Imperial Theatre, having finished its holiday shows and presented the Leuder programme to everybody's entire satisfaction, now turns to the winter schedule and announces the inaugural bill for Monday and Tuesday.

NOTICE TO IMPERIAL PATRONS

After 4 o'clock the Women's Canadian Club will hold their war correspondent movie lecture (F. A. McKenzie) for which there is a special admission. The Imperial will be open for its own programme again at 7 p. m.

PROHIBITION AND TRADE COMPACTS

Anti-Saloon League of America Says That United States Agreements With Other Nations That Must Be Modified

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 4.—Careful sifting of trade agreements between the United States and other countries will be necessary if nation-wide prohibition is to be effective in the United States and to be accomplished without national embarrassment, believe leaders of the Anti-Saloon League of America, that has headquarters at Westerville, Ohio.

It is the plan of the prohibitionists to have representatives from all countries sitting in conference in Versailles when peace negotiations are being concluded. They will ask that trade compact be framed so that the police regulations of any nation may not be embarrassed by the trade agreement of that nation with some other. Protection of so-called native races, as the Africans, from sale in their lands of intoxicating liquors also will be asked of the peace conference.

League men say that if prohibition goes into effect in the United States the law will prohibit importation of intoxicating liquors intended for beverage purposes. At the same time, however, trade agreements with some countries provide that they may send their beverages to the United States. To adapt a law forbidding such imports, without providing for change in existing trade agreements would, league men say, be a serious embarrassment to both nations.

Now is the time and the peace table is the place to provide for such eventualities, dry leaguers believe. It does not matter, they say, whether the subject under consideration is liquor or some other product. The peace conference should adopt rules covering the case of a government which decides that it will not permit the manufacture and sale of any article of commerce, and to guard against violation of that article to the nation that does not want it.

THESTRLE STRONG ENOUGH It is understood that the report prepared by David Maxwell, C.E., for the N. B. Public Utilities Commission on the condition of the railway traffic. Rodney wharf does not uphold the contention of the N. B. Power Company that the traffic is not strong enough to carry their traffic. The company applied for permission to discontinue their service to the ferry boats on the ground that the traffic was in a dangerous condition and the commission appointed Mr. Maxwell to report on it.

Where Women Can Now Use Ballot

Glance at the Progress of Suffrage in the United States—Hopes for the New Year Lie in Action by the Senate

New York, Jan. 4.—What is known among the workers for woman suffrage in the United States as the "Victory Map of 1918" shows fifteen white states—fifteen states whose women enjoy full rights to exercise the franchise. And, although it does not appear on this particular map, the women of the territory of Alaska also possess full suffrage. These states, in the order in which they have recognized their women as co-citizens with their men, are Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho, Washington, California, Kansas, Arizona and Oregon, the territory of Alaska, Montana and Nevada, New York, Michigan, South Dakota and Oklahoma, the last three having been in the ranks at the November elections of 1918.

Texas, the largest of the southern states, has granted its women primary suffrage, and its neighbor, Arkansas, has done the same. Both of these states, however, are known as one-party states, and it is said that a vote at the primary election is the equivalent, even though not the equal, of a vote at the general election. Four more states—Illinois, North Dakota, Nebraska and Rhode Island—have passed laws bestowing upon their women the right to cast votes for the president of the United States, and of these four all but Rhode Island have also granted municipal suffrage to their women. Vermont women have won the right of complete municipal suffrage, but not presidential.

The black states with white dots scattered over them are those in which women may have a vote in matters of school management and in questions of bonds and taxes. The twelve all black states, however—Maine, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Indiana and Missouri—are those in which, as yet, women are not recognized as people.

As this "Victory Map" stands today, it indicates that in the nineteen states and one territory where women have either full, primary or presidential suffrage, they have a vote in 213 out of the 331 electoral votes. In all, 11,016,964 States, while 11,146,292 may vote in municipal questions. States having estimated that, excluding Alaska, sixty-four per cent of the total territory of continental United States, the percentage is sixty-nine. It is also estimated that the total number of women of voting age in the country, more than one-fourth live in states where women have full suffrage and two-fifths in states where they have the right of a vote in the election of the president of the United States.

