GODERICH, JULY 12, 1876.

The Centennial Celebration.

Tuesday of last week was a day full of interest to our American cousins, who on that occasion celebrated the hundredth anniversary of American independence, and with the energy characteristic of the people the patriotic demonstrations were brilliant as well as enthusiastic. The dawn of the second century of the great Republic's existence was heralded in the loudest tones of artillery, and, in New York State, where the action began the day, one of the most magnificent storms that we have seen burst forth, the lightning making the night brilliant with its vivid flashes while crashing peals of thunder drowned humble human efforts, giving forth a salute worthy of so important an event. During the day the celebration was carried out enthusiastically, and in a manner different from that in which we are accustomed to celebrate our national holiday (some of its elements we might copy, with benefit, such, for instance, as the forming of processions representing our chief commercial and manufacturing interests, and instilling a greater love of country into the minds of the rising generation by giving the school children a place among the public celebrants). Philadelphia was the centre of attraction, the demonstration there being in keeping with the position which it holds in connection with the centennial exposition. Throughout the Union the programme was very similar, and sacred and national music was rendered by the best singers, prayers offered in public by eminent divines, the declaration of independence read, the choicest gems of oratory which the country could produce lavished in praise of the country and in gilding the story of its wonderful progress, and the civic authorities, citizens, military and school children joined in immense triumphal processions in honor of the day. It was our pleasure to visit Buffalo on the day in question, and to witness the manner in which the day's programme was carried out. The procession was a grand affair, being over two miles in length, in which regiments of militia, companies of cavalry, batteries of artillery, German, French, Irish and other national benevolent and otherwise societies, Free Masons and Odd Fellows, trades and manufacturers of different kinds, school children and citizens took part. The school children presented a very pleasing appearance, being dressed in white dresses trimmed with the national colors, some representing the different States surrounding Columbia as the Goddess of Liberty and riding in gaily decorated cars. Quite a number of the children were dressed in the quaint but rather pretty costumes of "Ye olden time," and George and Lady Washington responded to the calls of their children by reappearing as a host of individuals. The progress of the country was represented, and in one car was to be seen the household of the hard working pioneer, the primitive mechanic in his workshop, and the early savage inhabitants of the country, while in another were to be seen the luxurious homes of the people of 1876, the complicated machinery and appliances to be found in our modern manufactories, or the peaceful and fruitful fields and thriving cities of the present. Attention was directed to the progress of the schools, and the old fashioned log school house of the infant days of the Republic appeared in strange contrast to the palatial, well organized schools now furnished for the education of the rising generation.

In the presence of such a display, it was natural that the immense concourse which witnessed its progress should have been stirred with deep enthusiasm and given vent to their pride of country in loud cheers. And in the presence of such an admirable manifestation, it is not to be wondered at that foreigners offered congratulations to these people and wished the country "God speed." The very fact that so many nationalities were represented by those who took part in the ceremonies was sufficient to incite a general sympathy, and those of the spectators who thought of a "dearer country" felt a friendly feeling for America which furnished homes for the crowds of population in foreign lands. The best elements of the country were brought out in the public representation, but a few intrusive spirits conspired to mar the success of the display, and in the line of carriages appeared gaudily painted vehicles displaying the advertisement of some cheap John or some wonderful panacea for "all the ills that flesh is heir to," while one car bearing the motto "Centennial Temperance" was fitted up as a bower, where a number of young men were seated about a table loaded with beer kegs and glasses drinking the health of the company. But these were features which, although causing some annoyance, were treated lightly. The people were good-natured, having dropped the cares of business and the exciting influences of the Presidential Campaign for a day, and the day passed off pleasantly, while the night brought out further manifestations of the popular enthusiasm in the private displays of fireworks made by the citizens.

Truly our cousins have occasion to be proud of the progress made by their country in the first century of its existence—a progress unparalleled, almost, in the world's history—and the congratulations which have been extended to them by other nations are in justice due them. A feature of their rejoicing, pleasing to Britons, was the almost entire absence of that disagreeable "spread eagleism" of speech which at one time was so common to American orators, and which was usually directed in bitter invective against Britain, and everything British. A new relation seems to have been established between the two countries, notwithstanding the present difference regarding the Ashburton Treaty, which it is hoped may ripen into an amicable and lasting friendship. It seems naught but right that all English speaking countries should be united; their views of the relative positions of church and state are alike, they regard schools and education as the great lever of civilization and their opinions are closely akin to each other, difference of opinion existing upon points which are no important barrier to the consummation of a great union. Universal suffrage in the United States is growing to be an unpleasant clause in the constitution to the more substantial portion of the population, and in our Mother Country popular opinion is tending to banish red tapeism from the land. The opposite elements of the English speaking people are gradually blending, and soon we may expect to see them entirely united.

