THE COMBINATION COOKING STOVE.

This Stove has been extensively introduced and thoroughly tested during the past three years; has given universal satisfaction and found to be the best Cooking Stove ever introduced to the public.

It is constructed on an entirely different principle to the ordinary cook stove, having a circular fire-pot and grate as an ordinary hall stove, having no dead corners as in a square or oblong fire place.

Great saving of fuel is effected, and a uniform continuous heat can be retained for twenty-four hours without attention.

For hot water to bathe it surpasses any cooking range.
