whatever is pleasant to the taste must be unwholesome. Most of us have inherited the traditions of distetic puritanism, and have a vague conviction that nothing is wholesome with the exception of oatmeal and one or two equally loathsome sub-stitues for food. Then, too, there has lat-terly prevailed among medical and pseudo-medical men a belief that only those articles of food which can be easily di-gested should be eaten. Thus pork, which digests very slowly, is said to be unfit for human consumption, and we are Rival Hotel Porters. There has been a heap of trouble with the hotel porters at Union station recently. It seems that the Canadian Pacific railway conductors are advised to send all the re-turning laborers to a certain hotel on York unfit for human consumption, and we are urged to eat raw cysters because they are street, and several fights have ensued in urged to eat raw cysters because they are digested with scarcely any difficulty. The other day a distinguished American phys-ician asserted that dyspepsia is due to the care which most people nowadays take as to their diet. They eat very simple food, and constantly think of the present and future condition of their stomachs. The result is dyspepsia. LONDON, March 10.---It is definitely stated in court circles that the apologetic speech in the house of lords last week by Earl Granville was made at the express command of the queen, who insisted that sothing should be left undone to propitiate Germany. Bismarck has formelly ex-pressed satisfaction at Earl Granville's ex-planations.

The London Dynamitters' Counsel Ar-rested on Suspicion. LONDON, March 10.—While Quilliam, counsel for Cunningham and Burton, was about to board the train last evening with a friend who was carrying a black travel-ing bag similar to those which have so fre-quently figured in the dynamite trials, the detectives arrested both men. Outling quenty figured in the dynamite trials, the detectives arrested both men. Quilliam protested, but the constables took the prisoners to the station house. After sev-eral hours' detention Quilliam succeeded in establishing his identity and innocence, and his companion proved that the bag contained nothing unlawfal. The prison-ers were then released with profuse apolo-gies on the part of the police,

INSURRECTION IN ALBANIA.

A Turkish Force Defeated and a Garrison Beleaguered. SALONICA, March 10.—An insurrection has broken out in Albania. All available has broken out in Albania. All available Turkish troops are being hurried to the scene. A force of Turkish regulars has been defeated by the insurgents near Lyoumet. At Prisrend the garrison has been driven into the oftadel by the insur-gents and is now besieged. The Austrian consul and orthodox priests have taken refuge in the citadel. The insurgents have telegraph lines communicating with the districts in rebellion.

CABLE NOTES.

Austria and Hungary have decided to raise the duties on foreign grain. Sixty volunteer engineers have been accepted for active service from Newcastle-on-Tyne and Jarrow.