The Grand Trunk and Great Western Railways have been attempting to make terms of settlement in which the latter offers to lease from the former in perpetuity, all their lines west of Toronto, including the Detroit and Sarnia, Buffalo and Lake Huron, their interest in the International Bridge, and part of their interest in the Toronto station at a minimum rent of $225,000 a year to be increased by $10,000 a year for every half per cent. per annum paid by the Canada (Great Western) on its ordinary stock up to 1½ per cent.; and by £20,000 for every half per cent. above 1½ per cent. per annum. The Grand Trunk in order to cure the evils of competition, and promote economy in working, proposed an amalgamation on the principle of the North Eastern. Neither proposal was satisfactory, the Grand Trunk considering the leasing project altogether one sided, as the western sections of the line are by far the most remunerative, yielding $760,000 while the whole line yields only £2,000,000 per annum. Amalgamation would probably be the best scheme for stockholders but the interests of the public are better served by competition, and in this section the want of competition with the Grand Trunk is felt bitterly, and hence the delight with which the Huron and Quebec scheme was hailed.

Mr. H. S. Watson, who lectured in this town last spring is never out of hot water, and evidently deserves the many hard rubs he gets. The following resolution speaks for itself:—"Whereas it has come to the knowledge of the Ottawa Baptist church, from various reliable sources, that Mr. H. S. Watson, one of its members, has, while lecturing on temperance in Western Ontario, brought the name of the Hon. A. Mackenzie, and his connection with this church before the public in a most disrespectful and unchristian manner; Resolved that this church does hereby express its strong disapproval of Mr. Watson's conduct in this peculiar, and, furthermore, that we wish the public to understand that Mr. Mackenzie's relations with this church have been of the most cordial character."

At the last meeting of Council Mrs. McDonald sent a communication to that body, offering for a market place, to dispose of the block bounded by Montreal, Elgin and Market streets, consisting of seven lots, together with the buildings thereon, subject to the right of removing Mr. Polley's stables, for the sum of $10,000, to be paid in debentures at twenty years bearing six per cent interest. There can be no doubt but this property is better suited in location than any other point that could be chosen, the only questions then that remain to be answered are, is the price asked a reasonable one, and are the terms suitable? is the town in a position to purchase such a property at present, or if the present market house (!) all that is needed both for ornament and use? Let the ratepayers answer.

The elections last week resulted in favor of the Opposition in North and South Ontario, by small majorities. In South Ontario the fact of Mr. Edgar not being a resident of the Riding went a great way towards his defeat, while in the North the friends of Mr. Currie seemed to be too sanguine of success and hence did not exert themselves as they otherwise would. In South Wellington Mr. Guthrie was elected by a good majority although his opponent, Mr. Goldie, is a leading man in the Riding and one highly respected by all shades and classes. Mr. Goldie is a Reformer but also a Protectionist.

The News.

Colonel Valentine Baker has grown very old and grey during his imprisonment, and his health is said to be much impaired. His term of imprisonment expires very shortly.

In each of its recent homeward voyages one ocean steamship company alone, the White Star line, has been conveying from 400 to 500 steerage passengers from the United States to England.

At a dinner given lately in Philadelphia by the Canadian Commission to the English judges, who have kindly undertaken some extra duties to oblige Canada, Col. Sanford, in reply to the toast of the British Commissioners, took occasion to say:—"England herself receives very favorable notice by visitors to this exhibition, but her colonies excite still greater admiration and surprise, and Canada in particular has well backed up the old land, and in one very important department, agricultural machinery, has very materially assisted in keeping up the credit of our foreign flag."

According to the latest returns, the liabilities of the great powers are as follows in round figures: Great Britain, £775,000,000; Austro Hungary, £362,000,000; Germany, £46,000,000; France, £939,000,000; Italy, £356,000,000; Russia, £380,000,000.

