SETTLERS ARE POURING IN

Mr. T. R. Parker Speaks of the Prosperity of the Northwest.

Mr. T. R. Parker, of this city, who has just returned from an enjoyable trip through Western Canada, is very enthusiastic over the outlook in the Northwest especially. He said to The Advertiser today that a feeling of optimism and complete confidence exists all through the Northwest and that the country is making tremendous strides. Great enterprises are projected and in one instance he learned of a town lot in Edmonton selling for as much as $9,000. Settlers are pouring in, a splendid class of people, who brought with them their stock, with money and energy.

Mr. Parker says that the C. P. R. is doing great things for the Northwest in opening up the country, but he says that the people there are handicapped by the lack of funds for the building of bridges and roads, the construction of which would facilitate marketing their products.

STRIKERS WANT PRESIDENT TO SELECT THE COMMISSION

Washington, Oct. 15. - It is understood at the conference with the President, Mr. Mitchell's main objection to the acceptance of the proposi-tion of the operators was the limitations placed upon the President in the matter of selection of the arbitration commission. He was especially opposed to the restriction limiting the se-lection of a federal judge to a particular jurisdiction. It is understood that the miners are willing to waive the technical recognition of the union, as they will get a recognition of the general situation that exists in the anhracite region. It is considered likely that the proposition will go back the operators, with a request that the restrictions in the appointment of that the President may have a free hand in choosing the commissioners.

OPERATORS ARE SILENT. New York, Oct. 15 .-- The coal operators generally were exceedingly averse to discussing the coal situation in any way today. To most of those seen the question was put: "Would you as-sent to a change in the personnel of the arbitration committee it is proposed shall deal with the matters in dispute between the strikers and the

Mrs. Catherwood's Novel Is Founded on Facts.

A Wisconsin Man Supposed to be the Dauphin of France.

The Detroit Free Press says of "Lazarre," the brilliant serial story running in The Advertiser:

Otis' Skinner's coming to Detroit this week in the play of "Lazarre" gives new interest to that strange story of the lost Dauphin of France, on which the play is founded. There is prevalent among those that have only superficially studied the problem a belief that Rev. Eleazer Williams, of Green Bay, Wis. (supposedly the personage in issue), himself had no faith in the contention in his behalf. On the contrary, it is known that the Indian missionary had the firmest conviction that he was of royal birth. Apropos of this, it is recalled that when the Prince de Joinville paid his visit to Mr. Williams n 1841, he placed before hm a parchment, which he desired him to read and answer. On the table were pens, ink, paper and the seal of France, such as were used during the reign of Louis XVI. This parchment lish, in legal phraseology, and was nothing less than "a solemn abdication of the throne of France in favor of Louis Philippe, by Charles Louis, son of Louis XVL, who was street

The conditions offered as a reward for the signing of this docureward for the significant for ment were "a princely establishment to be secured to him either in France or America," and that Louis Phillippe would pledge himself "to secure the restoration, or an equivalent, of all the private property of the royal family rightfully belonging to him.' Mr. Williams spent hours studying this document. If he did not accept the agreement he had to face the old life of poverty, self-denial and daily toil. But finally be went to the prince and told him that he had considered the matter fully and that he must decline to barter away the rights per-taining to him by birth. Thereupon the Prince de Joinville angrily denounced him for "ingratitude" to Louis Philippe. Mr. Williams replied that since the prince had put him in the position of a superior he would say frankly that this indignation was stirred by the memory that one of the family of Orleans had imbrued his hands in his father's blood and that another now wished to obtain from him an abdication of the throne. The prince immediately assumed a respect-
