe that I would have to bind a cloth tightly about my head so that I could get my work done. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after taking the first box I found quite an improvement in my confound quite an improvement in my con-dition. I continued using them until 1 anon. I continued using them until I had taken about seven boxes, and they strengthened and built up my system splendidly, completely relieving the pain in my head."

Drem

Cords

THE TIRE SENSATION OF 1921

WILL BE YOUR CHOICE FOR 1922

SEVEN

old :

will to men.

est kind.

Pilot

Fortunately for us, there are many interesting specimens of letters extant, some of which have been collected into volumes, and we know from experience how fascinating such a collection can be. In the biographies of great men who have left behind them indelible traces of their brief passage through life, we come across frequent charming bits of personal correspondence which serve as no other item account of the serve account of the ser serve as no other item as an index of the writer's character.

Unfortunately there sometimes creeps into such a collection letters Scouts, and this afternoon he is which should have been destroyed, which introduce a discordant element into a story otherwise flawless and inimitable. We like the truth about our heroes, but sometimes a very little may be omitted with discretion.

"The written letter remains." The old wise adage might often have been put to more popular usage and the world have benefited "Yes thereby.

"Yes, sir." "Well. I'll try to keep an eye over "Such and the world away, a car containing two ladies stopped at the curb. "Give me a Post, boy," one called to Tony. "How much? Three cents? Here, Mildred, hold Fido for a minute. Oh, here's a mankind owes to the kindly cheer-ful letters of those beautiful souls who walked a short while among us and passed on. In the letters of poets, of novelists, of men of science, of Saints, — how much we have gained by the outpouring of the whole soul on the written sheet! How many a one, struggling against a swift current of despair, be how mengend have benefted "Well. I'll try to keep an eye over "As the officer turned away, a car containing two ladies stopped at the curb. "Give me a Post, boy," one called to Tony. "How much? Three cents? Here, Mildred, hold Fido for a minute. Oh, here's a mickel," she exclaimed, after con-siderable fumbling in a bag. "Now, give me imy dear little doggie, Mildred. Poor little darling, I fear he has taken cold. I must wrap his blanket about him. Now, we are ready to go. Oh, the change —my change, boy !" With eyes that fairly bulged in surprise and indignation, Tony

How many a one, struggling against a swift current of despair, has been encouraged by the kindly suggestion of a letter, and how many a one, endeavoring vainly to prograes, amid the composition that mothers in many a one, endeavoring value to progress amid the commonplace things of life, has been renewed in trust by the sympathy of a kindly written word! And what grand inspirations have come to all of us from the faded pages of old tetter nenned by the wiesst men of the sector of the sec letters penned by the wisest men of hear ? Give me my change.'

You still can learn a lesson from the small, unlettered boy ; Don't try to be an earthly saint, with eyes fixed on a starheavenly home until my work was

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

YOUR MOTHER THINKS

YOU ARE

be happy as a clam,

"She tinks I am a wonder, and knows her little lad

Would never mix wit not in' dat was mudder tinks he is."

undiluted joy, done here, and by being patient when the pain's so bad and helping mother all I could. I was making a big bouquet of red roses to carry to Just try to be the fellow that your mother thinks you are.

POOR LITTLE TONY

the Sacred Heart when I went to Heaven. "A beautiful thought," said the officer, huskily. "Father said each good deed, each pack over his bent shoulders. "This is Vanni Maestro's place."

pain endured with patience, for His sake was a rose for the Sacred Heart, and I've such a little time to "Please, sir, I'm Vanni's brother. He's one of Father Martinelli's Boy finish my bouquet. And this trouble now, don't you think it will be selling Thrift Stamps, and I'm just taking his place. . . ." A sudden and severe spell of another rose coughing interrupted the explana-

Surely it will, Tony. Another rose—and a thorn." "A thorn !" cried the boy, in dis-tress. "Oh, not a thorn for the Sacred Heart." The rose is for the Sacred Heart, tion. "Ah, I know. You're little Tony." He looked with pity upon the white pinched features, with the deep spots of red on either the deek. "Will Vanni be here soon?" Tony, and the thorn will one day prick the heart of that woman," he "Yes, sir." "Well. I'll try to keep an eye over pointed toward the curb where the woman, still holding the dog, awaited their coming in front of the station.

