

HOUSEHOLD BALL-BEARING MANGLES.

Latest improvement in clothes ironing. Has anti-friction ball-bearings, same as used in bicycles. It takes considerably shorter time to mangle clothes than to finish them with a flat-iron and as no heat is required, a mangle will soon pay its cost in the saving of labor and fuel.

Clamps to any ordinary table. Articles that have been mangled are more healthful than when finished by the hot iron, as the meshes of the material are left open, whereas the hot iron closes them. They also retain their original whiteness and are never spoiled by scorching. Clothes to be mangled should be slightly dampened and folded before placing through the rolls.

No. 14, with ball bearings, rolls 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches, $3.00 each. Mangles are not suitable for shirts, or clothes with buttons.

A NINE POUND LOBSTER.

One of the largest lobsters ever seen in this vicinity was brought in town Tuesday last by Augustine Theriault. This monster crustacean was caught on Monday by Mr. Emilian Belliveau, of Belliveau's Cove while cod fishing on "Bear Ledge," St. Mary's Bay. The lobster weighed nine pounds and a half and the claws had a spread of twenty-six inches. It had the initials H. N. W. carved on the creepsers and is supposed to be about 89 years old.—Weymouth Echo.

HALIFAX. Society Was Dreadfully Ruffled Don't You Know.

(Special to the Star.) HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 25.—Society in Halifax, which is largely dominated by military and naval people, has for some time been actively preparing for an amateur theatrical performance in aid of the funds of Princess Christian's Soldiers' and Sailors' Benefit Society, London. A principal part of the entertainment was a comedy in one act, "Gentlemen—The King," written by Captain Campbell Ford of the Imperial army pay department, Halifax. Most of the characters were officers, and they were to wear the British mess uniform. The first performance took place last night, but it was within an ace of being called off. The cause of this was that General Sir Charles Parsons, commanding H. M. forces, objected to allowing the officers to wear the British uniform on the stage. The performers "remonstrated" and said the play could not be produced if the use of the uniforms was not permitted. Rather than have the whole affair cancelled, General Parsons agreed to a compromise, under which the officers in the cast wore only a part of the uniform.

BRITISH COLUMBIA. Tells Doukhobors They Are Not Wanted in the Pacific Province.

(Associated Press.) VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 24.—The Doukhobors of Assinibola were today officially notified that they are not wanted in British Columbia. Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, acting on the advice of his ministers, has sent the following reply to Tiku Pondmanoff and other signers of a petition of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood (Doukhobors, Assinibola) who ask for the setting aside of a portion of the province for their use: "Sir—I have duly submitted your petition to the provincial government. The government, while desiring to welcome with pleasure desirable immigrants, refuse absolutely to enter into negotiations with a body of immigrants who at the outset declare that they will not conform with the laws of the country."

HOPE IT'S TRUE. But It Was Not True at This Port Last Winter.

(Special to the Star.) MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 24.—"Canada is not a dumping ground for bad immigrants," said W. T. R. Preston, Canadian commissioner of immigration in England, who passed through the city today en route to England. He was replying to the statement of Chief Inspector Watson of the United States service, that all the bad immigrants entering the United States came through Canada. "Such a statement is nonsense," said Preston, "for all the immigrants landing in Canada are inspected before they leave the other side, and the class we get compare favorably with those who are permitted to enter the United States."

SMALLPOX IN KENT. Fear Expressed That It May Spread Still Farther.

At the meeting of the Kent county council this week it was stated that the cost of the smallpox outbreak to date was estimated to be $3,303. It was decided to memorialize the provincial government to have compulsory vaccination in any district where the disease may occur. Dr. D. W. Landry reported the following number of families and number of persons affected in his district as follows:—Dundas, five families, fifteen cases; St. Mary's, eleven families, seventy-two cases; Wellington, four families, five cases; St. Paul, five families, thirty-five cases, making a total of twenty-five families and one hundred and twenty-five cases. At the present time there are only seven families affected, and all of these are in the parish of St. Mary's. Dr. M. F. Keith, Harcourt, who has charge of the cases in the Weldfords, reports four families and fifteen cases, with five families relieved from quarantine in Mill Branch; in Canaan Settlement there are four families affected, twelve cases, two have been released from quarantine and three other houses are still quarantined; at Big Brook Settlement, there is one family affected with four cases; at St. Norbert, there is one family affected with one case; a letter of later date reports one case in the family of John Oulton at McWilliams' Mill. Dr. Keith closes his report to the chairman of the board of health in the following words: "The strenuous opposition of some of the better class in the communities to quarantine, has made it exceedingly difficult to cope with the problem at all. And unless we have the support of the unaffected it may yet get beyond our control."

