

Hard Times scared to Death

"We cannot tell a lie, we did it with our little hands," when we knocked the covers off our immense, low priced

SPRING & SUMMER GOODS.

SPRING STOCK

English, Scotch, French, German, Canadian, and Domestic Cloths.

"Simon pure" Goods.

Ready made clothing

Men's and Youths'

Boots and Shoes,

Gents' Furnishing Goods,

HATS AND CAPS.

Zinc, Leather & Wood

TRUNKS.

Latest Fashion Plates,

Elegant Styles and Beautiful Fabrics.

Spring Garments

T. W. Smith & Son

CLOTHIERS,

Low priced Boot and Shoe Men.

June 7th, 1892

Ladies of York County.

Staple and Fancy

DRY GOODS,

DRESS GOODS

Colored Sateens,

BROCADES,

PRINTS & CAMBRICS,

LOREEN SUITINGS,

ELEGANT BLACK

COLORED SILKS,

SUNSHADES AND PARASOLS,

Hats,

Feathers,

Ribbons,

Gloves and

Hosiery,

MILLINERY GOODS

Household Furnishing Goods,

Park's Warps and Knitting Cottons,

Wholesale and Retail.

ALBION HOUSE,

F. B. EDGECOMBE.

Maritime Farmer.

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 5, 1892.

Local Government.

The leader of the Opposition has returned from his tour in the North, in search of a new government, and from his anxious consultations with the two gentlemen in St. John, who were to be Provincial Secretary and Solicitor General in his administration, a sadder and, it is to be hoped, a wiser man. But here we were wrong, as we are told, that Mr. Blair did obtain the signature to his document and promise of support of a Vail. But the King's doctor, in committing himself, in hope of a prospective Speakership, has met the proverbial fate of those who try to sit on two stools at once. It is said besides that Mr. Blair obtained the signatures of seven more of the newly elected. But how far does eight fall short of the twenty-six of his organ! There is no wonder that he is deeply grieved at the result of his mission, and that the measure of his confidence is down to zero. The fact that the Government is re-constructed stands well with the people of the Province must now be painfully apparent to him.

It is nonsense to say that the candidate's holding an important office under government, recommends him to the support of the electors of a County, irrespective of the merits of the government of which he is a member. Had the government been so unpopular, had so fallen in estimation throughout the Province, as his enemies pretend, would all his chief members be returned at the head of the polls in their respective Counties by great majorities? Surely Mr. Blair does not believe that Mr. Collier was returned in York over himself by so enormous a majority, solely because he held the office of Chief Commissioner of Board of Works! Nobody really believes that. Had the Province really more confidence in him as the leader of any administration he could form than in Messrs. Hanington, Landry, Adams and Collier, and had half as eagerly desired to see him in power as he is to see himself, the electors would have made the members of the government unmistakably feel that they had lost favor; if they had thought of them as the opposition press has spoken of them, they would have given them a place at all. Instead of having been punished for joining the Hon. Mr. Fraser in 1878, Messrs. Hanington, Landry and Adams, stand higher than ever in the estimation of their constituents and in the confidence of the Province.

Ridiculous speculations have been indulged in, as to the weakness of the Government by the opposition, but they have a well founded confidence that they will be sustained by a good working majority. Ill-natured rumors have been set afloat that there was dissatisfaction in their midst, and that some further reconstruction was to be done. But the only new move in their ranks has been the appointment of Dr. Lewis, Albert, who takes the place of Hon. Mr. Marshall, who has retired, and who was sworn in on Tuesday evening. Constituted as they now are, the Government will face Mr. Blair and his Opposition with the greatest confidence.

DeLong's Last Entries.

Lieutenant Millville, who last heard from him as at Yakutat, forward to Washington, the note book of DeLong, Captain of the ill-fated "Jeannette," polar explorer. DeLong's party endured terrible sufferings from intense cold and want of food. The concluding entries are as follows:—

"Monday, Oct. 10.—Last half ounce of alcohol at 3.30. At 6.30 sent Alexy to look for ptarmigan; ate deer skin scraps. Yesterday morning ate a deer skin foot. Under way at 8 A. M. In crossing the river got wet, built a fire and dried out. Ahead again till 11. Used up a fire and made a new one. He had had down the alcohol bottle. On again at noon; very hard going; ptarmigan tracks plentiful. At 1.30 halted; used up a candle in a hole in the bank. Alexy went in quest of game; nothing for supper except a spoonful of glycerine. All hands weak and feeble, but cheerful. God help us.

"Tuesday.—South west gale with snow; unable to move. No game. One spoonful of glycerine and water for food. No more wood in our vicinity.

"Wednesday.—For breakfast took the last spoonful of glycerine and hot water; for dinner a couple of handfuls of Arctic willow in hot water, and drank the infusion. Every body getting weaker and weaker. Hardly able to get through. South-west gale with snow.

