life. She now knew something of what the term Eurasian implied. And as she looked at her dark-skinned infant a dread and horror of the future she saw stretching before it mingled with the tender yearning of a mother's love. It was plain her health was failing, but her husband would not believe it, and blamed her for the wish to leave him, as he called her craving to go to the hills The question of putting a prohibition-labor candidate in the field was knocked in the head at last night's meeting of the Trades
