NOTICE.

The Judges of the Provincial Industrial Exhibition are requested to attend at the Bonsecours Market, THIS MORNING, at NINE o'clock precisely.

The Industrial Exhibition.

By the kindness of the Committee, we were yesterday afternoon permitted to walk through the rooms appropriated to the Exhibition; of course it would be improper to make any comments on what we saw, till the public generally have been admitted; in our next number, however, we hope to be able to let folks at a distance have an idea of what the Exhibition really is.

We are requested to state that the Exhibition will not be opened to-day until TWO o'clock, and that tickets of admission during the three days may be had at the door, 5s. each. Single admission, 1s. 3d. Children under 12 years of age half price.

The Garrison, consisting of the Royal Artillery and the 20th Regiment, will parade on the Champ de Mars this day, at 12 o'clock. The Commander of the Forces and his Staff will be present. There will also be a Field-Day on Saturday, in the vicinity of the city, about the same hour.

JENNY LIND.—We have been informed, that this charitable lady has given six autographs, on the solicitation of a gentleman of this city, to the Protestant Orphan Asylum Bazaar, to be held in Corse's Hotel this day. We have no doubt but that they will realize a handsome sum.

We have received from Mr. W. Morris, of this city, a lithographic copy of his brother's (Mr. A. Morris) painting of "Jacques Cartier's first interview with the Indians in 1535." It is a very creditable production, and as a historical subject, must recommend itself to every Canadian.

We have received the number of "The Bulletin of the American Art Union" for October. It contains an account of the proceedings of the Association, and two good engravings—one from Cozzs' celebrated painting "Manhood," and the other a sporting subject.

A work on the condition of the British West India Islands is about to appear, written by Mr. Bigelow, one of the Editors of the New York Evening Post. The well-known talents of the author will ensure the large circulation of the work and we are confident that it will prove a most interesting one.

We have received some late Boston papers from Mr. Doane. They contain nothing of importance.

We understand that Mr. HENRY B. JAMIESON was arraigned yesterday for the destruction of the Parliament Buildings. There being no English names on the Jury, his trial has been put off until to-morrow.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.—The House of Bishops, now in session at Cincinnati, have rejected the petition of the Diocese of New York, both by a majority of about 2 to 1. A canon has been passed by the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, providing for the election of an Assistant Bishop where the Bishop of a diocese has been suspended. The Convention have adopted a resolution providing for a triennial meeting of the Trustees of the Theological Seminary at the same time with the Convention.

The Bishop of Quebec returned to that city on Saturday last, from a visit, first to Bishops College, Lennoxville, where he met the Bishop of Montreal, and their Lordships both attended a meeting of the College Corporation, and, secondly, a visit to Montreal, where both took part in the proceedings of the Incorporated Church Society.

EXCITEMENT AT DETROIT.—The excitement on the subject of fugitive slaves continues to rage at Detroit. The jail is still guarded by military companies. At Sandwich, in Canada, opposite Detroit, there are, at the least calculation, three hundred negroes, who lately crossed the river. The house of an Irishman, who informed of the negro fugitive now in jail, was attacked on the 12th, and guns and pistols were fired by both the assailants and those inside, and some blood shed. A large meeting has been held by the friends of freedom, at which the Mayor presided.—Speeches were made by Hon. S. Bingham, Mayor, and Messrs. Joy and Emmons. Some persons anticipate trouble when the negro is out; he is now awaiting his papers. A subscription has been raised sufficient to purchase his liberty, should he be sent back.

FANCY BALL AT LOUISVILLE.—Miss Sallie Ward.—The Louisville (Ky.) Courier contains the description of a fancy ball which came off at the residence of Robert J. Ward, in that city, on the 25th ultimo, and speaking of Miss Sallie Ward, late Mrs T. Bigelow Lawrence, says:—

"Miss Sallie Ward, as usual, was the centre of attraction. She appeared during the evening in two splendid costumes, each of which was peculiarly becoming. Before supper she was 'Nourmahal, the Light of the Harem.' She wore a pink satin shirt, with silver lamous over it, and a bodice embroidered with silver and studded with diamonds; her oriental sleeves were of white, adorned with silver and gold, and her trowsers of satin, spangled with glittering gold; her hair was braided with pearls and covered with a beautiful Greek cap, and her tiny pink slippers were gorgeously embroidered with silver. The splendid jewels profused over this magnificent costume threw back the light which fell upon them as in sheer disdain of inferior effulgence. Her second appearance was 'Nourmahal at the Feast of Roses.' Her dress was white illusion, dotted with silver, white silvered veil, wreath of white roses, white silk boots with silver anklets; and she bore the charmed lute. In this latter character she was a beautiful exemplification of the poetical thought she represented."