The receipts of the Centennial Exposition for the first month are estimated at $500,000. Should the same average be maintained the total receipts for the six months will be $3,000,000, exclusive of the sums received for ground rent and concessions, which will be $500,000 more. As the expenses will be $6,000,000, the present probability is a deficit of $2,500,000, or $1,000,000, more than the Government has invested in the enterprise.

The people of England are anxious about the Government's Eastern policy, and already agitation has begun for public meetings to discuss it. The papers will not be down for a week, and the question cannot be ventilated in Parliament till then.

A Times' correspondent says till the Montenegrin and Servian troops effect a junction the war between them and Turkey may be said to have hardly commenced. The present movements are for and against that end, but are of little moment.

Advices from the seat of war in Turkey of a late date are more favorable to the cause of the Servians, who have suffered several disastrous defeats during the past week. It is considered that the war has not yet really been begun.

ABOUT TOWN.

Go to D. G. Mostade, Hamilton st., and get an Elgin watch at the low cost of $25.

Farming Lands at $5 per acre can be had in Hensall, Stanley, Hibbert and Hay, in Huron County, Michigan.

Drunk.—James Jones, of Goderich, was brought before the Mayor on Monday, and fined $1 and costs for being drunk.

Pic-nic.—The Sabbath School children connected with the M. E. Church hold a pic-nic and strawberry festival on Thursday (to-morrow) in Ramsay's Grove.

Dominion Sessionites. — This monthly published at Ashgrove is a welcome and valuable acquisition to the "craft," and will prove of great benefit as a medium through which publishers can communicate their wants to each other.

Assault.—John Dark and Michael Brennan were brought before the Mayor on Monday on warrants. The former was sent to jail for two months at hard labor, and the latter dismissed under promise to leave town at once.

Harness.—The Harness Maker's Association having broken down, Mr. C. F. Hunsche is determined to cut down prices to the lowest possible figure, and as he has one of the best workmen in the county we ask farmers and others to give him a call before purchasing elsewhere.

A Warning to Bore.—This morning at 10 o'clock there will be eight cases before the Mayor in which the charge is for bathing in the river during prohibited hours. There is a by-law providing that no one can bathe within the corporation, or within 300 yards of the limits thereof, between 7 a.m. and 9 p. m.

Gambling.—Two parties called on the Town Clerk on Saturday to get a warrant for the arrest of a gambler at the circus ground who relieved them of $7 and $9 respectively. But on the Clerk informing them that they would require to appear on the same as parties to the operation, as it took two sides to form a case of gambling, they left.

Fog Horn.—We are frequently annoyed with thick fogs, and vessels find much difficulty in making the harbor and in doing so are in danger of running either against some of the piers or into shallow water. A fog horn or whistle placed in proper position would remedy the evil and prove of great value and assistance to mariners.

Something New for the ladies. The ladies of Goderich and vicinity are invited to call at Mrs. R. Warnock's millinery and fancy goods store and examine the new and delightful perfume called Perfection. The only powder of perfume in the Dominion. It is not a liquid, but comes in boxes. Come and see it. Mrs. R. Warnock sole agent for Goderich, Ont. 1833 3m

Star Line Steamers.—The advertisement of this line will be seen in another column. The steamer Holland is justly entitled to the claim of being both the finest and fastest boat on this lake; her accommodation is first class in all respects, and her officers are attentive and obliging. We heartily recommend the Holland to excursionists and general travellers.

Pocket Picking.—While Mr. Darius Phalean of W. Wawanosh was purchasing a ticket at the waggon, on Saturday, for the circus, he was relieved of his purse containing two notes for $20 and $50, and $20 in cash. The purse was in one of the pockets of his pants and so cautiously was it taken that Mr. Phalean did not feel the operation.

Pounderkeeper's Sale.—On Monday Mr. McFarlane, the poundkeeper, according to advertisement sold a two year old colt to Mr. Joseph Morris, of Colborne, for $48.50. It seems the former owner still has three months within which he can claim the price of the animal, after which time the poundkeeper returns the money to the Town Treasurer, less his expenses.

Canada Thistles should be cut down now before the seed forms, and a little salt placed on the stump left in the ground is said to be a remedy that will kill the roots, after one or two applications. Let every one combine against this common enemy and its reign will be short; but where a few do their duty the great majority neglect it and hence little or no good is done.