"Thursday.—Willow tea. No news from Niamah. Alexy died at 1.30. We cannot move against the wind, and staying here means starvation. "I am crossing the river on a beam of the Big River missed Lee. Went down in a hole in the bank and camped for Lee. Sent back for Lee. He had had down the alcohol bottle. On again at noon; very hard going; ptarmigan tracks plentiful. At 1.30 halted; used up a candle in a hole in the bank. Alexy went in quest of game; nothing for supper except a spoonful of glycerine. All hands weak and feeble, but cheerful. God help us.

"Friday.—Alexy dying. The Doctor baptised him. Read prayers for the soul of the late Alexy died of exhaustion from starvation. "Covered him with snow and hid him in the crib.

"Saturday.—Calm, mild; snow falling. Buried Alexy in the afternoon. He died on the ice and covered him with snow.

"Sunday.—Outing up the tent to make for gear. The Doctor went ahead to find a new camp. Shined by day.

"Monday.—Bright, sunny, but very cold. Lee and Kaack died.

"Tuesday.—Kaack died at midnight between the Doctor and myself. Lee about noon. Read prayers for the sick when we found he had died. He had had down the alcohol bottle.

"Wednesday.—Took walk to carry the bodies of Lee and Kaack out to the ice. The Doctor, Collins, and myself carried them around the corner out of sight; then my eyes closed up.

"Thursday.—Every body pretty weak. Slept or rested too, and did not go on so much enough work in before dark. Read part of divine service. Suffering in our feet. No food.

"Friday.—Iverson died during the early morning.

"Saturday.—Dresser died during the night.

"Sunday.—Boyd and Gertz died during the night. Collins dying.

This is the end of DeLong's diary. DeLong, Surgeon Analer, and Ah Lom, the cook, must have died soon after the last note was written.

No trace has been found of Lieut. Chipp and his companions who formed the crew of the second cutter of the "Jeannette" Lieut. Melville telegraphing on 10th April, in Melville stated:—

"I have searched the coast from the river Alouk to the river Jara, but have found no traces of the second cutter of Lieut Chipp's party. I have buried the remains of Lieutenants DeLong, Dr. Analer, Lieut. Gertz, Dresser, Kaack, Mosen, and Boyd, and the Chinese servant Ah Lom. I have secured every paper pertaining to the expedition. The remains of Lieut. Chipp and the Indian Alexy have been buried in the river Lena. I am now on route for Irkutsk."

Habits of Disrespect in the Family.

One of the dangers of home life is the habit of disrespect which is bred by familiarity. People who are all beauty and sunshine for a crowd of strangers, for whom they exert every effort to please, are all ugliness and gloom for their own, by whose love they live. The pleasant little pretenses of dress and person, adornment, which make the desire to please, are all gone for the admiration of those who admiration goes for nothing, while the house companions are treated only to the rugged, good and shabby beard, which, if marking the ease and comfort of home, mark also the indifference and disrespect that do so much damage to the sweetness and delicacy of daily life. And what is true of the domestic life, is both of the origin and temper of home, in both of which we too often find that want of respect which seems to run side by side with affection in the custom of familiarity.

WINTER'S BALM OF WILD CHERRY cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Hoarseness, and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest. 50 cents and $1 a bottle.

Irish.

The Lord Lieutenant, Earl Spencer, on Wednesday last, in answer to an address from Irish Presbyterians said that, hopeful signs of restraining desire were showing themselves among those connected with the material interests of Ireland. Such confidence we imagine could only have come from a belief that the country is becoming more quiet. It can never be restored while whiteboyism and terrorism are rampant.

On Thursday an incident occurred which was calculated to shake confidence. As Mr. Blake a Justice of the Peace and agent (a marriage connection) of Earl Clarendon and his servant Terry Keene were driving from Rothville, Killalea, County Galway, on the public road, and when fired at by a party of Loughers, they were driven to a party behind a loughed wall, and riddled with bullets. The scene of this dreadful double murder was not far from the place where Mr. Burke and the dragon were killed three weeks ago.

It is stated in private telegrams to New York, that in the event of England being plunged in war on account of the Egyptian difficulty, there will be no military risk in Ireland, and that the plans for such movements were concocted after the dinner given in Mr. Parnell's honor last Wednesday in London. Much credence should not be given to this report. "England's difficulty is Ireland's opportunity," is an old saying, but the hope of the success of a revolutionary movement would be as small if England were at war with an external foe, as it will always be while she is at peace. It might be that were England immersed in a great war and she was compelled to withdraw a large portion of regular troops now in Ireland, that the extreme party might venture upon a rising. But the regular troops and men enough to maintain her authority there.

Mr. Parnell, we suppose, can have no sympathy with those who talk of revolution in any case. He has become, as the dinner in his honor testified, completely reconciled to those members of the advanced party, namely, Dillon, and Donel and others who showed a disposition to separate from him after the Kilmichael compact, and he became reconciled on terms with the British Government. He will not encourage under any circumstances, any movement that would make the state of Ireland ten times worse than it is now, and would for his time and long postpone the satisfactory settlement of the land question, and the concession of a local legislature to Ireland to which events are, of slowly, moving.

DeLong's Last Entries.

