

TAKING PILLS.—Doctor—"Well, Pat, have you taken that box of pills I sent you?" Pat—"Yes, sur, be jabers, I have, but I don't feel any better. Maybe the lid hasn't come off yct."

It is sometimes a very difficult matter for a physician to decide as to which sanitarium he will send a particular case to. Some of those institutions are not what they are cracked up to be by any means, and it is just such places that very frequently make the practitioner fight shy of everything by the name of a sanitarium. One of the exceptions, however, to the above is that of Jackson Sanitarium, at Dansville, N. Y. Its situation is twelve hundred feet above the sea level, right on the side of a hill, and fairly hidden amongst the firs. It commands a simply magnificent view of the whole Genesee Valley, and by the visitor standing on the verandah directly over the front entrance, he can see for many miles in every direction. To our mind, nothing could be more conducive to health of mind, as well as body, as a stay of a few weeks to two months in this the Mecca of the United States.

"I don't feel right about going in there," said Chillison Feevor, in front of a physician's house. "Pshaw! He's one of the best doctors in the city," replied Coffin Coles. "I know, but look at his sign—'9 to 1'." "Well?" "Well, I don't take any such chances as that."
