It looks as if Aylmer is to have a football team this season, for a meeting was held in W. Harold Barnum's office last Monday evening and plans discussed for the formation of a team. T. A. Willoughby was elected president, and Stanley Botterill, Secretary-Treasurer. The executive will consist of the president, Sec. Treas. and Captain, when selected. The selection of Captain and team was left until it is found just what talent is available in Aylmer. In years gone by we have had many good football teams, and it is confidently expected there will be something doing in this line this season.

SEEN IN SHOPS

Tunics appear in every conceivable shape.

Baby Irish lace is returning to popularity.

A large black velvet cape has an odd lining of white satin striped with black velvet.

A new French color combination is Italian green with a tea rose shading to apricot.

Diamond-shaped pearl buttons trim a white tailored blouse of pussy willow taffeta.

A blouse of black chiffon is elaborately embroidered in light blue beads and gold thread.

The strictly tailored shirt blouses cut on the lines of men's shirts with straight shirt sleeves, with mannish cuffs and adjustable high or low collars are in great demand for sport wear. These are in plain wash silk or satin and in wash materials.

The finest of the new suits are collarless, and have vests of every conceivable shape and color. Carried out in black and white, the vest suit is extremely chic.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Hot drinks are better than cold for old people.

Delectable dumplings are made with dried fruits.

Clean lard will remove wagon grease, stove and shoe polish.

In hanging clothes see that they are pulled straight.

A dustless mop can be made from the fringe of an old bedspread.

Cook cranberries with the cheaper cuts of boiled meats to make them tender and delicious.

Instead of grating cheese for some dishes that are to be baked, slice it thin and save time.

Two teaspoonfuls of boiled rice contain as much nourishment as two and one half boiled eggs.

It is economy to the housekeeper to buy celery by the bunch rather than by the stalk. The outside pieces make a delicious dish stewed, while the perfect inside pieces can be served raw. Do not throw away the celery roots; if the outside is pared off, the inside will stew perfectly. Also it can be eaten raw like inside celery.
