The bill authorising a loan to British Columbia to enable the Scotch crofters to settle passed its second reading in the British Commons on the 21st inst. During Wm. McKay a car of lumber. The origin the debate the bill was strongly opposed by the Radicals who stated that there was no necessity for them to emigrate as there was plenty of ground in Scotland for all the people if the game preserves should be abolished. Sir John Swinburne, Liberal, arged that British Columbia ought to pay full interest on the loan, in view of the fact that the colony imposed a heavy tax or British imports. The bill passed a second
