Thursday, 2nd September, 1915. PROGRESS OF THE WAR

[August 24 to August 30] THE past week was not a particularly eventful one in the war's progress so far as it is possible to judge from the extremely meagre news supplied by the various Governments concerned.

For the greater part of the week in the Western theatre quiet prevailed, but towards its close the Entente Allies display ed great activity, especially in the Argonne district and in the Vosges. Whether or not this portends the speed ation of the long-waited-for drive of the Allies, cannot be stated with any certainty; but the drive, if there is to be one iderably overdue.

In the East the Teutons continued advance further into Poland, the Russians retiring before them : but at the extrem more than held their own. Brest-Litovsk was evacuated, after the removal destruction of all material that might be useful to the enemy for military purposes It was said at the close of the week that evacuation of Vilna, but this had not actually been effected. It is not yet apparent where Russia is to make a definite stand; but it is doubtful if the Teutons beyond the ground occupied at the close of the week under review. Indications are that a further advance will be as much conditions, as by any military resistance shadowed, namely, the guerilla warfare and in the zeal shown by the government which the Poles are likely to carry on as in promoting the interests of the fishing opportunity permits; and in this form of warfare, as history has shown, the Poles

Will expedite events.

Until the close of the week but little news was given out of the activities of the Italians on the Austrian frontier, but in the last days of the week it was stated the Italians were meeting with success in the north-west, north and north-east. This mountain warfare is of the most difficult character, and progress is necessing the control of the professional fishermen, and 1,400,000 more are professional fishermen, and 1,400,000 more part of their time to fishing and the

The diplomatic difficulties between America and Germany had begun to show signs of amicable adjustment; and if negotiations are actually taking the course they were said to be pursuing. The prominence of Japanese fisheries is due to the encouragement of the government. Officials have been sent to the United States as well as to Europe to study the methods in vogue, and there is at Tokio an Imperial fisheries institute, as at Tokio an Imperial fishe facilitate peace negotiations when the school with which no other in war has fought itself out.
