TERMS OF THE PEACE TREATY

vote, 5,755 square miles, as is to be the case in parts of Silesia, 2,787 square miles.

SECTION THREE.

BELGIUM.

Germany is to consent to the abrogation of the treaties of 1839, by which Belgium was established as a neutral state, and to agree in advance to any convention with which the allied and associated powers may determine to replace them. She is to recognize the sovereignty of Belgium over the contested territory of Moresnet and to renounce in favor of Belgium all rights over the circles of Eupen and Malmedy, the inhabitants of which are to be entitled within six months to protest against this change of sovereignty, either in whole or in part, the final decision to be reserved to the league of nations. A commission is to settle the details of the frontier and various regulations for change of nationality are laid down.

LUXEMBOURG.

Germany renounces her various treaties and conventions with the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, recognizes that it ceases to be a part of the German Zollverein from Jan. 1, 1919, renounces all right of exploitation of the railways, adheres to the abrogation of its neutrality and accepts in advance any international agreement as to it reached by the allied and associated powers.

As provided in the military clauses, Germany will not maintain any fortifications or armed forces less than 50 kilometres to the east of the Rhine, or hold any manoeuvres to facilitate mobilization. In case of violation she shall be regarded as committing an act against the powers who sign the present treaty, and as intending to disturb the peace of the world. By virtue of the present treaty, Germany will be bound to respond to any request for an explanation which the council of the league of nations may think it necessary to address to her.

ALSACE-LORRAINE.

After recognition of the moral obligation to repair the wrong done in 1871 by Germany to France and the people of Alsace-Lorraine, the territories ceded to Germany by the treaty of Frankfurt are restored to France, with their frontiers as before 1871, to date from the signing of the armistice, and to be free of all public debts.

Citizenship is regulated by detailed provisions distinguishing those who are immediately restored to full French citizenship; those who have to make full application therefor, and those for whom naturalization is open after three years.

The last-named class includes German residents in Alsace-Lorraine, as distinguished from those who acquire the position of Alsace-Lorrainers, as defined in the treaty.

All public property and all private property of German ex-sovereigns passes to France without payment or credit. France is substituted for Germany as regards ownership of the railways and rights over concessions of tramways.

The Rhine bridges pass to France, with the obligation for their upkeep. For five years manufactured products of Alsace-Lorraine will be admitted to Germany free of duty to a total amount not exceeding in any year the average of the three years preceding the war, and textile materials may be imported from Germany to Alsace-Lorraine and re-exported free of duty.

THE SAAR.

In compensation for the destruction of coal mines in northern France and as payment on account of reparation, Germany cedes to France full ownership of the coal mines of the Saar basin with their subsidiaries and accessories. Their value will be estimated by the reparation commission and credited against that account.

In order to secure the rights and welfare of the population and guarantee to France entire freedom to work the mines, the territory will be governed by a commission appointed by the league of nations and consisting of five members, namely, one French, one a native inhabitant of the Saar, and three representing three different countries other than France and Germany.

After 15 years a plebiscite will be held to ascertain the desires of the population as to the continuance of the existing regime under the league of nations, union with France or union with Germany. The right to veto will belong to all inhabitants over 20, resident therein at the signature. Taking into account the opinions thus expressed the league will decide the ultimate sovereignty.

SECTION FOUR.

BOUNDARIES FIXED.

German-Austria. Germany recognizes the total dependence of German-Austria in the boundaries traced by the league of nations, and accepts the entire independence of the Czechoslovak state, including the autonomous territory of the Rutenians south of the Carpathians, and accepts the frontiers of this state as to be determined, which, in the case of the German frontier, shall follow the frontier of Bohemia in 1914. The usual stipulations as to acquisition and change of nationality follow.

Poland.—Germany cedes to Poland the greater part of upper Silesia, Posen and the province of West Prussia on the left bank of the Vistula. A field boundary commission of seven, five representing the allied and associated powers and one each representing Poland and Germany, shall be constituted within 15 days of the peace to delimit this boundary. Poland (Great Poland)—The southern and eastern frontier of East Prussia, adjoining Poland, is to be fixed by plebiscite. In each case German troops and authorities will move out within 15 days of the peace and the territories be placed under an international commission of five members appointed by the five allied and associated powers, with the particular duty of arranging for a free, fair and secret vote.