Suffragists have differed somewhat as to the best methods of procedure, but have driven home the same message by state campaigns and by attempts to win federal action. Susan B. Anthony once said that it would be necessary to carry on state campaigns until enough states were won to give the women of the country a voting strength. When they were strong enough to devote themselves to the more direct method of federal action, they would know, she said, beyond peradventure, of a doubt.

Every year since 1878, the amendment to enfranchise the women of the nation, known as the "Susan B. Anthony Amendment," has been presented to congress; meanwhile, state campaigns have been carried out vigorously until now the National American Woman Suffrage Association, to whose president Miss Anthony gave that message, feels that the time has come "beyond peradventure of a doubt" to give the cost of state campaigns and bend all their efforts toward obtaining favorable federal action.

The house of representatives of the United States has already gone on record in favor of the enfranchisement of the women of the United States. The last session defeated such an amendment by two votes. Now the short and last session has passed a party issue, and the forces have secured one of the two necessary votes and the National American Woman Suffrage Association, to whose president Miss Anthony gave that message, feels that the time has come "beyond peradventure of a doubt" to give the cost of state campaigns and bend all their efforts toward obtaining favorable federal action.

Some suffragists are saying that they will not be content with the amendment until it goes through with sixty-five votes, that the Democrats will see to it, as they have in the past, that the amendment will go through with sixty-five votes, that the Democrats will see to it, as they have in the past, that the amendment will go through with sixty-five votes.

THE WILSONIAN APPEAL

(Christian Science Monitor.)

Why do people of all classes and of all ranks listen with attention, and why does the multitude applaud, whenever Woodrow Wilson speaks? He is not merely a statesman, and in which all, not merely some, nations, shall be wholly free, that he has won the sympathy and support of the masses everywhere.

Wilsonism is taken to be the greatest known antidote today for militarism, on the one hand, and for nihilism, on the other.

Tell Your Wife Corns Lift Off

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift corns or calluses off with fingernails.

Not a twinge of pain or soreness before applying! It doesn't cut out the corn or callus, but like a dream to corn-pecked men and women who have been cutting, filing and wearing torturous plaster. Yes! Corns lift off and calluses peel off as if by magic.

A small bottle of freestone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops directly upon your corn or callus, and instantly the soreness disappears; then shortly the corn or callus will be so loose that it lifts off.

Freestone dries instantly. It does not cut out the corn or callus, but like a dream to corn-pecked men and women who have been cutting, filing and wearing torturous plaster. Yes! Corns lift off and calluses peel off as if by magic.

IMMIGRATION AND FORMER SOLDIERS

Major-General A. D. McRae, C. B., Expects Large Number Will Come to Western Hemisphere

"Millions of soldiers of the great war have already decided that they will not return to their previous indoor life and will emigrate to the western hemisphere," said Major-General A. D. McRae, C. B., former quartermaster-general of the Canadian forces and recently chief of staff under Lord Beaverbrook of the British ministry of information, who has just returned to Canada.

A considerable percentage of these men, he went on, will go directly to the land. No country is receiving more favorable consideration than Canada, but if we are not in a position to accept the settlers of the world's war have the advantage of low taxation to offer.

"Too much must not be expected from the effort to place the returned Canadian soldier on the land. It has been estimated that only about 15 per cent of our returning soldiers will be content to become farmers. Until unemployment is satisfactorily overcome only such immigration should be admitted as is destined for the land and which has the necessary means to be self-supporting. This necessitates a very big increase in the money requirements of the incoming settlers, who should have at least sufficient funds to finance himself for his first three years' residence in Canada. In this respect the immigrant from the United States, on account of his close proximity to his former home and his familiarity with the conditions of our country, might be treated on a somewhat more favorable basis."