Insurance Stock.—By adv. in another column will be seen the prospectus of the Empire Fire and Marine Assurance Corporation. Their staff of officers should be an excellent guarantee that the Company will be conducted on a sound basis. Insurance stocks are now considered by financial men among our best investments and we doubt not but the Empire will soon secure the confidence of capitalists.

Competition is good, but often times a competitor meets with hard usage.—Lately a Goderich Township farmer came to town with his team and undertook to make a "corner" on salt teaming by working at reduced pay. The other teamsters did not like this, and one evening after the day's work was over some "parties unknown" took all the wheel-nuts off the farmer's waggon, thus for the time being preventing competition in the teaming business.

Sparrows.—Why cannot our town Council take a hint from the action of other towns and import sparrows and other birds. We have too few birds and hence our gardens complain of all sorts of noxious insects destroying vegetation. Sparrows, finests and yellow hammers would thrive here and prove an acquisition in destroying grubs, caterpillars and the various insects that now infest every garden.

Horse-Car Poetry.—We have received from Carleton & Co., of New York a small book bearing the above title.—Mark Twain is the author, the price is only five cents, and the following is a sample of the verse:—

CONDUCTORS

When the seats are full, must punch with care
The head of him who may want nothing;
That attempts to get on, or pay a fare.
A little black spot for a half-cent fare,
A centennial picture for a six-cent fare,
"Get on with your bile" for an eight-cent fare,
Thus will swell the superfluous passengers.

Stratford Excursion.—This excursion, which took place on Thursday last, was composed of the children from all the schools of that town, together with their teachers, parents and friends.—They numbered in all about 1400 and the Stratford Band accompanied them. The day was spent mostly in games on the grounds of the Summer Hotel Co., and a short lake excursion on the Benton. The excursionists seemed delighted with their trip and we hope they will come oftener, never by any chance omitting to bring their noble band which afforded the citizens of Goderich the greatest musical treat of the season.

Drowned.—A particularly sad case of drowning happened on Monday about 11 a. m. at the north side of the new breakwater within a few feet of the shore. It seems that Mr. George Hind, a youth of only 17 years, whose parents live at Elimville about five miles from Exeter, had come to pass his examination before the board for a third class certificate. Along with two others he went to the harbor for a bath; he got into water about eight feet deep and being unable to swim, sank at once. The others immediately gave the alarm and means were used promptly to recover the body which was accomplished in about ten minutes after he had gone down. Dr. McLean was sent for, and in the meantime those present did all they could to resuscitate by rubbing &c., but all in vain. The Doctor also did all that could be done but without avail. The deceased was beloved by all who knew him, being of a most exemplary character. In the recent county examination he stood at the top of the list in his township, and was looked up to with pride by his fellow students in S. S. No. 6 Usborne where he attended. One of his companions who was bathing with him had a narrow escape.

Harbar.—The great concert cleared at Knox church bazaar, was $376.62,—which is to be applied towards the liquidation of the church debt.

Drank over Board.—On Monday last Miss Wm. Irwin, of Stanley, was a passenger on Adams' steamer on her way to Lower Lake ports. As soon as tea was over child of three years of age was left with her mother in the cabin and ran on deck, and in a few minutes was missed. Search was made and child was found floating in the water. Boat was stopped and child picked up. Child was not drowned, but was finely drove for home.

The Park Question.—At the last meeting of Council a communication was read from the Saltaire Hotel Company, asking the Council to submit to the people by vote a by-law for the purchase by the town of the park, and hold en masse at the "point," being about four acres, for the sum of $6000. The majority of the Councillors present seemed afraid to say a word, not being certain which side to take in order that they might not lose favor with their chances of re-election.—There piped out in a squeaky soprano "freeze and file," and for the want of a friend the unfortunate paper was consigned to the "file." The matter is a very important one and we felt assured that the Council would at the least "file" it, especially at this season when the public mind demands attention to this point. Our representatives will want to occupy that "point" when next elected unless leave has been granted by the Hotel Co. our Stratford contemporary would not in all probability have visited us, and yet those "wise men" refuse to allow the matter to go to a popular vote. Such a by-law was voted on and carried by Toronto, and we believe if voted on now the majority in favor of it would be still larger, especially if the Hotel Co., as they suggest, would give more ground than that offered by last year's by-law. We understand the matter will still be pressed and we trust the Councillors will properly discuss it; and if submitted and carried let there be no slackness in driving a by-law to those who last year.