The five allied and associated powers will draw up regulations assuring East Prussia full and equitable access to and use of the Vistula. A subsequent convention, of which the terms will be fixed by the five allied and associated powers, will be entered into between Poland, Germany and Danzig to facilitate railroad communication across German territory on the right bank of the Vistula between Poland and Danzig, while Poland shall grant free passage from East Prussia to Germany. The northeastern corner of East Prussia, about Memel, the inhabitants of which are to be placed under the former agreement to accept the settlement made, especially as regards the nationality of the inhabitants.

Danzig to be free city. Danzig—Danzig and the district immediately about it to be constituted into the "Free City of Danzig" under the guarantee of the league of nations. A high commissioner appointed by the league and resident at Danzig shall draw up a constitution in agreement with the duly appointed representatives of the city, and shall deal in the first instance with all differences arising between the city and Poland. Actual boundaries of the city shall be delimited by a commission appointed within six months from the peace and to include three representatives named by the allied and associated powers and one each by Germany and Poland.

The city shall be free of all customs frontiers, the free area in the port insures to Poland the free use of all city's waterways, docks and other port facilities. The control and administration of the Vistula and the whole thru railway system within the city shall be placed under the joint administration of Poland and Danzig, provide against discrimination with Poland within the city and place its foreign relations and the diplomatic protection of its citizens abroad in charge of Poland.

GERMANY AND DENMARK.

Denmark. The frontier between Germany and Denmark will be fixed by the self-determination of the population. Ten days from the peace German troops and authorities shall evacuate the islands of Heligoland and Dune are to be destroyed under the supervision of the allies by German labor and at Germany's expense. They may not be re-constructed, nor any similar fortifications built in the future.

Russia.—Germany agrees to respect as permanent and inalienable the independence of the territories which were part of the former Russian empire, to accept the abrogation of the Brest-Litovsk and other treaties entered into with the Maximilian government of Russia, to recognize the full force of all treaties entered into by the allied and associated powers with Russia, which are in force in the former Russian empire, and to recognize the frontiers as determined therein.

The allied and associated powers formally reserve the right of Russia to obtain restitution and reparation on the principles of the present treaty.

SECTION FIVE.

GERMAN RIGHTS OUTSIDE EUROPE.

Outside Europe Germany renounces all rights, titles and privileges as to her own or her allies' territories to all the allied and associated powers, and undertakes to accept whatever measures are taken by the five allied powers in relation thereto.

COLONIES AND OVERSEAS POSSESSIONS.

Germany renounces in favor of the allied powers her overseas possessions, with all rights and titles therein. All movable and immovable property belonging to the German empire or to any German state shall pass to the government exercising authority therein. Germany undertakes to pay reparation for damage suffered by French nationals in the Cameroons or elsewhere, and to recognize the civil and military authorities and of individual Germans from Jan. 1, 1900, to August 1, 1914.

China: Germany renounces in favor of China all privileges and immunities resulting from the Boxer protocol of 1901, and all buildings, wharves, barracks, forts, munitions of warships, wireless plants and other public property except diplomatic or consular establishments in the German concessions of Tientsin and Hankow and in other Chinese territory except Kiaochow, and agrees to return to China at her own expense all the astronomical instruments seized in 1901. Germany accepts the abrogation of the concessions at Hankow and Tientsin. China, agreeing to open them to international use, renounces all claims against China or any allied and associated powers for the internment or repatriation of her citizens in China, and for the seizure or liquidation of German interests, there since August 14, 1917. She renounces in favor of Great Britain her state property in the British concession of Canton, and of France and China jointly of the property of the German school in the French concession at Shanghai.

Siam: Germany recognizes that all agreements between herself and Siam, including the right of extra-territoriality ceased July 22, 1917. All German public property except consular and diplomatic premises passes without compensation to Siam. Germany waives all claims against Siam for seizure of ships, liquidation of property, or internment of Germans.

Liberia: Germany renounces all rights under the international arrangements of 1911 and 1912 regarding Liberia, more particularly the right to nominate a receiver of the internal order and control of customs, and disinterests herself in any further negotiations for the rehabilitation of Liberia. She regards as abrogated all commercial treaties and agreements between herself and Liberia, and recognizes Liberia's right to determine the status and condition of the re-establishment of Germans in Liberia.

