LUMBER CUT WILL BE CURTAILED

Glutted Market Necessitates This, Says Angus McLean, Here Today.

A glutted lumber market will necessitate a curtailed lumber cut this year, according to Angus McLean, prominent North Shore lumberman, who is in the city today on a business trip. Much of last year's cut still remains to be sold, he said. Asked concerning reports that the decision of the British Government made recently to adopt a house building policy would prove beneficial to Canadian lumbermen, Mr. McLean said there had been no increased demand from the other side. He said he was talking recently with an old country man who informed him that the English people desired brick houses and would not be satisfied with houses of wooden construction. This might account for the fact there was little or no increased demand from overseas.

A distinguished visitor to the Bathurst pulp and paper mill recently, Mr. McLean said, was Lord Beaverbrook, former New Brunswick premier who is now one of the leading newspaper proprietors in England. Lord Beaverbrook spent the day at Mr. McLean's guest and expressed pleasure that his native province had such a splendid and up-to-date paper manufacturing plant.

One feature of the evening was the presentation of a certificate of appreciation to the members who were instructed in the work of the order. Light refreshments were given out. The party returned to the city early this morning.

The supreme secretary, George E. Bailey, will arrive today from Prince Edward Island on a tour of inspection of the maritime provinces and Newfoundland. He and Mrs. Lloyd will meet the local Foresters this evening in the Orange Hall, Germain street.

Receipts of Game Amount to $1.52

Cost of balls alone amounted to $6 for the game. All but fifteen cents of the collection was in support of the teams, which is a rather unfair deal from West Side view and ask that the Martellos support be granted them to pay expenses. IS SENT UP IN BICYCLE CASE

George Cook Faces a Second Charge in the Police Court.

A preliminary hearing was conducted by Magistrate Henderson in the police court this morning in a case in which George Cook was charged with stealing a lady's bicycle, the property of Evelyn Cheesman. Witnesses were sworn and at the completion of their testimony Magistrate Henderson said there was sufficient evidence to place the defendant on trial.

Mrs. Laura Cheesman said that on or about June 16 a bicycle owned by her daughter, Evelyn, was stolen from under the veranda in front of their home in Dunn avenue, Lancaster Heights. She knew the defendant by sight and had seen him in the vicinity of their home. She identified part of a bicycle present in court as that owned by her daughter. She said the bicycle had been purchased two years ago and had cost $50. It was in good condition when stolen and was valued at $20.

Miss Evelyn Cheesman said it was her bicycle which had been stolen, and she identified the one in court as her property.

Detective Saunders told of getting the bicycle at the home of the defendant on August 8. Wrecks were missing and the defendant told him that he sold one of them for $2. The other he had placed on this bicycle. The latter is held at police headquarters and in connection with it the defendant was recently committed for trial on a charge of stealing. As yet no conclusion of the case for the prosecution Magistrate Henderson asked the defendant if he had anything to say and when informed that he had not he was sent up for trial.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said The Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "I saw a remarkable thing yesterday. I was in Market Square waiting for a car. On the ground behind the fountain were half a dozen sparrows. There was also a crust of hard bread. While I watched a sparrow began to peck at the bread. Another sparrow hopped up close to the one, and fed for some time. The first one, getting some tiny crumbs in its beak, turned, and to my amazement fed them to the other. It continued to do this for some time, and quickly put to flight another sparrow that began to peck at the bread. It was not a baby sparrow that he was feeding, but a full grown bird. Was its beak injured so that it could not peck at the hard bread? How did the other bird know? Why did the one care for and feed the other? After the feeding the Good Samaritan sparrow flew away, leaving the other still on the ground, but the latter made no attempt to peck at the bread. Was it not wonderful that one bird should feed the other?"

"I see," said Hiram, "the two babies died here in St. John lately because nobody thought it worth while to see they got milk."

"Alas! yes," said the reporter.

"Now if they had been sparrows," said Hiram.

"Ah! yes," said the reporter—"If they had been sparrows."
