AN AFTERTHOUGHT.

SHE—"That is an awfully clever and awfully true thing in 'Lady Windermere's Fan,' that a woman delights in taking a man who is irretrievably bad and leaving him hopelessly good."

HE—"Yes. But Oscar does not carry it all out."

SHE—"What do you mean?"

HE—"Well, how does her missionary work leave the woman?"

ONE of the professors in Cambridge has a little boy named Christopher. The sayings and doings of the son have passed into college history. It seems that one day the professor was lying on his sofa after a hard day's work in philosophy, and while in a state of unconscious cerebration, suddenly caught sight of Christopher on the floor. The professor gazed at the boy in deep silence. Then he said: "What would you do, Christopher, in case your father should die?"

Christopher thought for a moment. Then he lifted his eyes. "O, don't worry, father, there's time enough to think about that when you're dead."
