

CHAPTER XXI.	PAGE
Captivity of Mary Fowler, of Hopkinton,	417

CHAPTER XXII.

Narrative of the captivity of Mrs. Isabella M'Coy, who was taken captive at Epsom, N. H., in the year 1747. Collected from the recollections of aged people who knew her, by the Rev. Jonathan Curtis, a minister of that town, about seventeen years ago, and by him communicated to the publishers of the New Hampshire Historical Collections,	419
---	-----

CHAPTER XXIII.

An account of the remarkable occurrences in the life and travels of Colonel James Smith, (late a citizen of Bourbon county, Kentucky,) during his captivity with the Indians, in the years 1755, '56, '57, '58, and '59,	423
--	-----

CHAPTER XXIV.

Harris's Escape,	476
----------------------------	-----

CHAPTER XXV.

Minutes of the Provincial Council, of the year 1721, from which it will be seen that the Mingoes or Conestogas were a large and powerful tribe,	477
---	-----

CHAPTER XXVI.

Massacre of the Conestoga Indians in Pennsylvania,	489
--	-----

CHAPTER XXVII.

Indian Anecdotes,	493
-----------------------------	-----

INTERESTING FRAGMENTS.

The Western Mothers,	510
The Lone Indian,	513
An Indian Mother—Great battle in the Indian country,	514
Michigan and Wisconsin Border,	515
Chapter on Indians,	519
An extract from the Life of Capt. Samuel Brady,	521
Polygamy—Treatment to Wives—Marriage Ceremonies—Mode of Divorcing—Another Ceremony—Children called by the Mother's name, &c.	524
Death of an Indian Warrior,	528
APPENDIX,	529

Another reader! of this countries, have modern v Proud, Sr others, ha fining the into their landing of are most g casual rea length are moulder u We would have allud labored fai matter whi their subjec we should u and scenes

Volumin intricate by of all the In compose the much labor work has, h DRAKE, Esc volumes, wh that we are 1 in the volun