THE DUTY ON CANADIAN TOBACCO.

Mr. AMYOT in moving for a statement respecting the amount in detail, by counties, of the revenue produced by the duty on Canadian tobacco; also the detailed amount of the sum it has cost to collect this duty, and the amount derived from the fines imposed for the violation of the law on Canadian tobacco, the whole from 1st January to 31st December, 1881, said: Mr. Speaker, it is not my intention to make an exhaustive speech on the question upon which I wish to throw some light. When the information which I require shall be before the House, it will, I think, be an easy task for me to prove that there is really no protection for Canadian tobacco, or in other words, that the cultivation of that plant does not participate in the advantages generally derived by the Tariff. It is admitted by those who know something about tobacco that there is between Canadian and American tobacco a difference between their intrinsic value of at least 7 cents a pound. Taking this as a standpoint, Mr. Speaker, and admitting that there is a difference in the intrinsic value, and then comparing the differential duty of 14 cents on Canadian tobacco with that of 20 cents on foreign manufactured tobacco, it will at once be found that there is a difference of 1 cent of protection in favor of foreign tobacco. If, in the next place, one calculates in detail the cost of foreign tobacco and of Canadian manufactured tobacco, it will be necessarily shown that this lack of protection represents much more than 1 cent. I have obtained from large manufacturers figures that prove that in order to give growers any kind of protection on Canadian tobacco as compared with American manufactured tobacco, it will be requisite to make a change in the actual duty and reduce from 14 to 6 cents the duty levied on it at present; thus, if one calculates the cost proper of tobacco, the cost of its carriage into town, the amount to be paid to the manufacturer, and if one adds thereto the profit of the manufacturer and of the retailer, one will find that one gets very good American tobacco at 37½ cents a pound. This,