Morocco: Germany renounces all her rights, titles and privileges under the acts of Algiers and the Franco-German agreements under all treaties and arrangements with the Sherifian empire. She undertakes not to intervene in any negotiations as to Morocco between France and other powers, accepts all the consequences of the French protectorate and renounces the capitulations. All movable and immovable German property, including mining rights, may be sold at public auction, the proceeds to be paid to the Sherifian government and deducted from the reparation account. Germany is also required to relinquish her interests in the state bank of Morocco. All Moroccan goods entering Germany shall have the same privilege as French goods.

Egypt: Germany recognizes the British protectorate over Egypt, declared on December 18, 1904, and renounces the capitulation and all the treaties, agreements, etc., concluded by her with Egypt, she undertakes not to intervene in any negotiations about Egypt between Great Britain and other powers.

Germany consents to the transfer to Great Britain of the powers given to the late sultan of Turkey for securing the free navigation of the Suez Canal. Arrangements for property belonging to German nationals in Egypt are made similar to those in the case of Morocco and other countries. Anglo-Egyptian goods entering Germany shall enjoy the same treatment as British goods.

Shantung: Germany cedes to Japan all rights, titles and privileges, notably as to Kiaochow, and the railroads, mines and cables acquired by treaty with China in 1897, and other agreements as to Shantung. All German rights to the railroad from Tsin-Tao to Tsin-Tao, including all facilities and mining rights, and rights of exploitation, pass equally to Japan, and the cables from Tsin-Tao to Shanghai and Chefoo, the cables free of all charges. All German state property, movable and immovable, in Kiaochow is acquired by Japan free of all charges.

discharged soldiers, shooting or touring clubs, educational establishments or universities, may occupy themselves with military matters. All measures of mobilization are forbidden. Fortresses—All fortified works, fortifications, and field works situated in German territory within a zone fifty kilometres east of the Rhine, will be dismantled within three months. The construction of any new fortification on the southern and eastern frontiers, however, may remain.

Control—Inter-allied commissions of control will see to the execution of the provisions for which a time limit is set, the maximum named being three months. They may establish headquarters at the German seat of government and go to any part of Germany desired. Germany must give them complete facilities, pay their expenses and also the expenses of the execution of the treaty, including the demolition or surrender of war equipment.

NAVAL RESTRICTIONS. The German navy must be demobilized within a period of two months after the peace. She will be allowed six battleships, six light cruisers, twelve destroyers, twelve torpedo boats and no submarines, whether military or commercial. With a personnel of fifteen thousand, including officers, and no reserve force of any character. Conscripted is abolished, only voluntary enlistment permitted, with a minimum period of twenty-five years' service for officers and twelve for men. No member of the German navy shall be permitted to take part in any naval training. All German vessels of war in foreign ports, and the German high sea fleet interned at Scapa Flow will be surrendered, the final disposition of those ships to be decided upon by the allied and associated powers. Germany must surrender forty-two modern destroyers, fifty modern torpedo boats and all war vessels under construction, including submarines, must be broken up. War vessels not otherwise provided for are to be placed in reserve or used for commercial purposes. No placement of ships, except those taken over by the allies, shall be permitted for twenty years for battleships and fifteen years for destroyers. The largest armored ship Germany will be permitted to build shall not exceed the tonnage of the Belle. Other coast defenses are permitted but the number and calibre of the guns must not be increased.

During a period of three months after the peace, German high power wireless stations at Nauen, Hanover and Berlin will not be permitted to send any messages except for commercial purposes and under supervision of the allied and associated governments, nor may any more be constructed. Germany is required to sweep up the mines in the North Sea and the Baltic Sea as decided upon by the allies. All German fortifications in the Baltic, defensive in character, the Belle must be demolished. Other coast defenses are permitted but the number and calibre of the guns must not be increased.

During a period of three months after the peace, German high power wireless stations at Nauen, Hanover and Berlin will not be permitted to send any messages except for commercial purposes and under supervision of the allied and associated governments, nor may any more be constructed. Germany is required to sweep up the mines in the North Sea and the Baltic Sea as decided upon by the allies. All German fortifications in the Baltic, defensive in character, the Belle must be demolished. Other coast defenses are permitted but the number and calibre of the guns must not be increased.
