KILLED BY A TRAIN

Brockville, June 7.—Charles Black, 17 years of age, lost his life this morning on the Grand Trunk Railway tracks about two miles east of here. He and another young fellow were "beating" their way to Cornwall on a freight train and were riding between the cars on the drawheads. Black fell from his perilous position, and the wheels passed over him, killing him almost instantly. He was employed by the Bell Telephone Company here as collector, and DIED A HERO.

Ottawa, June 7. — Calixte Lascelles, a ten-year-old boy, died a hero's death on Saturday afternoon. With three companions, he was in swimming in the Ottawa River, near the Rideau Canal locks. A companion got into deep water, and the brave little fellow jumped to the rescue. The remaining two boys raised an outcry, and men working nearby ran to the rescue. They managed to save one boy, but little Laccaller was too far good when little Lascalles was too far gone when taken out of the water.

cancelled his berth with the hope of solving the mystery before leaving. Chief of Police Wilde is still working hard, and following up the slightest clue that presents itself.

Fortune Teller's Tale.

Tragedy sometimes has its ludicrous side as was evidenced last evening when two husky farmers craved an interview with the chief of police, and in a mysterious manner informed him if he was prepared to hand over the reward they would produce the murder. Being further questioned it turned out they were mediums in close touch with many of those who long since had gone to the great beyond. These friendly spirits from the other world had promised to give all the information required when called upon.
