TOMMY MAKES GOOD PRISONER SAYS OBSERVER

The daily life of the British war prisoners at work in the concentration camp at Dobertiz, the large open drill ground of Prussian troops twenty miles from Berlin, is described in a recent issue of the Vossische Zeitung received here. "Tommy," according to the German newspaper, shows no ill-feeling whatsoever toward his Prussian guards, and works well.

"Each gang is in charge of one of its own non-commissioned officers, and is superintended by a man of the Prussian Landwehr. Only the rank and file work; the non-commissioned officers, who, according to military prescriptions, cannot be required to work, stand about smoking cigarettes. Communication between the English and the Germans is carried on by signs, for not one of the 3,000 Englishmen at Dobertiz either speaks or understands a word of German."

The Vossische Zeitung states that the British prisoners do not get on well with the French and Russian prisoners at Dobertiz, and that there was also a distinctly hostile attitude between the English and Scotch prisoners on the one hand and the Irish on the other. The Superintendents, it says, were obliged to separate the men into regiments so that the Irish might work alone.

In Five Minutes No Sick Stomach Indigestion, Gas

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the Quickest and Surest Stomach Relief.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves, sour, out-of-order stomachs, or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the toilet with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

Sir Nigel

By A. Conan Doyle Copyright, 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

They had passed over the moors and through the village of Milford and the little township of Godalming, until their path turned southward over the Pease marsh and crossed the meadows of Shalford. There on the dark hillside glowed the red points of light which marked the windows of the house which they sought. A sallow-robed avenue of oak-trees led up to it, and then they were in the moon-silvered clearing in front.

From the shadow of the arched door they sprang two rough serving-men, bearded and gruff, great puddles in their hands, to ask them who they were and what their errand. The Lady Mary had slipped from her horse and was advancing to inquire, but they rudely barred her way. "Nay, nay, our master needs no more!" cried one, with a hoarse laugh. "Stand back, mistress, whoever you be! The house is full, and our lord sees no guests to-night."

"Fellow," said Nigel, speaking low and clear, "stand back from us! Our errand is with your master." "Behold you speak with his eyes upon Nigel. Edith laid her hand upon his shoulder. "This is the man I love, and the only man that I have ever loved. This is my husband."

At the word Mary gave a cry of joy. "And is it so?" she cried. "Nay, then all is in honor, and God will see to the rest. If you are man and wife before the altar, then indeed why should I, or any other, stand between you? Tell me that it is indeed you, and I return this moment to make your father a happy man."

Edith pouted like a naughty child. "We are man and wife in the eyes of God. Soon also we shall be wedded before all the world. We do but wait until next Monday when Paul's brother, who is a priest at St. Albans, will come to wed us. Already a messenger has sped for him, and he will come with me, my dear love."

"He will come," said the master of Shalford, still with his eyes fixed upon the silent Nigel. "It is a lie; he will not come," said a voice from the door. "It was the old priest, who had followed the others as far as the threshold."

"He will not come," he repeated as he advanced into the room. "Daughter, my daughter, hearken to the words of one who is indeed old enough to be your earthly father. He has ruined before you with it. The man has no brother at Saint Albans. I know his brothers well, and there is no priest among them. Before Monday, when the truth as others have done before you. Trust him not, but come with us!"

Paul de la Fosse looked up at her with a quick smile and patted the hand upon his shoulder. "Do you speak to them, Edith," said he.

Her eyes flashed with scorn as she surveyed them each in turn, the woman, the youth and the priest. "I have but one word to say to them," said she. "It is that they go hence and trouble us no more. Ask said that this is the only man I ever loved? I have loved him long. He did not know it, and in despair he turned to other women. Now he knows all and never again can doubt come between us. Therefore I will stay here at Shalford and come to Cosford no more save upon the arm of my husband. I am so weak that I would believe the tales you tell against him? Is it hard for a jealous woman and a wandering priest to agree upon a lie? No, no, Mary, you can go hence and take your cavalier and your priest with you, for here I stay, true to my love and safe in my trust upon his honor."

"Will spoken, on my faith, my golden bird!" said the little master of Shalford. "Let me add my own word to that which has been said. You would not grant me any virtue of yours, and yet you must needs confess that at least I have good store of patience, since I have not set my countenance against you, and you have dogs upon your feet, and you have jest perhaps there be more haste and less dignity when at last you do take your leave. Sit down, my fair love, and let us turn once more to our supper." He motioned her to her chair, and he filled her wine-cup as well as his own.

Nigel had said no word since he had entered the room, but his look had never lost its set purpose, nor had his brooding eyes ever wandered from the sneering face of the deformed master of Shalford. Now he turned with swift decision to Mary and to the priest.

"That is over," said he in a low voice. "You have done all that you could, and now it is for me to support you as well as I am able. I pray you, Mary, and you, good father, that you will await me outside."

BRITISH WARSHIPS THROUGH PANAMA

PANAMA, Nov. 9.—Panama Canal officials and members of the legation here say they have no information concerning the report that seven British dreadnoughts were in the Atlantic bound west, possibly with the intention of proceeding through the Panama Canal to Pacific waters. Col. George W. Goethals, governor of the Panama Canal zone, says he has heard nothing from Washington relative to the use of the canal by warships. The whereabouts of the German warships in the Pacific is unknown here.

Even Cross, Sick Children Love Syrup of Figs

If Feverish, Bilious, Constipated Give Fruit Laxative at Once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if a fig is coated; this is a sure sign his little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine, not your druggist for a so-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has direction for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.
