MR. DAVID RUSSELL GETS AFTER MR. JOHN MCKANE

MONTREAL, Que., July 7. Mr. McKane may make to this letter. Thanking you for space.

The article in the St. John Telegraph, under date of 4th instant, headed "Suits Against Mr. McKane," may be the least amusing but very misleading to the public. While newspapers are not the proper place to discuss law suits, still as Mr. McKane has seen fit to use the papers he has not yet paid for to defend himself, I think it just and proper to state a few facts in connection with the North Shore multi-millionaire which will at least be the means of saving others from being caught in a similar manner as to his great wealth.

When I sold McKane the papers he signed a contract to pay cash in full inside of thirty days and make me a further fifty thousand dollars in cash, to run for one year, he at the time stating to me in the presence of the gentlemen who witnessed the contract that he was the owner of five hundred thousand dollars of Canadian Pacific Railway stock which, he said, he had in a trust box in New York City.

He fell down on the contract and I was forced to carry his notes for one-half of the purchase price for three months and never saw the cash for the loan and nobody else including himself, ever saw the C. P. R. stock. I am now suing McKane for damages, for breach of contract and for the balance owed.

You have my authority to verify the statements contained in this letter by calling on Weldon & McLean, who are my solicitors, and examine the contracts, accounts and correspondence, which will place you in a position to completely refute any contradictions.

DAVID RUSSELL. The statement in the Telegraph to which Mr. Russell refers in the foregoing letter written to the Sun last night was as follows: "The St. John Globe last evening re-published a St. John despatch which appeared in the Charlottetown Guardian and which wholly misrepresented the essential facts in connection with certain civil actions of Canadian Pacific Railway stock which, he said, he had in a trust box in New York City."

Along with Mr. Foley's scheme a Sun reporter learns that John Russell, manager of the Telegraph and Times newspapers, is also to run an automobile. This car is capable of carrying sixteen passengers.

Another pedlar, however, Peter Hatly, saw Ritchie near Millstream, Tuesday afternoon. The gentleman went to town on the St. John coach for next Saturday. A trip to Fredericton will be made this month.

The game of ball on the Victoria grounds last evening was witnessed by about 300 fans who greatly enjoyed the close contest of five innings, which was captured from the Exmouths by a score of five to four.

He had one arm in a sling and his head banded. Entering the room where the two were seated, he was killing his former comrade instantly.
