

At the international level, the organizational structure of inspection should include a number of technical experts of different backgrounds of knowledge, constituting a team of verification.
