

you (mòran 'nad chomuinn), arrived a few days later ('na dhéigh). I and all your other friends here are well. John has gone (chaidh) to Halifax and will probably call to see you. Nothing of importance has disturbed the usual monotony of our country life. I am (I'mise) ever (a h-uile là a chi 'us nach fhaic) your faithful friend, Evan.

GAELIC-ENGLISH VOCABULARY.

NOTE.—Accent all words on the first syllable; except compound words whose parts are separated by a hyphen (-), which are accented on the first syllable of each part.

a, poss. pron. (Ex. XIII) his.	n.), number; v., p. dh'
See §48.	àireamh, fut. àirmheidh,
ach, conj. but, except.	number, reckon, count.
ad, after ann. =do, pers.	àird, n. 2. f. height, prom-
pron. thy.	otory, point of the com-aghaidh, n. 6. f. (-nean), face,	pass.
countenance; an aghaidh,	àiridh, a. 2. , worthy, ex-
against; air aghaidh, for-	cellent.
ward.	ais, n. always used with air;
àgh, n. 1. m. , prosperity,	air ais, comp. adv. , back,
delight.	backwards, a redundant
àille, n. 6. f. , beauty.	poss. pron. is s.-t. pld.
àillidh, a. 2. , beautiful ex-	betw. air & ais.
quisite.	àite, n. 6. m. , (-an or -achan, ainneamh, a. 1. , rare, seldom	n.) place; 'an aite, comp. àinnir, n. 2. f. , (-an, g.),	prep. instead of; àite-
virgin, maiden.	còmhnuidh, dwelling,
aintighearn, n. 3. m. , tyrant.	abode.
aire, n. 6. f. , heed, attention.	aithne, n. 6. f. , knowledge;
àireamh, n. 1. f. (-a, or -an,	is...dhomh, I know (§73)