mous declaration of the Apostle, "If meat cause my brother to offend, I will eat no meat while the world stands."—This should be the maxim of every man.

"Christians we cordially invite you to become fellow labourers in the broad field of temperance. If you have hitherto supported the kingdom of darkness, we trust you will uphold it no longer. We do not solicit you to join in a measure, of the nature and consequences of which you are totally ignorant. You have seen the progressive advancement of the temperance cause, for four years, in Musquodoboit. It has improved the health, the harmony, the morals, and the orderly habits of the community. It increases in strength as it grows in years, and its members
