

CHAPTER V.

1711 to 1779.

Discoveries of the Russians from Kamtschatka—Voyages of Bering and Tchirikof to the Arctic Sea and to the American Continent, 129—Establishments of the Russian Fur Traders in the Aleutian Islands, 135—Voyages of Synd, Krenitzin, and Levshel, 137—First Voyage from Kamtschatka to China, made by Polish Esiles under Benyowsky, 138—General Inaccuracy of the Ideas of the Russians respecting the Geography of the northernmost Coasts of the Pacific, before 1779, 139.

CHAPTER VI.

1763 to 1780.

Great Britain obtains Possession of Canada, 140—Journey of Carver to the Upper Mississippi, 141—First Mention of the Oregon River, 142—Inaccuracy of Carver's Statements, 143—Journeys of Hearne through the Regions west of Hudson's Bay, 145—Voyage of Captain Cook to the North Pacific, 147—His important Discoveries in that Quarter, and Death, 157—Return of his Ships to Europe; Occurrences at Canton during their Stay in that Port, 159.

CHAPTER VII.

1780 to 1789.

Commercial Results of Cook's Discoveries, 160—Settlements of the Russians in America, 161—Scheme of Ledyard for the Trade of the North Pacific, 162—Voyage of La Pérouse, 163—Direct Trade between the American Coasts and Canton commenced, 165—Voyages of the English Fur Traders—Re-discovery of the Strait of Fuca, 171—Voyage of Meares, who endeavors to find a great River described by the Spaniards, 175—First Voyages from the United States to the South Pacific, and to Canton, 179—Voyage of the Columbia and Washington, under Kendrick and Gray, from Boston to the North Pacific, 180.

CHAPTER VIII.

1788 and 1789.

Uncasiness of the Spanish Government at the Proceedings of the Fur Traders in the North Pacific, 183—Voyages of Observation by Martinez and Haro to the Russian American Settlements, 185—Remonstrances of the Court of Madrid to that of St. Petersburg, against the alleged Encroachments of the latter Power, 186—Martinez and Haro sent by the Viceroy of Mexico to take Possession of Nootka Sound, 187—Claims of Spain examined, 188—Seizure of British and other Vessels at Nootka by Martinez, 191—Captain Gray, in the Washington, explores the East Coast of Queen Charlotte's Island, and enters the Strait of Fuca, 199—Kendrick, in the Washington, passes through the Strait of Fuca—Return of the Columbia to the United States, 200.

CHAPTER IX.

1790.

Controversy between Great Britain and Spain respecting the North-West Coasts of America and the Navigation of the Pacific, 202—The Owners of the Vessels seized at Nootka apply for Redress to the British Government, which demands Satisfaction for the alleged Outrages, 203—Spain resists the Demand, and calls on France for Aid, agreeably to the