The Late Mrs. Bracken.

The Carman Standard publishes a lengthy obituary of the late Mrs. Bracken, wife of Rev. James Bracken, pastor of the Baptist Church of that place. In this city she was converted under the ministry of Rev. R.

B. Montgomery, now of Brooklyn, N.Y., and spent many years connected with the Adelaide Street Baptist Church—years of usefulness and promise. She was married to Mr. Bracken while they lived in London. Subsequently the family lived in Hamilton and Wentworth, and two years ago they went to Manitoba. The Standard says: "It can be truthfully said that as a pastor's wife she showed rare gifts, taking a leading part in all work belonging to the cause." The funeral was very largely attended.

Col. Attwood at Ean Claire.

The Eau Claire (Wis.) Leader, of which Mr. W. K. Atkinson, formerly of the Advertiser, is editor, has this to say of a former Londoner, "We have much pleasure welcoming Col. P. H. Attwood, of St. Paul, to this city. He is staying at the Galloway House, and will be here for about two weeks. The colonel at one time was commander of the Twenty-sixth Battalion of Middlessex Light Infantry, and proved one of her Majesty's most efficient officers. He was all through the Fenian war and also through the Northwest rebellion. He was awarded the war medal for distinguished conduct in the field. Many of our Canadian citizens will remember Col. Attwood, of the Twenty-sixth, and the many reviews they have attended on Carling's heights at London, Ont., where the brave colonel coupled a foremost position, as his regiment was conceded to be the crack corps of the brigade. We are pleased to be able to secure an excellent likeness of the colonel as he appeared at a hanquet at the Tecumsch House, London, fifteen years ago. The major spent sorre of the happiest days of his existence in company with the colonel in the old Canadian battle, or rather crupping grounds, as war correspondent."

Nesbitt and R. Dench, Peterboro, and others. Increased remuneration was recommended for D. D. H. C. Rs. as a means of increasing their zeal. He had traveled 9,100 miles on official visits and had everywhere been cordially received. The correspondence was very heavy, but had been answered with all possible dispatch. With feelings of pride and pleasure Mr. Towe reported that the order was in a flourishing condition. At the commencement of the Forestric year he had been relieved of the organization work, which had been undertaken by Bro. C. E. Britton, high vice-chief ranger. In 1891 there were 69 new courts organization work, which had been undertaken by Bro. C. E. Britton, high vice-chief ranger. Continuing Mr. Towe said that the executive committee had found, on reading over the correspondence which passed between himself and the Dominion Government, that it would be impossible to invest a portion of the funds with the Government so as to be a lasting benefit and a positive guarantee to the cortificate-holders. The report contained the letters sent to and the answers received from the superintendent of insurance at Ottawa.
