all too low for safety. A little way before him he saw a small birch. If he could only make that he might escape.
Summoning all his strength he rushed for the tree, the bear closing fast upon him. Could he spring up out of reach of the bear's awful claws?

Two yards from the tree he heard an angry snap and snarl at his heels. With a cry, he dropped his gun, and springing for the lowest bough, drew up his legs quickly after him with the horrible feeling of having them ripped asunder. To his amazement he found that the bear was not scrambling up the tree after him, but was still some paces off, with Fido skirmishing at long range.
It was Fido's timely nip that had brought him to a sudden halt, and allowed Hughie to make his climb in safety.

"Good dog, Fido. Sic him! Sic him old fellow!" cried out Hughie, but Fido was new to this kind of warfare, and at every jump of the raging brute he tied into the brush with his tail between his legs, returning, however, to the attack as the bear retired.

After driving Fido off, the bear rushed at the tree, and in a fury began tearing up its roots. Then, as if realizing the futility of this, he flung himself upon its trunk and began snaking it with great violence from side to side.

Hughie soon saw that the tree would not long stand such an attack. He slipped down to the lowest bough so that his weight might be taken from the swaying top, and encouraging Fido, awaited results.

He found himself singularly cool.
Having escaped immediate danger, the hunter's instinct awoke within him, and he longed to get that bear. If he only had his gun, he would soon settle him, but the bear, unfortunately, had possession of that. He began hurriedly to cut off as stout a branch as he could to make himself a club. He was not a moment too soon, for the bear, realizing that he could neither tear up the tree by the roots nor shake his enemy out of it, decided, apparently, to go up for him.

He first set himself to get rid of Fido, which he partially succeeded in doing by chasing him a long distance off.
Then, with a great rush, he flew at the tree, and with amazing rapidity began to climb.

Hughie, surprised by this swift attack, hastened to climb to the higher branches but in a moment he saw that this would be fatal. Remembering that the bear is like the dog in his sensitive parts, he descended to meet his advancing foe, and reaching down, hit him a sharp blow on the snout. With a roar of rage and surprise the bear let go his hold, slipped to the ground, and began to tear up the earth, sneezing violently.

"Oh, if I only had that gun," groaned Hughie, "I'd get him. And if he gets away after Fido again, I believe I'll try it."

The bear now set himself to plan some new form of attack. He had been wounded, but only enough to enrage him, and his fury served to fix more firmly in his head the single purpose of getting into his grip this enemy of his in the tree, whom he appeared to have so nearly at his mercy.

Whatever his new plan might be, a necessary preliminary was getting rid of Fido, and this he proceeded to do.
Round about the tree he pursued him, getting farther and farther away from the birch, till Hughie, watching his chance, slipped down the tree and ran for his gun. But no sooner had he stopped for it than the bear saw the move, and with an angry roar rushed for him.

Once more Hughie sprang for his branch, but the gun caught in the boughs and he slipped to the ground, the bear within striking distance. With a cry he sprang again, reached his bough and drew himself up, holding his precious gun safe, wondering how he had escaped. Again it was Fido that had saved him, for as the bear had gathered himself to spring, Fido, seeing his chance rushed boldly in, and flinging himself upon the hind leg of the enraged brute, held fast. It was the boy's salvation, but alas! it was Fido's destruction, for wheeling suddenly, the bear struck a swift downward blow with his powerful front paw, and tore the whole side of the faithful brute wide open. With a

I Want to Write Every Canadian Farmer a Personal Letter

Naturally I would rather talk to you direct.
I know then I could sell nearly every Canadian Farmer I Talked with one of my Bike Harrow Carts. But unfortunately I can't be in more than one place at a time, so could not get very far by that method. I am compelled to write you instead on my new labor saving and money making implement.

An Implement

Which will attach to any harrow.
Which will steady the harrow, making it do better work.

Which makes it possible for any boy to do the harrowing.

Which will save your hired-man help.
Which will save you hard labor Which will save you money.

This is not alone our word for it but it is what the farmers tell us on every hand.

Farmers who a year or two ago were in the same position you are now, but who after they bought a cart of us, say they could not get along without it.

I call my cart the Bike Harrow Cart

Why do you ride on all your other labor implements?
The question is easy to answer. It saves you time, labor and money.

Just That

Why walk behind a harrow dragging on the horses' bits, chewing the dust and doing the hardest of field labor?

The Bike Harrow Cart answers that question for you. Don't do it. Buy my Bike Harrow Cart. It is the best investment you can make this year. It has every point of merit. Built entirely of steel. A high spring seat. Positive locking Pivot. Dust-proof Axles. High Oval Tired Wheels and Trussed. Built like a Bridge. Equipped with Betten-dorf Wheels. These and a lot of others are the features which make my cart popular with the farmers. It hasn't one of the following weak points found in other makes of carts. It has—No Wheel Movement for the Rider. No Castings to Break. No Friction Pivot.
(They don't work.) No Circles to get the Driver's Legs Tangled up in. No Rollers to Squeak or Wear Out, or Fail to Work. No Coil Springs to Weaken, etc. A cart with any of these features is a failure. Now lets get acquainted. I want to tell of a proposition I have to make you whereby you can buy this harrow cart without costing you one cent.
Write me to-day. It is too near harrowing time to delay. Write me now. Can ship quick.

My cash price includes the freight to your station. We carry a stock of carts in Winnipeg.
A HIGH WHEELER—LOOK AT IT.
