

I regret that you decline to attend the meeting of the Chapter which I have called. I should not have pressed you to do so against your inclination, but I think you will see that you were hardly right in your refusal.