Mr. Pugsley's.

(From the News of Toronto.)

A politician-for-revenue-only always can be trusted to drag politics into every question, it is not strange, therefore, that Mr Pugeley accuses the Landry Commission of partizan. ship. He complains that his enemies have conspired to ruin him, Talk like that has been heard before. Every pickpocket who is brought before the courts accuses the police of plotting against him. If he were honest he would have no trouble. So also, if Mr Pugsley, this "smooth proposition" from New Brunswick, had played a square game himself he would not be so ready to accuse others of cheating. The man with aces up his sleeve is always the one to scrutinize his opponents' clothing. Lat it be understood that Mr Page scheme as well as the satisfaction of pected to produce additional rev that uncomplimentary nick-name the greater share of the load. whereby he is called from Campbelford to the See. "Slippery Bill" is not the product of a straightforward public career.

Mr Pugsley's speech in the house was "emooth" of course. But it was not true, and he knows it. The first mis-statement was that he had never taken a dollar from the Provincial Treasury to which he was not entitled. At one time his salary account was overdrawn by $7,000 After he was appointed Minister of Public Works be paid the Province $2,000 which he still owed. One cannot but wonder at the colossal assurance of the man in imagining that this thing is forgotten so soon.

Mr Pugsley said that the Commis sioners did not ask the president of the company or the directors to file an account of their receipts and disbursements from the beginning to the end. This is a slight change in wording from his first complaint. Formerly he said that he bimself had no opportunity to make an accounting before the Commission. But in view of the fact that the president and directors did nothing and that Mr Pugeley did everything, the complaint is really the same. This is true. Judge Landry adjourned the inquiry to eccommodate Mr Pageley. He elso wrote him to the effect that it was most important that be should make his statements as to the disposition of the money. ered suggestion that he take a rest. Increased income taxes, death estate and legacies duties, a tax of 20 per cent on future increases in the value of lands due to the enterprises of the community, taxes on motors to be devoted to keeping up the roads, and stamp taxes on sales of property, are the principal levies

> The Government gets its revenge for the rejection recently by the Lords of the Licensing Bill by increasing the taxes on some classes of public bouses and the customs excise duties on spirits. A tax of three pence in the pound on sales of iquore also is imposed, and this is likely to antagonize both the liquor interests and the workingmen. On the other hand the latter are placated knowing that the rich are to carry upon wealth.

The new taxation bears heavily on corporations. The only features affecting the United States are the of three pence per gallon on petrol and heavier stamp duties on stock transactions.

The first comments of the members of both parties indicated astonishment at the number and the sweeping nature of the changes in the country's financial system. "The maddest budget ever introduced," Sir Frederick George Banbury termed it during the course of a peech, in which he declared that he new budget included every fad on the face of the earth. Austen Chamberlain denounced it for imposing so large a proportion of the nation's burdens on a few people by different devices. John Redmond, leader of the Irish party, asserted that the whiskey tax imposed another burden on Ireland which the Nationalists would resist by every means. The increase on the tax on tobacco, he declared, would be a ruel hardship to the poor of Ireland, LLOYD-GEORGE OVERCOME. The delivery of the budget speech
