

To the Churches.

For several years past I have had five times as many requests to hold protracted meetings as I could possibly respond to, on account of my pastoral duties. As I have now notified the Euclid Avenue Church that my pastorate will cease on Sept. 1 of this year, and will therefore be foot-loose from that date, I propose to devote myself to evangelistic work for a considerable period, if I find I am needed. I would be glad to hear, as soon as possible, from churches desiring my services during the coming season, so that I may arrange my programme at once.

THE LAWS OF BUSINESS is the title of a book just published by C. A. Fleming, Principal of the Northern Business College, Owen Sound. We have examined the work somewhat carefully, and have no hesitation in saying that it is a most valuable book for business men as well as for those preparing for business life. It is clear, concise and pointed. The entire work can be mastered in about sixty lessons, when the average student will be well-fitted for ordinary business. It will also be found invaluable as a book of reference.

Mr. Fleming is the author of several other works, such as "Practical Mensuration," "How to Write a Business Letter," "Thirty Lessons in Punctuation," "Self Instruction in Penmanship," etc.

He has gained a wide reputation as a practical business man as well as a teacher of business laws, and we have no doubt that wherever his former works have been circulated the "Laws of Business" will be well-received.

The following extract from the preface will give an idea of the design of the author: "In the compilation of the following pages, the writer has endeavored to present to the reader in a concise and practical manner the leading principles of law as it relates to business, avoiding, as much as possible, the technical terms with which the subject is usually vested. The primary idea in writing this work was to supply students in business colleges, collegiate institutes and high schools, with a suitable text-book on the important subject of Commercial Law, and to place in their hands, the forms of legal commercial papers now generally used by business men, daily, in their transactions. It will be found a useful book of reference for business men, farmers, mechanics, and others, both as to the laws of trade and in furnishing suitable legal forms and directions for drawing and using the same in almost every case that may arise."

THE CHRISTIAN WORKER.

By DR. J. H. FOY.

This book is a Manual for Preachers and Church officials, containing appropriate Scripture selections, Outlines of Sermons and Talks for all occasions, forms and ceremonies for Marriages, Baptisms, Ordinations, Benedictions, Funerals, and other public occasions, and a complete summary of the Rules and Regulations governing Deliberative Assemblies. The work is highly recommended by all who have examined it, and is pronounced the most complete treatise of the kind before the public. Price, Cloth, 75 cts.; Morocco, $1.25.

TO RUPTURED PERSONS

Testimonial from a well-known Citizen.

To J. Y. Bean, Truss Manufacturer, Etc., 205 Queen Street West, Toronto, Ontario.

DECEMBER 31st, 1900. DEAR SIR,—My case was a severe one. Every effort of others only increased the trouble. They failed to hold me in every instance. They either did not understand my case or lacked the requisite skill. My impression is—all other trusses, at least those which I tried, are designed on false principles. You directed the difficulty at once, your first effort being crowned with success. It is now about four months since you adjusted my appliance and during all that time not the slightest appearance of trouble; previous to this I had not known one day's comfort for years. I can now safely attend to my business while wearing your grand appliance. In fact it is so easy and comfortable I am not physically conscious of wearing it—such a contrast to all others which were simply tortures without any redeeming qualities. The interest you evinced, the attention you have given, and your success in my case compels me to give you permission to publish these few lines as a light acknowledgment of your skill, and as an encouragement to other sufferers to consult you and be relieved. Very truly, ALEX. GIBB, Prop., Etc. Carlton Hotel, Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.
