Italian Cabinet Minister Says All the Allles Are Responsible. [Canadian Press.]

Padua, Italy, Jan. 16, via Rome, Jan. 16, 11 p.m.—Signor Barzilai, cabinet minister without portfolio, in an address here today, speaking apparently for the Government, declared that it was useless to attribute to Italy responsibility for the taking of Lovcen and the Montenegrin disaster. In the case of the loss of Servia, he said, the blame was collective, and the result of the Allies' ineffective program. 'Our enemies," said the minister, "find | salvation in silent, servile obedience imposed by one man. We should have foreseen this work, because of the un-certainties inherent in a leage of free There is no ground for the charge that Italy is responsible for the errors of last June.