Cole's Circus and Hippodrome visited town on Saturday, and as usual a large crowd assembled. From reading the immense posters of such companies one is led to expect something grand, exciting in the extreme, and in each case quite surpassing all other like exhibitions in the world wide. Realization in such cases, we believe, has never yet been up to expectation, and, unless a great change takes place in the "circus business," probably never will. Cole's circus was no exception so far as we were able to judge. The street procession did not amount to much, their horses upon the whole being rather inferior to those of some other like companies. The menagerie was small and nothing to excite particular attention except the "Sea Lion," which was the largest and finest animal of the kind we have ever seen. The tumbling and gymnastic performances were up to the mark, and the slack wire performances were graceful and well executed. The equestrian feats were fair, some of them extraordinary, the Roman standing and chariot races exhibiting the finest skill. The Bull fight, and Kentucky thoroughbred race were sells of that nature that tend to injure the good reputation of a circus. The clown was average, but it shows very bad taste, let alone the sin of it, to pun on scripture, and we would advise Mr. Cole to put a stop to all such. Pocket picking and gambling was indulged in to a considerable extent, and we were sorry to observe a "thimble" table even in the tent, where visitors were invited to throw their money, "and get a prize every throw." The company probably could not prevent such characters from following them, but they could do something towards public safety by bringing to justice these public pick-pockets and gamblers, and our town authorities were slack in duty when some arrests were not made. Barnum adopted the plan of awarding prizes to local constables who secured such characters, and the public would appreciate a like course by Mr. Cole.

Temperance Meeting.—The monthly meeting of the open temperance association took place on Friday evening in the M. E. Church. The Rev. W. Pierce occupied the chair and opened the meeting by praise and prayer, after which he said that many people thought such societies did little good as they failed to bring the drunkard to their meetings, but he could not agree with such people; in his better mind the drunkard was already wishing for the day when liquor would be swept out of his reach; it is the middle class, the lukewarm we want at our meetings, that we may endeavor to stir them up to a sense of their duty, if not towards themselves at least towards society; temperance men too are not doing their duty fully, they do not live up to their principles in business. The speaker pointed out the various results of drink both to the unfortunate wretch himself and society at large; how the innocent have to suffer for the sins of the drunkard, &c. We should all keep in mind the moral of a cartoon issued by Grip some time ago, where the liquor traffic is represented by a bottle, with a card tied to it on which is written a petition to the Prime Minister asking him to remember, when making up the emigration report, that the petitioners yearly consumption of human beings in Canada is 6,000. Mr. J. Bossey was glad to identify himself with the association; temperance bodies seldom had intercourse with each other because they were all running parallel and aiming at the same point. He would like to see christianity and temperance linked arm in arm; all social and moral reform is brought about by the class who base their faith on divine truth. There is a class who do not recognize God as the great centre, but are devoted to the worship of self and unless everything comes about in the way they desire, their support is not given. Politics parties, when asked to pass some great measure of reform, weigh the matter carefully to see how it would effect their standing. He found fault with the powers assumed by the License Commissioners; that they were at the same time trying to satisfy the temperance party and not offend the liquor dealer. There were only two sides, those in favor of temperance and those against, and the former will come out boldly not fearing to let the world know their principles. "He who gathereth not with us scattereth abroad" is the only true principle in this matter; the moderate drinker will often profess to be a temperance man but he "scattereth abroad" and we must beware of him; after all the drunkard who wallows in the gutter is the only honest candidate in the liquor interest for he admits that he loves his cups. He found fault with churches for asking use of fermented wine at communion and concluded by reciting a piece in point, written by a Dundee lady. Mr. David Adams recited in good style "Belshazzar's Feast" relating in thrilling language the effect on the King of his dream when he saw the hand writing on the wall. Rev. Mr. Henderson said that this association was intended to combine all the temperance bodies and to a great extent this end is already gained; the feeling for prohibition was growing strong in the County and he hoped soon to see the Dunkin Act in full force; he hoped all would join in bringing this about, ministers of all churches should lend a helping hand and ladies too could do a great deal; he believed there was a stronger temperance feeling throughout the Dominion than politicians would admit; temperance people cannot look to either political party for help but press the matter independently; he thought no government should refuse to grant prohibition merely because they might thereby be turned out of power; if the measure was right the government should pass it, come what may, and if they were turned out of power for a time they would soon be replaced; he thought the country was ready for prohibition notwithstanding all that was said to the contrary. During the evening the choir of the church sang some very pretty pieces appropriate to the occasion. A vote of thanks was presented to the chairman, the trustees of the church and choir. The choir sang "God save the Queen" and the Rev. Mr. Henderson pronounced the benediction. Thirteen new members signed the roll at the close.

