WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Laws Should Be Framed to Protect Them, It Is Claimed.

The annual meeting of the Local council of Women, which opened yesterday in the new Frances Willard Hall at 16 Gerrard street, will continue its sessions this afternoon at 2.30. Atendance at this gathering reveals an aggregate of activities and interests which speak volumes for the energy of the workers engaged upon them. Mrs. Huestis, president of the council, was in the chair and welcomed the ladies, who had turned out in large numbers. she anticipated that today the interest would be even more evident. Fortyned in the Toronto Council, and the business of the first day of the annual eeting was the receiving of report. from the standing committees and federated societies. The president drew attention to the ever-growing recogni tion given the council by the many instances in which it is given place of the consultive bodies in connection with the public welfare.

Good Reports. As president of the National Council Mrs. Torrington was given a warn reception. Replying, she complimented the Toronto branch on its earnest ness of purpose, which is perhaps the strongest in evidence. She warned them, however, to look after their aurels, as she had just been informed that Calgary had started a council with ince of over $300 and 50 names of individual membership added.

The "Child's Welfare" report was among those of special interest, the movement being amongst the latest in Canada. Reference was made to the conferences and exhibits of Child Welfare held in New Jersey, Chicago, New York, Scotland, Montreal, and the nd taken that the movement must ement consequent upon and in be developed along educational lines. seeping with those quoted above. The To remove the disability under which married women are at present, in the matter of the municipal vote, was a note in the report of the citizens' committee, and the same conditions as iately became law in London, England, were advocated respecting the white s clients, of the liberal returns slave traffic, whereby a landlord on the sch have governed for some years second warning that his tenants are using their premises for immoral purposes, becomes guilty and is punished accordingly. A feature of paramount importance a lie insurance company is its sh surplus held for the protection poll-yholders, and in this respect terminded was reported as having made considerable advancement, public interest having been awakened to a considerable extent by the late visit of Dr. Johnston of Vinelands, New Jersey. Now there are many municipalities pledged to support their own cases in the government will but supply the buildings. The institutions in Toronto for this class are at present altogether inadequate, and the efforts of the council are continuous to rectify this want. Report on Laws. The report on "Laws Affecting Wo-men and Children" asked that children under 15 years should be excluded from low-class theatres, and supports the that this class of advertising should all be under municipal supervision. The press was asked to co-operate in the matter, the plea, "do not spread germs of immoral poison by the big ors for the ensuing year: Mr. W. D. headlines of sensational events and headlines being made. objectionable advertising" being made.

The Continued Mild Weather Forces Another Gigantic Sale

We are getting no help at all from the weather man. If he would send a week of crisp, zero weather, it would not be necessary for us to force the sale of Sellers-Gough furs by such astounding slaughtering of prices. But there's no help for it. Clean out our stock we must, and to accomplish this we price the goods-'way below their actual manufacturing cost-at such low prices as to prove absolutely irresistible.

Last week it was Persian Lamb Coats—all priced at $199, though values ran as high as $500. The rush to secure such bargains exceeded even our sanguine expectations. There will be a bigger rush than ever to snap up the wonderful fur-lined coats now on sale. There is no reserve. Walk into the store-select any Ladies' Fur-Lined Coat up to $85-it's yours for $29-and your purchase carries with it the iron-clad Sellers-Gough guarantee.

It stands to reason that those who come first will take advantage of the widest selection. It means dollars to you to be one of the first. You will need the coat many times this winter—it will be practically brand new next winter and a purchase now represents a genuine investment for many winters to come.
