

acknowledged fortiter in re. Mr. Logie's brief memoir admirably sets forth the man whom he delights to honour, and who being dead yet speaketh, in the portraiture given of himself, as well as in those which he has given of others. The book is very handsomely printed and bound, reflecting great credit upon the publishers, with whom, doubtless, it is a work of love in this respect to give deserved prominence to our Canada Presbyterian Church and its literature.

ASCHLIFFE HALE.—A tale of the last century : By Emily Sarah Holt.

OUR TOWN BOYS.—By Julia A. Matthews.

STELLA FONT ABBEY ; or Nothing New.—By Emma Marshall.

THE CASH BOY'S TRUST.—By Anne M. Mitchell.

AGATE STORIES.—By the author of the "Basket of Flowers."

The above are the titles of five new books, especially designed for the improvement of the young, published by Robert Carter & Brothers, of New York, who have done so much for the supply of a sound and healthy literature. Without entering into close examination of these works, we are warranted in expressing our conviction that they are well adapted to the object in view, and will prove an interesting addition to our juvenile literature.
