

Geological and Natural History

Alfred R.C. Selwyn

EXPLANATION.

Strike & Dip. + Ditch,
— Quartz vein, ■ Shaft.

In the cross-section I might observed that several different formations (gravel), and fragmental matter of the old and present river beds, embracing the Cretaceous drifts, are indicated by fragmental lines, or dots.

NOTE — The deep ravine, L3, marks the position of a tertiary valley which was filled up with alluvial detritus and partly re-excavated by the present stream.

