Questions and Answers

SCOPE OF A PATENT

Can a man make and use a machine that has been patented by others?

Sask. H. M. P.
Ans.—Yes, a patent is intended to secure to the holder the right to profit by the manufacture and sale of the article patented, but not to prevent others from making use of the idea for their private purposes. A case in point is the building of rail fences in Eastern Canada. A man devised a scheme whereby a straight rail fence could be built on top of the ground thus making a saving of materials and of post holes. A patent was given him for his fence, but it did not prevent other farmers building fences after his pattern, although the idea was sold wherever it could be before the matter was understood.

HEIFER GIVES BLOODY MILK

I have a two-year-old heifer that has given bloody milk off and on for the past six weeks. Sometimes the milk looks all right, and again it is quite bloody. She seems healthy and I cannot notice any swelling. The trouble started first in one teat, and has now spread to three. I am sending a sample of the milk for examination. What is the matter? Will she come all right, or had I better kill her?

Man. R. S. R.
Ans.—The bloody milk is due likely to the rupture of some of the small blood vessels in the udder. It may be caused by hereditary weakness of these vessels, and in such cases recurrence of the trouble cannot be prevented. Or again, it may be due to some injury to the udder, hooking by other cows, from being chased by dogs, etc. Bathe the udder well and often in cold water and give one ounce of tincture of iron in a pint of cold—but not ice cold—water twice daily until blood ceases to appear in the milk. We wouldn't kill her. If the trouble continues, or if it stops for a time and then returns, you may conclude that weakness of the blood vessels is the cause, in which case a cure cannot be expected, and she might as well be fattened up for the butcher.

PAYING FOR OXEN

I bought two steers and one cow this spring and gave a registered lien note for $168. The steers were valued at $70 each, and the cow with calf at $38. The steers were supposed to be three years old, but they now tell me one is past four and the other past five, am I bound to pay for them? The steers were sick as soon as I got them home, and they did not work all summer, except go to town which is eleven miles away five times, with empty wagon, and another journey of thirty miles. The real value of steers is about $30 each. I signed a blank lien note with just the $168 on it, and the party I bought the animals from got the rest filled out by a lawyer. What is my best course to take?

Sask. G. L.
Ans.—In business it is perfectly legal to get all one can for goods so long as he does not misrepresent them, and when the buyer is at liberty to verify statements as in the case of ages of cattle, there cannot very well be misrepresentation. Besides it is only hearsay that the ages are more than

Atkinson says:—"I take great pleasure in recommending this Rope Rimmed Collar to others as I have five in use now, and the last one I purchased has given me an extra horse to use as he was useless until I got the collar owing to a sweeney. Knowing that this testimony is going to be made use of, I take pleasure in stating that I have dealt with Mr. Stewart for the last three years and have found him reliable in every respect."
