Great New
Waterloo Bridge

SIX LINES OF TRAFFIC.

Waterloo Bridge is to be rebuilt.

This decision was reached by the London County Council after a three hours' debate and after a period of nearly two years in which eminent architects, engineers, and various societies have tried to convince members of the feasibility of preserving the architectural character and beauty of Rennie's famous creation—the existing structure—admitted all over the world.

The voting was 32 in favor of rebuilding against 32 for asking the Government to appoint a technical commission to consider the possibility of saving the old bridge by rebuilding.

According to the decision, the Improvements Committee will be instructed to take steps forthwith for the reconstruction of the bridge with hot more than five arches over the river and of a width sufficient for six lines of traffic.

Jail Occupants
Less by 50 Per Cent.

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 18.—Less than half as many people are in jail now in British Columbia as was the case before the war, and only two jails are needed, compared with seven in those days, according to Attorney-General A.
M. Manson.

The actual number of inmates in provincial jails last year was 1383, against 3,363 in 1915.

Ungainly Aerials Soon Unnecessary

RAPID PROGRESS IN HOUSE CURRENT FIELD IS BEING MADE.

Aerials for radio reception, will be unknown in future years.

There will be no wires strung criss-cross over city roofs, to interfere with one another and mar the beauty of the sky-line. There will be no danger of death by electrocution from high-power lines touched by antenna wires.

Receiving sets will be merely set up inside a home, attached to the house current line and tuned in.

This is the prospect for radio fans of the next generation, if not earlier. Engineers working on various improvements in this field promise it. The recent development of radio receivers points to it.

It has been known, almost from the beginning, that loop aerials are clearer receivers than the outside type. There is less static from distance reception. They're easier to install, and they don't mar the beauty of the outdoors.

Yet loops to-day are still cumbersome. They don't help in beautifying the home, even though the receiver itself may be attractive. Only where they are hidden from view is the attractiveness of the set unimpaired.

But there again, to-day, such a loop receiver isn't much on reception, for distance especially.

The problem is to get something like the loop for an aerial, the efficiency of which will be as high as least as the modern outside antenna.

That isn't so difficult as it may sound. There are many receivers to-day that can be hooked on to the batteries and, without aerial or ground, get local as loud as could be desired.

Why not receivers that could do this for distance?

The Value of Reforestation

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 29

While the British Columbia forest service still contends that the natural reproduction of timber in this province is more than sufficient to keep pace with the loss through fire and logging operations, experiments in reforestation are now being carried on in the Fraser River valley which may be extended in future years to embrace large sections of logged over land.

Five hundred pounds of spruce seed was sown on thirty acres of land in the Coquitlam river district a year ago. The seed has taken firm root and is flourishing, according to Edward Walmesley, crown timber agent here, who has been supervising the experimental work.

"The present demand for merchantable timber made on us by European countries serves as a lesson that should be taken to heart," Mr. Walmesley believes. "We still have billions of feet of timber in reserve, but at the rate of the present cut and depletion of our forests through fire, the time will come when we will be in a similar position as regards timber supply to those countries which have now realized the value of reforestation."

A Modern David

TELKWA, B.C., Dec. 29.—Stewart

Edward White and other members of the new big game hunting club use the bow and arrow of the middle ages in bringing down their victims, but Scott Tomkins, Telkwa teamster, goes back to the days of David and Goliath for his weapon. Indeed, this modern counterpart of David does not even use a sling. His specialty is hurling stones and his only means of propulsion is his trusty right arm.

Tomkins was driving home from the Telkwa coal mine recently when his horses reared up and almost overturned the wagon, a big black bear sitting in the middle of the road defying the team to approach.

Tomkins got out of the wagon and walked towards the bear. Usually a bear will run away from such procedure, but this one was more daring. The animal seemed interested in the man's movements rather than being inclined to retreat. Tomkins picked up a stone and endeavored to frighten him, who immediately started to dance. The man then took careful aim and let go, the stone hitting the bear between the eyes and the big fellow toppled over, unconscious.

The teamster finished the bear off with an iron crow bar and brought the carcass into town in order to be able to convince his friends of his amazing feat.
