THREE IN A ROW FROM RICHMOND OUTFIT

Blackburne's Boys in Great
Form Behind Markle's
Good Pitching.

Blackburne's Batteries are very much in the pennant hunt. The Leafs made it three straight by downing the Richmond trio again yesterday and this time it was a liberal dose of Kalamazoo, 5 to 0. Markle's boys were in the best of form, and he never had any trouble. Richmond again were weak offensively and defensively. Added to this, one visiting player, at least, had a grouchy and got himself disliked for talking back to people in the stand.

The gentleman referred to is Kellieher, and some of his remarks call for censure. He grabbed back at certain well-known fans after the game, and he was told Kellieher came off second best in the "tongue" fight. It is all well to invite somebody to mortal combat when you know that there isn't a chance on earth of it being pulled off. We know a lot of people that do all their fighting this way.

The Leafs again played the brand of ball that wins pennants. The hits were saved up for the critical times and then the old pinging bangs were brought out. Hendry, Viox, Blackburne and Trout came thru with timely smashes that were good to see. The fielding was sharp, and Markle's boys advanced them with the backing up he got. A double hit to left field today, and with any kind of good pitching the Leafs will win both.

The Rebels' games were few and far between. Markle got into a few ticklish spots, but immediately put the lid on and pitched himself into the first hole. He was a trifle wild at the opening. Clemens singled, but Elbel popped out. Hendry walked, and then Markle advanced them with a base with a wild pitch, but the next two died easily. Hendry's double, but Hendry and Blackburne hit the first balls home. With two down in the third Hendry and Blackburne hit the first balls home. With two down in the third Hendry and Blackburne hit the first balls home.

We had a lovely time in the third. It was here that the Leafs bounced on Trout's nose. Kellieher and Markle wished that he was back against the easy marks in the first inning. Blackburne's more potent Truesdale was more potent. He waited for four wide ones. Trout rolled to Kellieher and his hands were safe. Hendry heaved it into left field trying to head Truesdale off at the half-way mark. Hendry rolled out, but Truesdale was not rolled out, but Truesdale was not rolled out.

With two down in the next turn Truesdale stole and rode home on Trout's nice single to center. This was all the runs for the day. Markle looked after the Rebels for the rest of the afternoon.

A BACK-DOOR DODGE.
When German meets German, then comes the tug of war. The butchers of Cologne do not at all care for the state organization of meat supplies. One enterprising sort of "Kultur" secreted five tons of meat in his premises and sold it to "good customers" at the back door. When faced with the discovery, the wily butcher pointed to the regulations, which specified that the restrictions only applied to meat sold over the counter. The law has been made more specific.

JENNINGS' TIGERS FULL OF COURAGE

Always Pulling the Unexpected and Fans Like Their Fighting Spirit.

The success of the Detroit Tigers is founded on the same principle that the success of great business houses is founded on, personality plus ability, but personality first.

Detroit has personality and it is personality that attracts people. To substantiate this statement the following evidence can be produced, coming from no less an authority than Connie Mack. When the Athletics were winning their eighth or ninth pennant, the year 1915, Mack came to Detroit for the first time, the one in which they clinched the Cleveland title. Mack, who had approached Connie Mack during this season and remarks on the wonderful Philadelphia team, played all season.

"Yes," commented Mack, "we have played fine baseball, but we are not drawing the crowd. The Athletics are everywhere. We have the best team in the league, but the fans are not coming and still they draw more people than we do; they are the greatest drawing card baseball ever had."

Of the winning pair Griffin was the more spectacular, his smashes and cross-court placement drives from close to the net scoring many points. Johnson, while the pair repeatedly maneuvering the losers out of position by their change in point of attack and pace, Dawson, while showing flashes of form, was very erratic, and much of the work was done by the side of the court.

The entire first round of single championship was cleared without any championship generally coming through the net. The best match of the day was the first round contest between Karl H. Behr of New York and Conrad B. Doyle of Philadelphia, which Behr won 2-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Wm. J. Clothier of Philadelphia, the 1915 champion, eliminated Hachiro Miyahara of Japan, University of Pennsylvania, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Miyahara, the other Japanese player, was more fortunate, easily disposing of Danforth of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

R. L. Murray, formerly of California, came thru by the default of A. S. Dabney, who was defaulted by H. S. Jones of Philadelphia, playing under the colors of the Petrograd (Russia) Tennis Club, 10-8, 6-2, 6-0.

Williams of Philadelphia, 1914 champion, disposed of Jerry Weber of Chicago, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1. Richard Stevens of Newport, a veteran many tournaments, won from Abraham Braasford, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

J. W. Anderson, playing under the colors of the Petrograd (Russia) Tennis Club, won from Charles S. Garland of Philadelphia against Harry Seymour, also of Pittsburgh.

At Washington—Cleveland defeated Washington in the second game of the series. The visitors hit both Shaw and George, but the team is none the less a better ball club to watch. Score: R. H. E.

at New York.

At Boston (American)—St. Louis tightened up the American League race still more by taking two games from the leading Red Sox, 5 to 3 and 4 to 1. In the first contest the Browns took the measure of three of the leading Boston boxmen, Leonard, Ruth and Mays, by hitting in the pinches, while Davenport kept the champions' hitters scattered. St. Louis pressed their attack against Shore in the second contest, and Carigan called on the Sox to make a vain effort to stem the tide. Groom was very effective.