POISONING OF A WHOLE FAMILY.—A most intense excitement was produced on Saturday, in the Ninth Ward, by a report that was about like wild fire, that the family of John Hohn, grocer, at the corner of Bedford and Leroy streets, had been poisoned. The immediate neighbors, especially, were agitated, and suspicion ran strong against the party supposed to have administered the deadly dose. It appears that the family, consisting of Robert Hohn (wife of John,) Mrs. Mary Wynn, (his sister,) John Hohn, Jr., (son of John the elder,) 14 years of age, and Bridget Phelan, a servant, had all taken sick on Friday night, under the following circumstances:—About seven o'clock on Friday evening, these members of the family partook of supper, and on drinking some of the tea, they found it had a very disagreeable taste, and then took milk instead of it, which they found had the same taste. They were all astonished, and could not account for it. Just after they had done supper, Mr. Hohn came up stairs, and on his wife asking him whether he would take tea or milk, he said he would have the latter. He raised the cup containing milk to his lips, and immediately laid it down, saying it had a very bad taste. The son took ill immediately after, and while he was still at the table. The wife and sister were seized in half-an-hour after, and the servant in about two hours. Physicians were called in, who used the stomach-pump in extracting the poison from the wife and sister, and so far succeeded that the patients were pronounced out of danger on Saturday evening. The servant girl is also doing well; but the little boy lies in a very precarious state. At a quarter past nine o'clock on Saturday evening, Hohn was arrested by Captain Lovett, of the Ninth Ward, on the charge of poisoning. His account of the affair is self-contradictory, and most unsatisfactory. Previous to his arrest, he stated that he had the balance of the tea and milk at the store, and it was afterwards found there in a can. On being taken to the station house, he said he had thrown the milk into the slop pail, and went immediately and brought some more at the same place! It is stated that he lived on very disagreeable terms with his wife, and that there is a large estate to which he is heir. It is a very serious business.—United States Paper.

INGENIOUS MODE TO AID A PRISONER'S ESCAPE.—Yesterday morning a suspicious looking package was received at the Post Office in this city, post-marked "St. Louis—20c. paid—Charles Baker, care of M. Wickersham." Baker, to whom the package was addressed, was arrested a month or two since, on the mail route between this place and St. Louis, after being detected in the act of taking one of the mail bags. A few days after this, some discoveries were made in a trunk in possession of a woman passing for Baker's wife, in St. Louis, which implicated him as having been extensively engaged in mail depredations. During Baker's confinement several demonstrations have been made at night about the jail, as supposed, to effect his release; and on one or two occasions he came very near making his escape. The jailer therefore put him in irons, and secured him to the floor. The package alluded to was opened and found to contain three pamphlets, bound together and lettered with gold, "All for Love." Our postmaster and Mr. W. concluded that these pamphlets—one of which was the trial of Professor Webster—were not so neatly bound for nothing. Accordingly the book was taken to a bookbinder, who pronounced that nothing was concealed about it. This did not satisfy Wickersham. He thought from the thickness of the covers that the book contained something which was to assist Baker in making his escape. After reaching home he commenced cutting up the covers of the book, and two small saws about eight inches in length, such as machinists use in sawing iron, were brought to view. None but a workman could have concealed these saws in the cover of a book; none but a sagacious rogue could have suggested the plan, and none but a vigilant jailer could have detected it.—Springfield (Ill.) Journal.