Lieutenant Millville, who last heard from him as at Yakutat, forward to Washington, the note book of DeLong, Captain of the ill-fated "Jeannette," polar explorer. DeLong's party endured terrible sufferings from intense cold and want of food. The concluding entries are as follows:—

"Monday, Oct. 10.—Last half ounce of alcohol at 3.30. At 6.30 sent Alexy to look for ptarmigan; ate deer skin scraps. Yesterday morning ate a deer skin foot. Under way at 8 A. M. In crossing the river got wet, built a fire and dried out. Ahead again till 11. Used up a fire and made a new one. He had had down the alcohol bottle. On again at noon; very hard going; ptarmigan tracks plentiful. At 1.30 halted; used up a candle in a hole in the bank. Alexy went in quest of game; nothing for supper except a spoonful of glycerine. All hands weak and feeble, but cheerful. God help us.

"Tuesday.—South west gale with snow; unable to move. No game. One spoonful of glycerine and water for food. No more wood in our vicinity.

"Wednesday.—For breakfast took the last spoonful of glycerine and hot water; for dinner a couple of handfuls of Arctic willow in hot water, and drank the infusion. Every body getting weaker and weaker. Hardly able to get through. South-west gale with snow.

"Thursday.—Willow tea. No news from Niamah. Alexy died at 1.30. We cannot move against the wind, and staying here means starvation. "I am crossing the river on a beam of the Big River missed Lee. Went down in a hole in the bank and camped for Lee. Sent back for Lee. He had had down the alcohol bottle. On again at noon; very hard going; ptarmigan tracks plentiful. At 1.30 halted; used up a candle in a hole in the bank. Alexy went in quest of game; nothing for supper except a spoonful of glycerine. All hands weak and feeble, but cheerful. God help us.

"Friday.—Alexy dying. The Doctor baptised him. Read prayers for the soul of the late Alexy died of exhaustion from starvation. "Covered him with snow and hid him in the crib.

"Saturday.—Calm, mild; snow falling. Buried Alexy in the afternoon. He died on the ice and covered him with snow.

"Sunday.—Outing up the tent to make for gear. The Doctor went ahead to find a new camp. Shined by day.

"Monday.—Bright, sunny, but very cold. Lee and Kaack died.

"Tuesday.—Kaack died at midnight between the Doctor and myself. Lee about noon. Read prayers for the sick when we found he had died. He had had down the alcohol bottle.

"Wednesday.—Took walk to carry the bodies of Lee and Kaack out to the ice. The Doctor, Collins, and myself carried them around the corner out of sight; then my eyes closed up.

"Thursday.—Every body pretty weak. Slept or rested too, and did not go on so much enough work in before dark. Read part of divine service. Suffering in our feet. No food.

"Friday.—Iverson died during the early morning.

"Saturday.—Dresser died during the night.

"Sunday.—Boyd and Gertz died during the night. Collins dying.

This is the end of DeLong's diary. DeLong, Surgeon Analer, and Ah Lom, the cook, must have died soon after the last note was written.

No trace has been found of Lieut. Chipp and his companions who formed the crew of the second cutter of the "Jeannette" Lieut. Melville telegraphing on 10th April, in Melville stated:—

"I have searched the coast from the river Alouk to the river Jara, but have found no traces of the second cutter of Lieut Chipp's party. I have buried the remains of Lieutenants DeLong, Dr. Analer, Lieut. Gertz, Dresser, Kaack, Mosen, and Boyd, and the Chinese servant Ah Lom. I have secured every paper pertaining to the expedition. The remains of Lieut. Chipp and the Indian Alexy have been buried in the river Lena. I am now on route for Irkutsk."

Habits of Disrespect in the Family.

One of the dangers of home life is the habit of disrespect which is bred by familiarity. People who are all beauty and sunshine for a crowd of strangers, for whom they exert every effort to please, are all ugliness and gloom for their own, by whose love they live. The pleasant little pretenses of dress and person, adornment, which make the desire to please, are all gone for the admiration of those who admiration goes for nothing, while the house companions are treated only to the rugged, good and shabby beard, which, if marking the ease and comfort of home, mark also the indifference and disrespect that do so much damage to the sweetness and delicacy of daily life. And what is true of the domestic life, is both of the origin and temper of home, in both of which we too often find that want of respect which seems to run side by side with affection in the custom of familiarity.

WINTER'S BALM OF WILD CHERRY cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Hoarseness, and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest. 50 cents and $1 a bottle.

Vancouver's Doom.

Vancouver was executed at Kingston on the 28th June, for the murder of Richardson, at Buck Lake. A noticeable circumstance of the trial was, that, the prisoner did not hear the evidence or the sentence upon him pronounced, on account of deafness. He confessed that he shot the old man. The correspondent of the Toronto Globe gives the following particulars of the execution:—

The evening previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The evening previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of execution.

The morning previous he was placed under guard and he retired to his cell and apparently slept. In the morning he awoke daylight dressed, but refused to eat of food. He said he could not eat anything. About 7.30 Rev. Mr. Jolliffe, Vancouver's spiritual adviser, entered the cell and for a considerable time the two continued in conversation. At 11.45 o'clock the black flag was hoisted on the gall above the place of