TURKS WELCOME TOURIST SHIPS FROM AMERICA

Cheered by Compatriots and Mussulmans as They Arrive in Constantinople

Constantinople, April 27.—Americans and Turks were delighted by the arrival here recently of two big American tourist ships carrying together more than 1,000 passengers, among whom there were said to be eighty millionaires.

Revels of the American tourist business had been awaited here with great anticipation and the Americans received more than a cordial welcome from their compatriots connected with the city as well as from the keepers of Turkish banquets anxious to sell souveniers.

One of the ships sailed into the harbor of Constantinople with its band playing "Dixie," which the Americans received more than a cordial welcome from their compatriots connected with the city as well as from the keepers of Turkish banquets anxious to sell souveniers.

The merchants were all excited over the arrival of the Americans and fairly pulled the tourists into their shops in their eagerness to sell.

As a parting gift the tourists were given a card of 76, which is the number of the Near East Relief organization on the Bosphorus the favors given at the various dances.

MOONSHINE LIQUOR SPREADS IN IRELAND

Traffic in "Potteen" Shows Rapid Growth in the Last Three Years

Dublin, April 27.—The traffic of moonshine liquor in Ireland has increased alarmingly in the last three years, according to a report issued by the Home Office.

The report states that the total production of moonshine liquor in Ireland in 1919 was valued at £2,300,000, of which nearly half went to the British exchequer in taxation. It is estimated that the production of moonshine liquor in Ireland in 1921 was valued at £3,000,000.

It is noted that the production of moonshine liquor in Ireland has increased alarmingly in the last three years, according to a report issued by the Home Office.

King Fouad Seeks Increased Powers From Constitution

Egyptian Extremist Policy Would Sweep Away All British Influence from Their Country.

Alexandria, Egypt, April 27.—With the exception of provisions being made for all the posts of Undersecretary of State at the several ministries being held by Egyptians and for the discontinuation of the presence of the Financial Adviser at cabinet meetings, no important changes have been made in the machinery of the Government since the ministry of Abdel Khabek Sarwat Pasha came into office on March 1 under the new regime.

With the executive control still in the hands of Anglo-Egyptian officials, the internal administration of the country continues in a normal fashion and without any disorganization.

The retirement of important English officials is imminent owing to the new policy of suppression of some of the highest posts in the administration of the country and the dissatisfaction which is felt at the prospect, the influence of the undersecretaries of state, mostly capable men, will strengthen during the coming summer, though owing to the insufficiency of qualified Egyptians and the requirements of the British policy referred to below, many English officials will remain, though generally speaking, inconspicuously.

The British policy will be maintained with but slight modifications, the terms of the Curzon project in regard to the military forces of the country, especially as it affects the retirement of important English officials, is as follows: The Sudan status quo will remain substantially as heretofore. A pre-emptive position of safeguarding foreign interests and of controlling the country's external policy is demanded, but it is the sincere intention of the British Government to endow the Egyptian Government with as much internal independence as is possible, compatible with the maintenance of an efficient administration, which Great Britain is bound to secure for the protection of foreign interests and to avoid international complications.

The Egyptian Moderate policy is to obtain complete internal independence as soon as it is feasible possible, with the retention of no English officials, unless through the lack of necessary qualifications on the part of the Egyptian class or owing to British pressure.

Hope of the Moderates.

Probably in order to remove any excuse for British interference in favor of foreign interests, the demand of the French and Italian colonies for the retention of capitulations without qualifications is welcomed. The Moderates hope to gain control of the external policy of Egypt in due course through gaining foreign confidence or by an expected change in circumstances, but pan-Islamic or other retrogressive influences are not particularly evident. The Egyptian extremist policy is to sweep away all British influence both internal and external and to employ technicians of their own choosing. Such a pan-Oriental policy suits the character of the masses, and taken into consideration with his despotic trait, explains the popular sympathy and support which is being exhibited toward Zaki Pasha.

