The Week, Victoria.

Twenty-one years old is the Victoria Times—old enough to vote. In this woolly West few papers reach that age on account of the deadly disease so fatal to journalists—known as Sheriffitis. That our contemporary has escaped infection is a matter for congratulation.

That it has chosen to celebrate its birthday in the most fitting way-the wide advertisement of the country of its nativity—is still more a matter of con-gratulation. Most of all is it to be congratulated on the way it has carried out

The "Of Ago" edition is one of those well gotten up publications which should be distributed not merely in Canada and the United States, but in every country in the Old World—for the excellent engravings will tell their own tale 'o those who cannot read the letterpress. It is a book to attract the tourist and pleasure-seeker; but it is also a book which speaks to the merchant, the manufacturer and the capitalist of vast possiilities of trade and commerce only waiting to be developed.

No part of the province has been neglected in this publication. The descriptive articles are carefully written-opti mistic as they should be, yet accurate in statements and with no undue "boom" exaggeration. As for the illustrations, their excellence may be judged when we say that they are the work of the B. C. Photo-Engraving Co., a company which distinguished itself by artistic and accurcaptured all the business of the province in this line, and has kept thousands of dollars in British Columbia which would but for its presence, have been sent East ber giving a review of the province, its resources and attractions. The composi-tion, the engraving and the printing of this special issue were all done in the Times building, and the Times has good reason to be proud of the excellence of the work in all departments. There is equally good reason for the whole prov-ince to award the Times a meed of gratitude for the advertisement which this number gives it. Ressland mines and Trail smelters are given places of prominence in the number, and no doubt descriptions will be read by many who have hitherto had small knowledge of the district and its wealth. In speak-ing of this celebration of its twenty-first ing of this celebration of its twelty-list birthday the Times announces that it will very shortly add substantially to its mechanical equipment. A large perfect-ing press from the manufactory of R. Hoe & Co. will soon be installed in its press room, giving the paper much better facility for printing.