Fish.—Mr. Z. Tolsma shipped 23,000 lbs. fresh fish from the dock during last week, and 4,200 lbs. were shipped from the station.

Personal.—A. J. Latham, Esq., the agent of the Dynamite Rock Commission at Chicago, was in town on Friday, previous to going over our salt works.

Mr. Alex. McGaw has taken the position of book-keeper in the office of John V. Detlor & Son's office, now filled by Mr. Wm. Stitt, of Clinton, as clerk to Mr. Detlor.

Mr. G. D. Dyett has resigned his position as teller in the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Ramsay having removed to Guelph where he takes a similar position.

Mr. Dixie Watson and lady left on Monday last for their new home in Wingham. They carry with them the best wishes of their many friends here.

Conveyancer Lost.—Robt. Hyslop, Goderich, and Wm. Vanstone, Colborne, have received the contract for rebuilding the bridge over Young's Creek, on the Colborne Road.

Committed for Trial.—Richard Kelly and John Scullion, who a short time ago stole some articles from Mr. Fred. Hutty's store, returned to town last week and were at once arrested. They were brought before Judge Toms on Wednesday and committed for trial.

Reform.—The Conservatives in town were so elated over the victory achieved by their party in the County of Ontario, on Wednesday last, that they had a torch light procession in the evening. It is estimated that fully 200 fire crackers, which cost 3 cents per 100, were fired off by the jubilant fellows.

A Warning to Cow Owners.—A party in town lost his cow about a week ago and had searched in vain for her, when he chanced to see her the other day being driven away along with a drove of cattle belonging to a drover. This same party observed two other cattle belonging to private individuals in the same drove.

Accident.—On Monday, a lad named Charles Mitchell, son of Mr. Thos. Mitchell, carpenter, on the Harbor Hills, was running on the top of some cars at the dock when he fell between two of the cars striking his head on the coupler and cutting it badly. The cash extended almost the width of his forehead and bled freely, but being only flesh a wound the little fellow will soon recover.

Harbor's Mills.—The shipments from the mills last week were as follows: 3000 bags flour, 272 bags and one car of bran in bulk for New Brunswick, 3 cars and 229 bags middlings, and one car and 263 bags of feed. During the past week the schr Jeanee Matthews delivered 21,250 bushels of wheat and the Mary Robertson 15,250 bushels from Milwaukee at the mill

The trip will be to Port Huron and Sarnia and return, and the charge will be put down lower than any trip of the season, the design being to make up in numbers. Those desiring to go will find it necessary to buy tickets early in order to secure comfort. Full particulars will appear in bills to-morrow.

A Hoax.—Rumor had it on Monday that a horrible murder had been committed in Clinton on Saturday night. On enquiry it seems that the story is a hoax, originating from the finding, on the Grand Trunk Railway track, part of a shirt with three cuts in it looking as though the wearer of the shirt had been stabbed and bled profusely. A paper collar was also found bearing the name of the owner, one Jesse Wylds, a clerk in Nichol's store. It is surmised that the young man, who is not to be found, left these traces intentionally. No reason is assigned for his leaving the town so strangely. He had his life insured a few weeks ago.

Assault.—Yesterday Charles Thomas was brought before C. Crabb, Esq., J.P. charged with assaulting Mr. Miles Meehan on Dominion Day. It seems that Mr. Grant from Beamiller was waiting with a friend when Thomas struck him in the face. Grant remonstrated and Thomas and his associates at once pounced on him and handled him severely. Mr. Meehan, seeing Grant lying wounded, went to lift him up, when Thomas struck him and kicked him. The Magistrate fined Thomas $20 and costs, and warned him that if he would appear again on a similar charge he would be dealt with still harder.