MURDER BY A LUNATIC.—About eight o'clock last night, the neighborhood of the Five Points was thrown into a state of great commotion by the doings of a lunatic, named Peter Howland. It appears that this person, who is a colored man, was lodged, on a charge of insanity, in the City Hospital, from which he made his escape, a few days since, to the colored boarding house of John Williams, in the rear of No. 157 Leonard street. He re he had an altercation with a boarder, which provoked him to such an extent that he procured a knife, and made several attempts to stab persons in the house. He then fled up stairs and took possession of one of the rooms, where he remained, with a shocking manner, a colored man, who was lying in bed at the time.

Several persons, in attempting to go up stairs, were foiled by a bed post in the hands of the lunatic, so that it was at last found necessary to send for a detachment of police to secure him. As it was impossible for more than one person to go up stairs at a time, there was considerable danger attending his capture. Each time, however, he was met only with blows. Finally, one officer, armed with a discharge of all the missiles within his reach. After some hours spent in endeavoring to cure him, he was at last struck down by a club in the hands of one of the police, and taken into custody. Besides the man found murdered in the room, another named Frank Rapper, also colored, is not expected to survive his wounds. A colored woman, named Rebecca Butler, is in a very dangerous state. Several other persons are cut and otherwise injured. Howland is at present in the tombs, awaiting the result of the coroner's inquest.

The French Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, has decided that a commission shall be formed for drawing up measures for re-stocking with fish, the rivers, lakes, and ponds of the country.

There is great political agitation in Morocco. The Emperor's authority is disregarded, and the taxes are not paid.

The price of bread in Paris, is fixed at twenty-nine centimes, the kilogramme, first quality, and twenty-two centimes, second quality, for the second fortnight in September.

A singular discovery has been made in Madagascar. Fossil eggs of an enormous size have been found in the bed of a torrent. The shells are an eighth of an inch thick, and the circumference of the egg itself is 2 feet 8 inches lengthwise, and 2 feet 2 inches round the middle.

Gainsborough has been kept in a state of excitement, by a number of boys being placed in the stocks in the market-place for Sunday gaming. They were confined three hours each on several days.

Irish society is divided into three great classes, 1st. Anglo-Irish Catholics or the Pale; 2nd. Protestant and Presbyterian land-holders and gentry; the descendants of the Scotch and English Colonists, since the time of James I. 3rd. Professional men and tradesmen of all religious persuasions. To the last of these three classes, the larger Vice-Regal entertainments are confined.

The French steamer, Mr. Poiterin, has been ascending by a balloon, while seated on the back of a donkey. One of the journals anticipates, as a forthcoming novelty, the ascension of the donkey on M. Poiterin's back.

The Duchess of Leeds is a great proselyting Romanist, while the Duke is averse from all priestcraft. The Duchess, who is constantly loaded with tracts, was offering some to a gentleman, who accepted very reluctantly. The Duke, observing the proceedings, stepped up, and said, "accept, accept, my friend. The tracts are useful; here are some segars for you."

The Austrian Government has borrowed the small sum of £700,000 of certain bankers in Hamburg and in Berlin, on the security of the national domains.

Mr. Lillingstone, of Inverness-shire, has introduced the planting of tobacco on his estate, and fields which formerly grew potatoes now bear a luxuriant crop of this plant.

SHAKESPEARE IN SCOTLAND.—At a dinner lately given at Stratford-upon-Avon, in celebration of the nativity of Shakespeare's birth, Mr. Russell said he was reading "Lear," and "As you like it," in Derbyshire; one man of the town said to another, "Shakspeare's coming to-day;"—another said—"Hast thee seen him, you—what is he like?" "Why," replied the other, "a man in a blue coat, with a book under his arm." Thirty years ago a lady, who kept a ladies' school in Stratford, told him seriously "that Shakspeare was very little thought of till Lemon-ade became a watering-place." Some short time since he was in Scotland, and called upon Sir Adam Ferguson, who was a very intimate friend of Sir Walter Scott, and upon Mr. Russell mentioning that he was given public "Readings from Shakspeare," Sir Adam said, "Oh, Shakspeare—I can tell you something about that. A lady of my acquaintance wanted some prints which I had, and very good ones they were too, upon being handed over to her, and put in proper order, she came to a likeness of Shakspeare. The old woman said, "Weel, and what is that?" "Oh," replied Sir Adam, "that is Shakspeare before Sir Thomas Lucy." "Weel," added the old dame, "but what's he doing?" "Doing," said her friend, "he's taken up for deer stealing." "Tak him awa, tak him awa,"—exclaimed the old lady, "I'll hae no sic a fellow in my house!"