The death occurred at his residence, Newman street, today of Robert Hamilton, a well known carpenter, who has resided in the North End for over fifty years. He was 73 years old, and leaves a widow, three sons and one daughter, besides a wide circle of friends to mourn his death.

KILSON'S DASH. Nearly Repeated His St. John Exploit. Got Out of Bangor Jail but Was Recaptured After a Hot Chase.

(Bangor Commercial, Friday.) For a few short minutes Thursday after noon Kelsen, one of the Boston young men who attempted to burglarize Julius Waterman's clothing store on Exchange street during the latter part of July, got a taste of freedom. He escaped from the jail workshop at four o'clock, but was recaptured on Everett street shortly afterwards by Marshall P. Oakes. He is at present thinking things over in solitary confinement. Kelsen has at present served two months of an eighteen months' sentence in the county jail. He regarded there as a desperate character.

Since his commitment young Kelsen has given Turakey Covel no end of trouble. He is a small, slight lad, with a sullen, vindictive disposition and on several occasions it has been found necessary to confine him in a dungeon as a disciplinary measure. Various other minor punishments have also been inflicted on him for his misbehavior. For the past few days, however, he has been a model prisoner and it was thought safe to put him at work in the broom shop, which is managed by Edward M. Baker. It is now known that he was being good for a purpose. It was just four o'clock Thursday afternoon when the prisoners employed in the shop commenced carrying a consignment of brooms down the stairs and loading them in a wagon. Kelsen was among the workers. The door leading from the workshop to the outer air was open, but both Mr. Baker and William H. Crocker, who was driving the wagon, were in its immediate vicinity. When the wagon had been loaded the prisoners were ordered back up stairs. Mr. Baker accompanying them to get his bills of lading. He had returned down stairs and was in conversation with the driver when suddenly Kelsen whisked by them and disappeared in the outer air. The alarm was at once given, all the doors about the jail locked, and everyone around the establishment started in pursuit.

Kelsen started for the bank of Kennebec street and Mr. Baker, who is captain of Hose 3 and who has had some experience in sprinting, was only a few yards behind him. The young criminal shinned over rocks and scrambled through bushes with desperate haste. Once Capt. Baker nearly caught him. Kelsen managed to elude him, however, and, picking up a rock he let it fly at his pursuer's head. Fortunately for him and for Capt. Baker the missile flew wide of the mark and did no damage. Capt. Baker was joined by Crocker, the driver. Just as Kelsen reached a point in rear of the Allen greenhouses on Court street. Here, too, Turakey Covel, Deputy Sheriff Harry French and Marshall P. Oakes, who had been doing a fast quarter up Court street, came into view. In some manner Kelsen managed here to get a lead upon his pursuers. A passerby attempted to stop him but the youngster managed to elude him and disappeared from view. Suddenly he flashed into view up toward Everett street and the whole party turned in that direction. When the posse turned the corner Kelsen was not in sight. In a stable yard, however, Mr. Oakes saw some sleds. He at once commenced an investigation and Kelsen was found, breathless and panting, under one of them. He was at once taken back to the jail and placed in a dungeon. During the remaining sixteen months of imprisonment he will be equipped with a ball and chain about his ankle to prevent any further attempts at foot races.

The posse which effected Kelsen's capture deserves no little amount of credit for its work, for if Kelsen had once gotten completely out of sight it seems likely that he would have made good his escape. This would not have been the most desirable thing which could have happened to the community at large.

ANOTHER BRIDGE TUMBLES DOWN.

A New Structure at Dover is the Latest to Collapse. (Moncton Times.) Almost every day brings to light additional evidence of the rotten state of the highway bridges all over this province and demonstrates the fimsiness of the structures erected by the government at several times the amount they should have cost the people. The latest bridge to collapse in this vicinity is a structure at Dover, which was first built two years ago and rebuilt one year ago at a cost of from one to two thousand dollars each time. The bridge in question, which is the second to fall on the Dover road, is said to have collapsed on Monday last. It was built in the fall of 1900 to help Emerson in the pending Dominion election, and put together in such a flimsy manner that in the spring of 1901 it collapsed. In the fall of 1901 it was rebuilt under the superintendence of E. J. Murphy, of road machine fame, and stood until Monday last when it again fell. The structure was about forty feet long and twenty-five feet high and cost about $2,000 originally. Only a few weeks ago The Times reported the jobbery in connection with another bridge on this road. The Dover road bridge jobs are merely illustrations of the existing state of affairs throughout this country and all over the province.