However, the intelligentsia is too much imbued with western civilization, together with perhaps the smattering and growth of enlightenment of the fallacious and the appreciation of forty years of fair administration is too marked to permit of the reversion to feudalism. Further than this, economic considerations, apart from the British requirements render such a policy impracticable, all of which makes for the strengthening of the Moderates' position.

An important factor in the political situation of King Fouad, who is both

Annual Gymnastic Review Successful

Demonstration by Combined Classes of the Y. M. C. I. Delighted Large Audience.

The annual review and gymnastic demonstration by the combined classes of the Y. M. C. I. was held last evening, in St. Vincent's Auditorium, and proved a great success. The various exhibitions of difficult gymnastic work were well executed, and came in for some well merited applause; as did the different drills, physical exercises and dances by the girls' classes. The review was put on under the direction of W. E. Scriver, physical director of the Y. M. C. I., and was assisted by P. Pemberton, H. J. L. Nixon and Miss N. Dunmiche.

Not only did the entertainment prove interesting to those present, but it also served to bring before the public the large number who are taking advantage of the splendid opportunities afforded by the Y. M. C. I., and the nature of the work this institution's programme embraces.

The Senior Class acquitted themselves well in the parallel and horizontal bar acts, doing some very difficult feats in a finished manner, which called forth some well merited applause. The pyramid bar work of the School Boy Class was seen to advantage in two well executed drills, a free hand drill and a dumb bell exercise. The boys presented a fine appearance and went through the exercises in a finished manner.

During the programme, Misses Nettie Dunmiche, Mary Crozier and Margaret Flood were heard in symmetrical and graceful renditions. Miss Vera Campbell was the accompanist for the evening.

The work of the High School Girls' Class was of a high order and proved popular. This "work" parrot of the nature of dances, including a gymnastic Highland fling, Irish jig, and a sailor's hornpipe, which they gave a finished exhibition of club swinging and tumbling and parallel bar work, and his clown antics evoked much laughter.

The School Boys' Class work included wand drill and toe step dances, Highland fling, and a Peggy Wren dance, which elicited well deserved applause. The costumes for these events also were very appropriate and gave finish to the exercises.

Looking For Bouts With St. John Men

Eddie McPartland Would Like to Fight Either Tommy Willis or Mike Collins.

Eddie McPartland, clean and fast young boxer, and a native of St. John but who is now residing in Houlton, and who has been fighting under the management of John P. Harrigan, is keen to show the St. John public something of his prowess in a "go" with Tommy Willis or with Mike Collins, the winner of the 1921 amateur welterweight title, but who has since joined the pro ranks.

McPartland weighs in at 135 pounds, and is game to take on either of the local boys at that weight. Frankie Burras, the well known boxer received a letter from McPartland's manager expressing the aforesaid sentiments, and an endeavor will be made by local sport promoters to bring about the desired match.

HAD $75,000 LOAD IN SMUGGLED CHINAMEN

Captain and Crew of Schooner Confess to Bringing in Twenty-Nine Saturday.

Tampa, April 27.—Twenty-nine Chinese are being hunted through Florida by Federal, city and county officials following the arrest here of Capt. Wm. Hood and five of the crew of the schooner Etta Mildred, who, according to officers, have confessed to bringing in these Chinese from Cuba for $2,500 a head.

The Chinese were landed early Saturday morning, according to customs officers and disappeared before inspectors reached the schooner.

Fearing warning might reach the secreted invaders, officials threw out their net all over the state and withheld publicity until today, when thirty-six hours of guard on all avenues of escape had failed to bring results, indicating that the men still are hiding in this city. Capture is only a matter of time, the authorities say.

According to the alleged confessions, the Chinese were shipped at Cardenas. The smuggling schooner reached Egmont bar Saturday morning, slipped by the pilot house and made her way to Hooker's Point, a mile south of the city, where automobiles signaled from the shore and waited for the Chinese to be rowed ashore.

Charged with driving the automobiles, Howard Thompson, Ezra Atkinson and Jackson Palmer are being held. The three are from Boston. Thompson gave his address as 93 Summer street. He testified a week ago at a hearing following the shooting of two men on the steamship Cuba, arriving here from Havana.