Officer and boy, followed by the woman, entered the chief's presence. Somehow, Tony had lost all fear. His thoughts were centered on the huge bouquet he was making daily, through patience and suffering, for the Sacred Heart, and today, by en-during this injustice with humility, he could add another rose, a great velvet rose, to the bunch. A smile played about his lips, his eyes had a faraway look.

"An extra rose," he muttered, "for the Sacred Heart !"

the break into his prayerful reverie. "Two cents, two cents, two cents," buzzed about his ears. What were they saying? What about two cents? Then, suddenly, same loving the he remembered. "I gave the change—two cents— to her," he pointed to the woman who held the dog. "But the rose— the rose—the big, red rose. ..." for the church by a ther Chrysostom, to whom yshe applied for spiritual guidance. Father Chrysostom recog-nized in the conversion of Miss John-son a direct manifestation of God's as changed-why are whom was a Catholic. One of "He said I would not go, to my the inhabitants of the island, Miss you always the same?" avenly home until my work was Clotilde Johnson, a devout Metho-"Because I come from the same of the island of the same of the island of the same?" "Because I come from God, Who dist, and a school teacher, is always the same ! chanced "But you know that we are masters; we have a million men in to read an article on the Blessed Sacrament, and became instantly convinced of the truth of the Real arms; we wield the sword which breaks thrones, which is able to remove the head of an earthly ruler Presence. This young lady had never come and to tear apart the leaves of books

"So be it! Blood is the mys-terious and sacred Fluid which has regenerated me !"

"Ah, well, here is half my purple !" Accept it as a concession

This young lady had never come into contact with Catholics, and had never made a study of the teachings of the Church, so that her conversion is regarded as all the more remarkable. Not only did she herself receive the light of faith, but she was also instrumental in bringing the faith to others. Her Methodist pastor, hearing of her belief in the Real Presence in the Blessed Sacrament, sent one of the strong pillars of his church, a sort of woman missionary, to reason and pray with the young lady in an All, well, here is hair my purple !" Accept it as a concession to my ideals !" "Keep your purple, O Cæsar ! Soon it shall be interred beneath the earth, while the Church chants above you her Alleluias and De Profundis which remains the same pray with the young lady in an attempt to hold her to Methodism. What was the result? Before the young lady had an opportunity of "these facts of history. Today, entering the Church herself, the good woman sent to prevent her after so many futile trials, after so many efforts to obtain the mutilaconversion was herself converted to the True Faith, and had entered the tion of the dogma which unites usthe Church remains the same.

Sisters of St. Joseph as a novice, and is now laboring in one of the "But do you never race of gravite?" asks change, asks the world. southern States. The young lady's own brother Can you not sacrifice one of your doctrines to us, as for instance, sought to reason with her in the family's attempt to keep her in Methodism. But she answered all his arguments. Their arguments failing, some of the girl's friends fell to reviling her and her new religion. The brother then know eternity of pains, the Eucharist, the Divinity of Jesus Christ? Why still the Papacy? Why not embellish a little this gibbet which you call the Cross ?

So they speak, while the Cross looks down upon them, smiles, and weeps—but stands erect while the religion. The brother then, know-ing his sister's irreproachable character and recognizing the loftiness of her ideals, began to come under world revolves about it.

The Cross remains upright when Loud voices broke the stillness, but for some time they could not of faith himself, and as a consehuman things fall beside it, one by one. A strange and mighty force embodied in a single word—Credo quence, he is today a student for the priesthood at the Benedictine -holds it in its sacred place.

College at Collegeville, Miss. Miss Johnson was assisted in her So we are able to repeat to those who assail us, the words of Bossuet: study of the teachings and practises of the Church by Father Chrysostom, "You change! Then you have not the Truth, for the Truth is immutable

A miser hoards without gain ; a spendthrift spends without profit.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Newfoundland Representative :

will reduce them and leave no blemishes. Stops lameness promptly. Does not blis-ter or remove the hair, and horse can be worked. $2.50 abottle delivered. Book 6 R free. * ABSORBINE, JR., for mankind, the antiseptid Iniment for Boils, Bruises, Sores, Swellings, Varicose Veina, Allays Pain and Inflammation. Price $1.25 a botte at drugs plats or delivered. Will tell you more if you write,  Blay Mantand Canb W. F. YOUNG, Inc., 299 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Cana Absorbine and Absorbine, Jr., are made in Canada. Gerald S. Dovle, St. John's

