Annual Alumni Dinner

AT ST. BONAVENTURE'S COLLEGE.

St. Bonaventure's College was the scene of a happy gathering last night when there was assembled the pupils of many days gone by, the occasion being the annual alumni dinner. Here were gathered together those who had been pupils of the College many years ago as well as those who had just gone out from its walls; those who had been successful in the careers which they took up and those who are just beginning to fight the battles of the world but all were in union in one particular, that whatever they were or hoped to be, they owed it to the splendid training they had received at the College at the hands of the Christian Brothers.

The menu was a splendid one and was in the capable hands of Mr. John Robinson who, with his able assistants, handled it in a manner that left nothing to be desired. The speeches were of a particularly high order and breathed of loyalty to the church, to the Christian Brothers and to the Alma Mater. The success of the college athletes was a source of much gratification and it was hoped that the future will bring further victories to the college. Ron O'Toole, Newfoundland's champion long distance runner and an ex-pupil of St. Bon's was present, and his success in Halifax and in the races recently held here came in for much congratulations from those present.

The musical programme was a most enjoyable one and in this connection the selections rendered by the college orchestra were worthy of all commendation. This orchestra, which is comprised of a full number of string instruments, all played by present pupils of the college and some of them of tender years, was in splendid form and their music would have done credit to much older and more experienced instrumentalists. Songs were rendered by several of those present with Mr. George Kearney at the piano also helped to make the evening's programme enjoyable. Mr. W. R. Howley, K.C., president of the alumni was in the chair. The following was the toast list:

THE KING—Prop. the Chairman; Resp. God Save the King.
ARCHBISHOP AND CLERGY—Prop. Dr. Leo Sharpe; Resp. Rev. Dr. Carter.
ALMA MATER—Prop. Mr. J. F. Meahan; Resp. Bro. J. E. Ryan.
THE ATHLETIC TEAMS—Prop. Rev. Father R. Murphy; Resp. Mr. J. Howlett.

THE APPEAL OF THE S.A. LEAGUE OF MERCY

The sweet flowers of charity far too often bloom in our midst unnoticed and unappreciated. Of course, charity is not supposed to be self-seeking, must not vaunt itself and must not declaim its excellencies from the house-tops. There is, however, a great work of charity being performed in this city "in His name" that deserves all the utmost encouragement of the world. It is the work of an organization of the Salvation Army and is known as the League of Mercy.

The Salvation Army itself is usually regarded as self-assertive to the greatest possible degree. Those, however, who measure all its methods by the beating of the drum or the blare of the cornet associated with its regular worship, are far from understanding the organization or its character. Some of the Army's most humanitarian efforts are conducted without the blare of trumpets. Most of its measures for the succour and the relief of suffering humanity are carried out without other reward than faith in the fulfilment of the promise of "Inasmuch" that finds its keyword in the motto of the League of Mercy itself. Every day in the life of the Officers of the Salvation Army in our city is filled with acts of kindness, of deeds of mercy and of displays of consideration for the weak and the erring, the unfortunate and the poverty stricken that are unknown to all humans, but the minister and those who are ministered unto.

Particularly active in this service of charity of the most practical and most ostentatious kind is the League of Mercy. It is instant in season and on behalf of the miserable and the suffering. Its members are to be found at the bedside of the sick, in the hospitals or in their own homes. No sufferer is allowed to go uncheered; no sick one is permitted to feel deserted, alone or depressed, no matter how far away are homes or home folks. Flowers to cheer, offerings to prove hearty interest, gifts to charm away depression and loneliness find their way to the institutions in the city which treat those whom health is forsaken, and to these places go members of the Mercy League, bearing with them "The King's Gifts."

Particularly interesting to lovers of humanity is the work of the League on behalf of those little ones who must be helped because they cannot help themselves. At the Salvation Army Home on Cook Street are many of these, tiny infants unconscious of everything but their need of food or of the pangs of suffering; little miles who are just beginning to take notice of their surroundings and of those who treat them with loving care; toddlers who find their refuge in the arms of the ministering angels in charge of the institution of Mercy. What a wonderful, what a necessary and what an unostentatious work is being done on behalf of those who are made a special charge on the care of true disciples of the Master.

The work for these little ones is being done under difficulties, but still it is being done. The little waifs are in straitened quarters, but they are getting all the care in the world. The sick are being nursed, the well are fed and clothed; the dawning life is being fostered to the best effect. But what a crying shame it is that all possible facilities are not at the disposal of such a service. The pity of it that infant needs must go unmet; that infant hands must appeal in vain for shelter and for care in such a home. For the demands of the work are greater than the institution can meet. Appeals for aid are more numerous than can be responded to. There is not the room and there is not the facilities for admitting more of the little ones to the institution. To enlarge those quarters and to make possible the salvation of even "the least of these" suffering and needy toys from the neglect and the suffering that must inevitably be theirs in the great world of the outside, the Salvation Army is resorting to a Tag Day and to a house to house visitation for funds. The cause of the greatest of all causes, most divinely blest. A liberal response to this urgent appeal is anticipated by those who have at heart the interests of needy and suffering childhood in this city.