Statute of Limitations.—The new Statute of Limitations as to real estate, passed in 1874 (38 Vic., c. 36,) came into force on the First of July, and under its provisions ten years' adverse possession will bar the rights of the owner in the land. After the 1st of July any person who has been ten years prior to that date in possession of land adversely to the owner, will have what is called a "Parliamentary title." The clause of the Act is as follows:—"No person shall make any entry or distress or bring any action or suit to recover any land or rent but within ten years next after the time at which the right to make such entry or distress or to bring such action or suit shall have first accrued to some some person through whom he claims; or if such right shall not have accrued to any person through whom he claims, then within ten years next after the time at which the right to make such entry or distress or to bring such action or suit shall have first accrued to the person making or bringing the same." The Act covers claims under mortgages, leases, legacies, dower, and other charges on lands.

Sad Case of Drowning.—On Wednesday afternoon a sad accident occurred resulting in the drowning of a fisherman named Wm. M. Costie. The deceased and a companion named Jas. Inkster were returning from the fishing grounds in their boat Heather Bell, and when about four miles from shore a heavy squall struck her causing her to upset, all and sank. The Fellowcraft, sailed by Jas. Cronin, was close behind, and at once efforts were made to rescue the men, who must soon sink in the angry waters. Costie was picked up and managed to keep themselves afloat until the Fellowcraft got close to them, but the heavy sea made it difficult to rescue them. Inkster seemed to be nearer gone than Costie and the first effort was made to save him, and he was pulled into the boat, very much exhausted. When, however, they proceeded to rescue poor Costie he had disappeared. A close search was made but no trace of the body could be found. Costie was much respected by his companions and was a good sailor. He sailed the Rebecca in the yacht race on Dominion Day, and declared that next year he would win the first prize. The boat went in seven fathoms of water, and was raised and brought to port on Thursday. All her cargo was, of course, lost.

SEAFORTH.

Mr. Wm. Oliver, salesman in Robertson & Lee's hardware store, Seaforth, while cutting iron accidently cut the large artery of the arm at the wrist which spurted freely, and no doubt would have been serious and probably fatal if neglected.

The only excitement on Dominion day was at the station in seeing the excursionists leaving for Goderich.

On the 28th inst. Mr. Robt. McMillan with his wife, son and daughter were driving to Goderich to church, the horse got frightened at an omnibus object on the road, and gave a sudden spring off to the side, running the buggy into the ditch and throwing the occupants out. Mr. McMillan had one of his legs badly sprained and Mrs. McMillan was considerably bruised, but the other occupants of the vehicle were uninjured.—The horse got free from the buggy and ran a considerable distance before being secured. Mrs. McLeod, who was a young girl was running out the top of some oats at the dock when he fell between two of the cars striking his head on the coupler and cutting it badly. The gash extended almost the width of his forehead and bled freely, but being only flesh a wound the little fellow will soon recover.

Harbor's Mills.—The shipments from the mills last week were as follows: 3000 bags flour, 272 bags and one car of bran in bulk for New Brunswick, 3 cars and 229 bags middlings, and one car and 263 bags of feed. During the past week the schr Jeanee Matthews delivered 21,250 bushels of wheat and the Mary Robertson 15,250 bushels from Milwaukee at the mill

DUNGANNON.

Presentation.—Rev. J. Broley, who has been stationed here during the past three years, having been appointed to Bayfield, before leaving for that place, was met in the Dungannon Methodist Church by the members and adherents of the Circuit, who after partaking of the good things generously provided by the ladies, presented him with a well filled purse of money and a very affectionate and appreciative address.

Complimentary speeches were delivered by Messrs. Baker, Anderson, Washington and Treleaven. In reply Mr. Broley referred to the great kindness he had experienced from his people and expressed his regret that the time had come when he must leave them and concluded by saying: "I have never labored amongst a more loyal, noble and true hearted people than the Methodists of the Dungannon Circuit."

A deputation from the Craig appointment also waited upon him and presented him with a well lined pocket book and the following address:

Dear Pastor—

We, as those who have been benefitted by your teachings present, you with this purse as a faint acknowledgement of gratitude for the interest you have taken in our present and future welfare. We take this opportunity of expressing our sorrow that for the present our union is now to be terminated. Had the Conference seen proper to prolong your stay with us for an additional three years it would have given us unmingled satisfaction. Though we may no longer be