Mr. Cowling, of Trinity College, late Tory candidate for Cambridge, in Parliament. Quoting the papers says he resembles, in character, the ideal described somewhere by Punch:

Pig-headed, bigoted, heavy as lead,
Cyclop, with eye at the back of his head—
Stunted protectionist, High Church methodist—
To new ights of all sorts, pledged objectionists—
That's the man for St. John's and me,
That's the man for the Varsity!

The Russian Empire.

All the troops cantoned in the southern provinces of Russia have received orders to be collected into one army, for the purpose of being reviewed previous to the commencement of winter, and it is positively announced that the Emperor and his whole staff at once will come to Kiew, to Odessa, to Sebastopol, and to Bessarabia. The agents of the government upon this report for the purpose of exciting the national and religious enthusiasm of the people. At no former period has Russia made such formidable military preparations as she is making at the present moment. The government gives it to be understood that it is preparing for a guerre sainte in favor of Sclavism and the orthodox religion. Notwithstanding all this, the Emperor is far from being satisfied. His sons, the state of France and of Poland disquiet him. It is said that he regards with great apprehension the indolence of his eldest son and the ambition of his second, and he contemplates with horror the revolutionary spirit prevalent in Poland. In a conversation with his favorite, M. Tourkoul, the Minister for the Affairs of Poland, he said:—

If Turkey had delivered the refugees to me, I should have heaped favors upon them, and have reconciled the Poles with Russia. Now they have other hopes, and I must continue to treat them as a conquered nation, which will not increase their affection. They will prevent the accomplishment of the duties of the great end which I had proposed to myself.

He appears to have convinced himself that the President of the French Republic, notwithstanding all the anxiety he shows to be on a good footing with Russia, is too much in and up with England, and especially with Lord Palmerston, whom he always speaks of as a dangerous politician, to be on sincere good terms with him. These three matters give much more uneasiness to the Russian cabinet than the affairs of Germany; and it is on this account that people in this country begin to wish for the restoration of legitimacy in France, and the re-establishment of the kingdom of Po and as it existed in 1830, or, in other words, the pure and simple return to the state of Europe, as settled in the treaties of 1815.

General Haynau.

The Vienna correspondent of the Times, under date September 18, writes as follows:—As I supposed that General Haynau's account of what took place at Barclay's, would not prove unacceptable, I have taken advantage of his presence here, to learn the particulars from his own lips. He had been about three-quarters of an hour in the brewhouse before the attack was made upon him, and he distinctly says that the originators of the outrage were, as far as he could judge from their clothing, draymen, but that they were certainly subsequently aided and abetted by some individuals whom he recognized as clerks. The General does not seem to have submitted with lamb-like patience to the indignities offered him, for he states that his attendants came to repeated contact with some hard substance, which there is good reason for believing was the skull of a draryman. The truth of the whipping business, is as follows:—Madame de Maderspach, a lady in affluent circumstances, having dressed up a figure like the Emperor, committed it to the hands of her people, who first subjected it to all possible indignities, and then interred it with many ridiculous ceremonies. As your correspondent of the 12th, "A Londoner," rightly states, a cavalry captain, who commanded a detachment in the neighborhood, took upon himself to sentence the lady to twenty-five blows with a rod, which punishment was inflicted. General Haynau, who was commander-in-chief at the time, was some 30 German miles (about 140 English) distant when the circumstance occurred.—He never saw Madame de Maderspach until he had been some time in Pesth, when she called on him and implored him to liberate her eldest son, who had been pressed into the army. I have the Feldzeugmeister's authority for stating that her request was instantly granted. The impression produced upon me by Haynau's remarks is, that he is more astonished than indignant that 200 or 300 Englishmen should have assaulted him. General Haynau dined, yesterday, with Prince Schwartzenburg, and all the officers in garrison here have been to pay their respects to him.
