further conference with parties in Chicago, and with the Clerk of Presbytery. For this purpose he remained behind the other two, and had a further opportunity of discussing views and proposal with gentlemen deeply interested in M. Chiniquy's welfare.

As the conclusion of all their enquiry and labour, they feel constrained to say that, so far yet, they would not be justified in withdrawing their confi-dence from Mr. Chiniquy. They subjected him to a severe scrutiny. They tested his statements by every means in their power; they examined voluminous documents in his possecsion. which the Presbytery have not yet seen; they found a large and enthusiastic congregation attached to him as their pastor, and resolved to adhere to him; they saw three young men under instruction for the Gospel ministry, and had good evidence presented to them of the fact that at one time upwards of thirty young lads, from 14 to 21 years of age, were desirous to study for the ministry; whatever their fitness for this profession might be, it appeared to them that at one time they had expressed a desire for it, and had entered upon studics with that vicw. They are now scattered-some have gone to the army, some have relinquished the idea-but the Committee were informed, on evidence which they could not doubt, that there were still 24 young persons willing were opportunity offered them, to study for the

A College, in the proper sense of the term, such as a Presbyterian church would recognise, they d.1 not find; but they saw what eve ywhere in French-speaking Lower Canada is called a College, in which, with an adequate staff of teachers, young Frenchmen might be prepared for the studies pursued in the Theological Colleges of this country. And this, so far as the Committee could discover, was all that Mr. Chiniquy contemplated. If this work of reformation is to be carried on, it does appear that a French Institute, whether it be called a College or by any other name, is required for preparing young men for the Ministry. They did see some promising young men under training, who, if properly guided, may become able Ministers of the Gospel.

The Committee purpose making a representation to the Presbytery of Chicago in regard to the case, and hope that the Lord will graciously guide all interested in this matter, so that no injury may accrue to the cause of the Redeeme", or to the important work of reformation among the French-speaking people in Illinois. They would purposely refrain from being more specific in their statements at present, but hope ere long to be able to present a more full and favourable report of this case to the Church.
