Corn Laws.—A Court of Common Council was held in London on the 6th for the purpose of petitioning for a repeal of the Corn Laws. - There was but one dissenting voice.

Windsor, April 9 .- The interesting Canadian Chiefs (whose visit to this place we have already stated,) accompanied by Sir John Chapman, and Mr. Irving Brock, brother of the late gallant Sir Isaac Brock, who fell in Canada during the last American war, proceeded on Thursday by invitation to the Royal Lodge, and were intro-duced to his Majesty on the lawn. Immediately on seeing the King, they fell on their knees, when the medallion of the late King, with which they had been invested by Sir Isaac Brock, attracted his Majesty's attention, who observing to them that as they had the portrait of his late father, perhaps they would have no objection to wearing his, immediately hung a handsome gold medallion round their necks; which they kissed with the utmost fervour.

The Grand Chief then addressed his Majesty (in French) in the following words :-"I was instructed not to speak in the Royal presence, unless in answer to your Majesty's questions; but my feelings overpower me; my heart is full; I am amazed at such unexpected grace and condescension, and-cannot doubt that I shall be purdoned for expressing our gratitude. The sun is shedding its genial rays upon our heads. It reminds me of the great Creator of the Universe—of him who can make alive and who can kill. Oh! may that gracious and benificent Being, who promises to answer the fervent prayers of his people, bless abundantly your Majesty; may he grant you much budily health; and, for the sake of your happy subjects, may he prolong your valuable life. It is not alone the four individuals who now stand before your Majesty who will retain to the end of their lives a sense of this kind and touching reception; the whole of the nation, whose representatives we are, will ever love and be devoted to you—their good and great father.

His Majesty's answer to their Address was most gracious. It was in French also,

and in substance as follows:

He observed, that he had listened with great delight to their affecting and loyal Address; that he had always respected the excellent people who formed the various tribes in his North American possessions, and that he would avail himself of every opportunity to promote their welfare, secure their happiness, and prove himself to be indeed their father.

His Majesty then conversed with them in the same language, in the most affable manner, for above a quarter of an hour.

After seeing the Interior of the Royal Lodge, the stables, the animals, and the birds, Sir Andrew Barnard conducted them to Cumberland Lodge, where a table, provided with refreshments, was prepared for them. Thursday evening they left
