Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualic acid and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula. The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been initiated often, but never successfully. OIL COMPANY FAVORS GOING TO THE LAKE Main Reason Why Big Offices Were Moved Was Prospective Good Supply.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, Oct. 31.-The Imperial Oil Company has declared itself in favor of the waterworks being removed to Point Edward and several of the town's prominent physicians have expressed themselves publicly in favor of the lake water.

Mr. Mosler, of the Mueller Brass Company, is also in favor of the water supply being taken from the lake, and at the solicitation of a number of the town's businessmen, one of the local weekly papers will be turned into a daily from Friday until Nov. 5, when the proposition will be voted upon by the people.

Mr. Stillman, of the Imperial Oil Company, one of the greatest obstacles to the moving of the Buffalo and New York offices of the company to Sarnia last spring was the reputation of the town's drinking water, and it was only upon his representations that the source of supply would be remedied at once that the directors consented to the arrangement.

Mr. Stillman goes on to say that the concern discontinued the use of the water, and is now using well water for their employees.

NO CASE AGAINST LAD FOR THEFT OF WIRE The Juvenile Was Discharged When He Appeared in the Court at Ingersoll.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Oct. 31.-The charge of theft against a local lad of 14 years was dismissed by Magistrate Patterson in juvenile court yesterday afternoon. The lad was accused of stealing a quantity of copper wire from the hydro-electric commission.

The wire, which was produced in court, was sold by the youngster to a local junk dealer for seven and a half cents per pound. Through his counsel, Mr. J. C. Hegler, the boy pleaded not guilty.

While he admitted selling the wire, he contended through his solicitor that he had gathered the wire at the rear of premises formerly occupied by the electric commission as a store-house and that the wire was regarded as waste, having apparently been abandoned.

Employees of the commission, who were called as witnesses, were unable to positively identify the wire as having been the property of the commission. Under the circumstances, Mr. Hegler argued that no case had been made out against the boy, a view that was shared by the magistrate.

A police court case will follow the disorderly conduct of a couple of passengers on a trolley car from Woodstock Monday evening. When the car neared Centreville, the two passengers, it is alleged, became involved in an altercation which eventually led to fist-cuffs. As a result of their conduct one of the windows was broken, and more or less excitement prevailed for a while. The company has had considerable annoyance from passengers in the past, and have decided to make an example of those guilty of rowdism. Informations have been sworn out, and the case will likely come up in the police court in the course of a few days.

THE ORIGIN OF HALLOW'E'EN. [By Cynthia Grey.]

All Hallow's eve, the GOBLINS walk! The wind cries in fear; the moon laughs away up yonder in the clouds; the cats hiss, the lights flicker and burn low, the witches peer, the owls hoot and the bats wave their foppish, noiseless wings in the still air.

It's the night when the SPOOKS appear to man; fortunes and futures are read in signs and the weird Sprite of the hour is king of all. Hallow'e'en is the time when all the world makes merry; delights in its shivers of apprehension over sights and sounds, and gives itself up to belief in the supernatural.

All Hallow's eve falls on the last day of October, the day following being All Saints' day, or All Hallow's. This is the date of the last of the three festivals held by the Druids, who in olden times were scattered over Northern Europe. They were observed May 1, the time of sowing; June 21, the season of ripening of crops, and Oct. 31, the harvest season.

On the night of Oct. 31, the Druids assembled at the altars in their snow-white robes, and at a given signal, during absolute silence on the part of the multitude, gathered to witness the ceremony of solemnly extinguishing the fires. New fires were then built. As the flames leaped heavenward, the people snatched burning embers from it, went home, extinguished the old fires on their hearths and built new ones. These were believed to protect each homestead so long as they remained burning.
