

Wise and Otherwise.

Did you ever think what a tremendous variety of people are joined together in the one common interest of stamp collecting? Political, social, and religious differences seem to be forgotten for the time, as the one absorbing topic is discussed. If we could only persuade everybody to become stamp collectors, how many of the vexatious questions that bother people now might be amicably settled while under the influence of Philately. Perhaps some of these days one of our brainy collectors will think out a scheme that will make Philately of more universal benefit than it is at present.

Toronto collectors seem to have at last awoken to the fact that our city has the material in it for a first-class local society. The matter has been talked about and discussed for a long time, and I think everybody is ready to set to work with a will, now that a start has been made. A feeling of general co-operation and earnestness seemed to prevail at the initial meeting the other evening, and great things may be looked for from the Toronto Philatelic Club.

I know a gentleman who has what he calls his "pick-up" collection. It consists of all the varieties of stamps he has happened to pick up on the street, and it makes quite an interesting book full.
